Social events taking place in this city during the past week have been greatly varied and have been outstanding in the amount of interest taken by Roseburg people. The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Murray was observed on Tuesday by a family dinner and an informal afternoon tea, which was attended by many friends. The annual Legion auxiliary spring fashion show held at the Audubon theatre last night was another big event of the week. Local merchants and their models received much favorable comment on the showing made.

Mrs. Paul Huber and Mrs. Leon McClintock entertained with two bridge parties with a large number of guests. The lodge activities and the social events of the surrounding country have been very numerous.

Dainty spring flowers, daffodils, narcissus, pussywillows and tulips have made the room decorations extremely lovely and the St. Patrick motif has been used throughout with great effectiveness.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

One of the most outstanding social events of the week was the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Murray of this city, on Tuesday at their home on East Douglas street.

The color scheme carried the golden idea throughout. Golden yellow tapers, lovely golden flowers—daffodils, yellow narcissus with golden centers, anemone and tulips. Some beautiful red American Beauty roses were sent from California. A three-tiered wedding cake baked for the occasion carrying out the golden motif was served to the many guests throughout the afternoon.

Earlier in the day a dinner was given for twenty guests consisting of various members of the family and very close friends. All their daughters, Mrs. Clara Baker of Bakerfield, California, Mrs. Lella Starr of San Francisco, and Mrs. Story Iles of this city were present. Also two friends who had attended the wedding, Mrs. Minnie Haven of Grants Pass and James H. Murray of Camas Valley, were at the dinner.

Many of the guests of the afternoon signed an autograph book; among these were Mrs. Storey Iles, Mrs. Cora Baker, J. W. Friend, J. G. Belieu, Mrs. J. W. Friend, Rhoda Murray, Mrs. J. G. Belieu, Beth Haven, Steve Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell, Minnie Haven, A. W. Coon, H. J. Dean, G. W. Doney, Mrs. Lella Starr, J. H. Murray, John McKean, Miss Frances Chapman, Mrs. James H. Clark, Thomas V. Church, Lloyd Chambers, Mrs. Orr, Mrs. Clemens, Edith Stargis, Mrs. Ida Stargis, Mrs. Roy Catching, Shirley Knight, Mrs. Rose E. Taylor, Garland Iles, Clara J. Baker, Mrs. S. L. Kidder, Lella Starr, Mrs. Georgia Miller, John T. Long and others.

Many gifts appropriate for the occasion and scores of telegrams and cards of congratulation were received from all parts of the country.

In honor of the anniversary Mrs. Edna Baker, wife of the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Murray, wrote the poem:

The flowers that bloom, the birds that sing,
The butterflies on the gilded wing,
The brook that glides so gaily by,
The fleecy clouds in bright blue sky

Make up the song within my heart
Of which you are the vital part.
The years have flown on golden wings,
But ah! This heart of mine still sings,

For what I read in your dear eyes
Reminds me—true love never dies,
And youth in love, and love in youth,
Dear, you and I, well know the truth:

Our hearts stayed young to lead the way
To this—our golden wedding day!

Spring Fashions for Formal and Informal Wear Show Charm

WAISTLINE
← BELT WITH BOW.
SILHOUETTE OF WHITE
← MOIRE, DEMBERG AND SILK
FULL SKIRT WITH WIDE HEM.

Consider this gown of beige crepe de Chine quite the thing for the afternoon. The dress was cut and followed along the Princess line, and the tight-fitting sleeves to flare just below the elbow. The square neck and the rippling skirt, which is in three tiers, are added attractions to this creation. The hat, of horsehair, and the fox fur, complement the dress.

Left, a young lady is displaying a one-piece cannelot costume of St. Germaine green tulle. Distinctive features of this creation are the box pleat which circles the skirt and a flowing cape. Right: smart simplicity is achieved in a tailored model of sharkskin, featuring a pleated waistline and wrap-around skirt.
