Magnolia then assisted Scott to his corner, but the latter refused to go on with the fight, claiming he had been fouled. Sharkey was declared the winner.

Harry Straus, 13 (left), of Chicago, whose story to Chicago police reads like a chapter from "Oliver Twist." The boy is a burglar and confessed that his mother, Mrs. Helen Joiner (right), shared his loot, and her sweetheart schooled him in the art of burglary, designated the places which he was to rob, and disposed of the loot. In the mother's apartment police found jewelry estimated to be worth $25,000, and her sweetheart wore a 4500 diamond ring.

REVIEW GRANTED ON BUYER ANGLE OF LIQUOR LAW

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The government was granted a review today by the supreme court, to test whether the purchaser of liquor who gives an order for its delivery knowing that the order involves illegal transportation, is guilty of conspiracy with the bootlegger to violate the federal prohibition law.

The case was set for hearing April 14.

The government is requesting the review said it did not involve whether a purchaser of liquor was equally guilty with the bootlegger but did not raise the question of whether the man who placed the order had conspired with the seller.

The importance of the controversy was emphasized by the government in requesting the review. It raised the question in the case of Alfred E. Norris, a New York banker, who it was alleged placed orders with Joel D. Kerper of Philadelphia. The government contended Norris knew that in so doing the question of illegal transportation would be involved.
