Spring Flowers Make Debut in Umpqua Valley

January showers bring May flowers in February in the beautiful Umpqua valley. Complying with a request in a recent News-Review editorial, several persons brought bouquets of first spring wild flowers to the office Saturday. R. K. Patterson, who lives at the Soldiers Home, was the first with specimens of buttercups, trilliums and lamb's tongues. In addition to a number of the little Mayflowers, Mrs. W. S. Hamilton brought a quantity of large fully bloomed lamb's tongues, and Oswald Kershen, 717 Hamilton street, also brought some of the same flower.

For the past week newspapers in Medford and Eugene have been competing with each other to see which city should produce the first spring wild flowers. Roseburg is now able to announce that the season's first lamb's tongues and other wild spring flowers indigenous to southern Oregon were found here.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Attractions AT THE MOVIES

ANTLERS—Today and Tuesday, all-talking sensation "Street Girl," with Betty Compson; Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, "Hot For Paris," with Victor McLaglen, Fifi Dorsay, El Brendel, all-talking; Saturday, "Seven Faces," all-talking, with Paul Muni.

LIBERTY—Today and Tuesday, all-talking, "The Grease Murder Case," with William Powell; Wednesday, Thursday, "The Viking," entirely in technicolor; Friday and Saturday, "Broadway Hoofers," all-talking.

New Talking Equipment at Antlers Perfect; "Street Girl" Praised.

NEW talking movie equipment, installed at a cost of $15,000, gave its initial service at the Antlers theatre in Roseburg Sunday afternoon and evening, and sent large audiences away highly pleased. Material improvement in projection and illumination was remarked and synchronization of sound and picture was practically perfect. Congratulations are due the theatre management for such a progressive step—a step that insures constantly pleased and growing patronage.

"Street Girl," featuring Betty Compson in the leading role, was the vehicle with which the new equipment made its debut to local theatre-goers. This attraction, together with an equally colorful and sparkling added number, provided an ideal opportunity for the new machinery to give full proof of its capabilities. The cast supporting Miss Compson included Joseph Cawthorn, a leader among American comedians, who appeared in person on a Roseburg stage about 25 years ago.

THEATRE managers seem to find competition in Amos 'n' Andy. At least one Portland theatre now stops its show every night at 8:30 and tunes in to a local station so nobody will have Amos 'n' Andy as an excuse for not appearing at the box office before 9 o'clock.

"THE Grease Murder Case," which opened last night at the new Liberty as an all-talking, is another S. S. Van Dine mystery story. The acting is superb. This is a picture worth seeing—particularly if you like mystery. William Powell as Philo Vance, detective de luxe, gives a finished performance, and he is ably supported.
