"Hit the Deck" Coming Sunday

Jack Oakie and Polly Walker in the new musical comedy, "Hit the Deck," which opens at the Antlers Sunday to play three days.

"BIGGER and better"—to borrow an ancient and often abused movie slogan—briefly describes Radio Pictures' version of the popular stage success "Hit the Deck."

More than a million dollars and three months' time were spent in making the film. Elaborate sets which required an army of workmen many weeks to build, a chorus of 150 trained dancers and a unit stock company of 300 selected players—were on constant call.

Thirty-five thousand dollars were spent on wardrobe alone. This provided numerous changes for the women principals, Polly Walker, June Clyde, Ethel Clayton and Marguerita Padua. Radio Pictures' dancing girls directed by David Eaton, appearing in several sequences, introduced new and exotic costumes in each. There were 145 sailor uniforms, including 24 for chief petty officers, 24 for ensigns, 24 U. S. marine outfits, and seven high-ranking officers including the admiral.

Three sets were built at an approximate cost of $200,000 involving 300 men working in three shifts for five weeks. This included an exact replica of the forward deck of the U. S. S. West Virginia. The deck was completely equipped with cabins, bridge, gangways, a revolving gun turret, and four new model 14-inch naval guns.

This battleship sequence and several of the other ship scenes were made in technicolor.

Polly Walker, who is Looolee in the play, was imported from the New York stage. Roger Gray and Frank Woods enacted the roles in the film which they created in the original version.

"JAZZ HEAVEN" makes its bid for local acclaim at the Liberty Sunday. John Mack Brown and Sally O'Neil are in the featured roles.

Sally O'Neil sings for the first time on the screen in "Jazz Heaven," while John Mack Brown, cast as the young composer, both plays and sings.

The picture brings to the talking screen for the first time a reproduction of a large broadcasting station. The locale has been screened with authenticity, giving a real pictorialization of the manner in which radio programs are put on the air.

Days Creek P. T. A. Holds Enjoyable Program and Dinner

A most enjoyable social event of last week-end dinner and program sponsored by the Days Creek P. T. A. on Friday evening. The large auditorium was beautifully decorated with large baskets of spring flowers in pastel shades. Low bowls of flowers of the same shades graced the tables making a beautiful setting for the dairy chicken dinner served to the large gathering of guests.

While the guests were being seated, the high school orchestra entertained with several numbers, and during the dinner the girls' chorus gave a number of vocal numbers and Fritz Snyder gave two piano numbers.

C. C. Hill, toastmaster, called on a number for short talks. Archie Ferguson, president, gave the welcome from the P. T. A. J. C. Leedy, county agent, gave a short and instructive talk on club work. Mrs. John Ferguson gave a report of the year's work of the organization, and Archie Elliott of Myrtle Creek made a few well chosen remarks on the club work and future benefit to the community. Mr. J. A. Snyder, chairman of the high school board, briefly sketched the history of the Days Creek school and its progress in the last 25 years. Fritz and Carl Hill then entertained with a piano and saxophone duet. Following the school announcements, the program closed with an orchestra number, which was followed by a social hour.

A nice sum was realized, which will be used as a fund to send several students to the 4-H summer school at Corvallis. Those in charge of Friday evening's pleasant affair were V. N. Phelps and A. Kirby; program: the dinner committee consisted of Mrs. Archie Ferguson, Mrs. Pete Ham, Mrs. W. Hutchinson, Mrs. Frank Alvord, assisted by Mrs. H. Blugham, Mrs. N. N. Woods, Misses Beatrice Worthington and Dolly Knight. Mrs. John Ferguson was in charge of the decorations.

Among those from outside the district attending the dinner and program were J. C. Leedy of Roseburg, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ritter, Tiller; Mr. Darrel Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Max Kimmel and son, Riddle; Mrs. John Hamlin, Mrs. Ira Poole, Miss Birdie Hamlin, Edie Hamlin, Mrs. W. W. Willis and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Higelow; Mrs. Jennie Hopkins and son, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hopkins, Canyonville; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Elliott and son, Myrtle Creek.

Lady Elks Meet Thursday Evening in Club Rooms

Mrs. George Wharton was a charming hostess to the Lady Elks on Thursday evening of this week at their meeting in the club rooms. The rooms were beautifully decorated with tris, tulips, spruce and other spring flowers attractively arranged. A large bowl of lovely roses centered the serving table.

DEAF SCHOOL HEAD TO ANSWER CHARGES

SALEM, Ore., April 26.—The state board of control expects, in a few days, to hear the testimony of J. Lyman Steed, superintendent of the state school for deaf, who is the target of complaints lodged with the board by the state association of the deaf and by some pupils at the school and their parents.

His testimony of the complaints was heard yesterday. The main complaint about Steed appeared to be accusations that his methods of instruction have retarded the progress of the students.

It was further declared that no student from the Oregon school has gone to college since Steed took charge of the school about four years ago, while a number went to college after finishing under former superintendents.
