"TRUST BUSTING" CRUSADE DENIED

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The department of justice in a statement today said it was not starting a "trust busting" campaign and that there was no occasion for any such campaign.

The department said developments in economic life bring forward new problems in relation to to the Sherman act which have to be clarified by the courts.

"Where they are cases of actual and deliberate violation of the act, the department proceeds to enforce the law," the statement said. "There is no change in policy in respect of any of these matters."

The statement did not say what called it forth.

GOVERNMENT SELLS TIMBER ACREAGE

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

PORTLAND, Ore., May 15.—Fred E. Ames, district regional forester, announced today that a tract of 2500 acres of timber on the Sauk river in the Snoqualmie national forest in Washington had been purchased by the Sauk River company, Everett, Wash. That company submitted the only bid for the timber.

Ames said the terms proposed were $3 a thousand feet for 140,000 feet of Douglas fir, cedar and pine and $1 a thousand for 42,200,000 feet of hemlock, silver fir and small lots of other species.

MRS. KING JOINS ACCUSED HUSBAND

EUREKA, Cal., May 15.—Mrs. Eunice Pardee King, wife of Clarence L. King, charged with murdering Minnie McCoy near here Feb. 20, arrived today from Corvallis, Ore., to be be with her husband during the murder trial which opens May 26. A jury list numbering 125 names was drawn in superior court today.

Eat barbecue sandwiches and live forever. Brand's Road Stand.

Fresh salmon eggs at Idleyld Park.—Adv.

Arundel, piano tuner. Phone 189-L.

'WHERE'S EMILY?'

by Carolyn Wells

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

Preparations are being made for the marriage of lovely Emily Duane to Rodney Sayre, upstanding young New Englander, at her home, "Knollwood," in exclusive Hilldale Park. Emily is thrilled with the diamond necklace presented to her by Rod.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER III.

Emily flew across the room to a mirror, and peacocked and pirouetted about, as she viewed her precious necklace from all angles and lights.

"How do you like it?" she smiled, leaning over the back of a chair, and letting the chain of stones run over the velvet cushions.

"Perfect!" declared Betty, and Sayre looked at the smiling eyes that held his.

Very dark, Emily's eyes were, almost black, and their white lids, often falling over them, gave her at times the look of a siren.

Her face had a natural pallor, and though she carefully tinted it now and then from her compact, yet, her rouge did not hold like the other girls' and much of the time Emily was positively pale.

"Red up, Emily, do," cried Nell. "You look like your own ghost!"

"Lal Singh won't think you're pretty if you're so white!" Pete declared. "Is he coming to rehearsal?"

"The Swami?" Emily tried to speak calmly, and did, too, but a quiver of her eyelids showed her slight embarrassment.

"Yes," said Lamb, seeing a chance to tease; "I was going to tell his Reverence, the Garner, that you had left your fortune to Lally, but I was 'fraid you mightn't want me to——"

"Husn your nonsense, Burt!" Sayre shot at him. "Do you s'pose I'm going to let you rag my wife——"

"Your wife!"

"Same as. Anyway, if you say a word she doesn't want you to, I'll——"

"There, there, Roddy, boy," said Emily, standing behind him and putting a hand over his mouth.

Then she tweaked his thick, wavy hair, of a golden, almost yellow gloss, and announced:

"Gentlemen prefer to be blonds!"

Whereupon Rodney jumped up and went to her.

Very dear she looked, caught in Sayre's arms, her lovely head drooping on his shoulder, and her necklace dangling like a flashing thread of light.

Her dark bobbed hair was long enough to shake its soft curly sides and close-clipped at the back.

Leaning back against her big, strong lover, she stood, unconcernedly smiling at the others.

"And now," she said, "we must get ready for the rehearsal. Spinks will be here about six, and I have to get into my——"

"Oh, Emily, you're not going to wear your wedding gown at rehearsal!" and Aunt Judy looked really aghast.

"No, no, ducky; I've a sort of dummy frock, a make-believe wedding dress, with a long train and veil and all that. I'm going to rehearse in that."

"Going to rehearse in the church?" asked Gibby.

"No, too much trouble. We'll just go through the paces here. You see Spinks——"

"Who is Spinks?" asked Pete.

"Why he'e the funeral director. You needn't laugh, because he is that, too. He takes full charge of the wedding parade, and you must all do exactly as he says. And obey him, or he'll get awfully mad——"

"That reminds me, Emily," Lamb put in, "Friend Garner is terribly alarmed for fear you won't say 'obey' in the service——"

"Is he?" said Emily, indifferently "then to tease him, I think I'll say 'Oh, boy!' I heard of somebody who did——"

"Will the Penningtons be here?" asked Aunt Judy, to turn the subject.

"Oh, yes, Pauline is matron of honor. They're coming over for tea, too. Be here any minute."

"Is the Swami coming?" This from Lamb.

"I hope so," and Emily faced him. "Oh, please do like my Swami-wammi! Don't paste him all the time. Remember he communes with unseen worlds; he contemplates the Over-Soul——"

"Hush, Emily! What are you saying? Are you talking of Lal Singh?"

This speech, in irate and excited tones, came from the red, very red lips of a young woman just entering.

She was obviously angry, and as evidently the cause of her ire was the overhearing of Emily's words.

"Oh, Polly, dear!" and Emily flew to greet the newcomer and kissed her with effusion.

Followed Jim Pennington, the husband of the angry Pauline, and in a moment all the disturbance had blown over, tea was brought in, and everybody grew gay.

"Are you really the Mr. Pennington who writes those—those plays that I'm not allowed to go to?" Betty asked the man who sat beside her.

"I hope so," he returned, with a grave smile. "I mean I hope you're not allowed to go to my plays."

"Why not?" And Betty's round, chubby face registered fine indignation. "Girls nowadays can go to anything evil, see anything evil, hear anything evil——"

"You sound like the Japanese monkeys," Pennington laughed at her. "And don't say 'nowadays' to me! I'm not your uncle."

Jim Pennington was a man of thirty, but to flapper Betty he seemed a generation removed. He was an erratic playwright, some of his work achieving marked success and some falling flat. One of his plays had been suppressed and others ought to have been, but they were not quite popular enough to make it worth while.

He was not distinguished-looking in any way, but his bored, languid air and his soft, drawling voice had an attraction for some women.

He made slight appeal to Betty, however, who liked her men louder and funnier.

"How'd you come to marry your wife?" she said, feeling she ought to startle a playwright.

"She made me," returned Pennington, straightforwardly.

"Why, what a churlish speech!" He stared at her, and comprehended.

"Oh," he laughed, "I didn't mean it that way! I mean she was the making of me—of my career. Her sympathy and help——"

"I see—your dearest friend and severest critic—or whatever it is. She's very beautiful, too."

"Yes; if she weren't quite so pretty she'd be the most beautiful woman in the world."

"Does that mean anything?" asked Betty, idly. She was bored with the man and didn't want to waste any sparkle on him.

"Not to you, I dare say. Are you to be maid of honor?"

"Yes, and Mrs. Pennington is matron of honor. I know we'll do well together."

"Watch your step, then. Polly is a marvel when she's in regalia."

"So'm I," returned Betty; "what's she going to wear?"

"Lord, I don't know. Let me see—she should wear—oh, well, nothing short of a complete Carmen costume brings out her best points."

"Yes, I can see that. She's a perfect Carmen. That wonderful black hair, those eyes—even the very way her cigarette droops from her lips. Do you care for any other woman, Mr. Pennington?"

"Woman? No. Women? Yes. I adore many of them. May I adore you?"

"Fraid I haven't time. There are so many enticing strangers here. Look at that man who just came in! Is he the one they're all crazy about?"

"Yes, he's the Swami. His name is Lal Singh, I think he's a faker."

"Fakir with an i or an e?"

"All the same. Want to meet him?"

Betty did, and the two went across to where the Swami and Emily were talking together, a little apart from the rest.

"Do we intrude?" said Pennington lightly. "Miss Bailey wants to meet a real live celebrity."

Lal Singh bowed, gravely accepting the compliment.

Whereupon Betty monopolized him, and Emily turned to Pennington.

"Where's Polly?" he asked.

"In the present room. Oh, Penn, look at my necklace! Isn't it perfect?"

"Let me see it," and Pauline Pennington came toward them. "Yes, Emily, it's awfully good. Might have been a bit heavier——"

"Not at all. I wouldn't have it of larger stones. Just because Penn gave you a Kohinoor——"

Polly held up her chin, als if to show off better the diamond pendant that had been her wedding gift six years ago.

(To be Continued Tomorrow)

(Copyright 1930, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

14 YALE STUDENTS DRAW SUSPENSIONS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 15.—Fourteen Yale students today found themselves suspended from recitations for the remainder of the college year by order of Dean Clarence W. Mendall of the college, as an outcome of the student disturbance last Thursday night.

The disciplinary notice also deprived sixteen students of the privilege to live in a college dormitory next year "because of the disorder in their rooms" that night.

Economy Grocery

344 N. Jackson — O. L. JOHNSON — Phone 63

Specials Saturday and Monday

PURE CANE SUGAR 10 lbs. for 57c

UMPQUA CHIEF FLOUR 49 lb. sack $1.69

P. and G. Naptha Soap, 10 bars 34c

Quaker Rolled Oats 9 lb. bag 48c

Royal Club Coffee 1 lb. tin 42c

Market Day Raisins 4 lb. bag 32c

Kellogg's Shredded Wheat 2 packages for 24c

Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate 1 lb. tin 33c

Fancy Del Maiz Corn No. 2 tins, 2 for 37c

Honey Grahams Crackers 2-lb. carton 34c

Rinso Large pkg. 23c

Albers Flapjack Flour Large pkg. 24c

California Red Beans 3 lbs. for 23c

We deliver to all parts of the city twice each day. Any size order large or small. Our stock of home grown vegetables is complete.

Pacific Coast Highway Run Proves 200 EXTRA Miles in MOTORITE

High Compression Oil Gave 200 Extra Miles! Examining MOTORITE after Pacific Coast highway trip are, left to right, E. W. Hutton, Assistant Manager, Lubricating Oil Sales, Union Oil Company, William E. Bush, Southern California distributor for De Soto Cars, and Ted Simpson, driver. The strictly stock De Soto 8 used for the test is in the background.

Other vital lubrication facts noted in strictly stock car test

THIS run was made to determine exactly what a Motorist can expect from MOTORITE, (the new Union oil for high compression cars) on a long distance vacation trip.

A strictly stock De Soto Straight 8 with all accessory equipment was selected for the test.

The start was made from San Diego, where the crank case was filled with MOTORITE and sealed. No oil was added until the car reached Seattle (1555.6 miles), when the seal was broken and the oil drained for analysis. New oil was put in and the crank case again sealed for the return trip to Los Angeles.

The round trip comprised 2683 miles.

During the entire distance an average speed of 40.4 m. p. h. was maintained.

Oil consumption averaged 1216 miles per gallon—216 extra miles of lubrication.

Water consumption was 1442 miles per quart—testimony to MOTORITE'S great ability to carry away and dissipate heat. This is even more significant when you consider that much of the mileage traveled was through mountains or over hot inland boulevards.

Examination of cylinders showed a complete absence of hard carbon particles.

Chemical analysis of the oil after the run showed only 1.4% dilution, proving that MOTORITE seals the compression in and thus prevents gasoline particles from reaching the crank case.

Did Not Thin!

The viscosity of MOTORITE did not reduce one degree. It did not thin down. The oil was as viscous or thick after the run as it was before . . . a vital factor in the economical operation of your car. Cars using MOTORITE exclusively require fewer engine repairs, tests show.

Use It Exclusively!

The way to profit from this strictly stock car test run is to use MOTORITE exclusively in your own high compression car. By so doing you may drain your crank case 200 miles farther than you have been in the habit of doing and receive better lubrication all the while.

25¢ a Quart

The immense public demand for MOTORITE enables the Union Oil Company to deliver it to you for only 25¢ a quart.

Obtain it at any Union Oil Company station or wherever you see the MOTORITE sign. Use it with Super UNION-ETHYL for best results in high compression motoring.

MOTORITE
A UNION MOTOR OIL

MOTORITE

THE UNION MOTOR OIL FOR HIGH COMPRESSION CARS

Camp in Comfort with Economical Equipment from "Western Auto"

For safe, convenient, comfortable travelling—sleeping—cooking—and eating . . . for lazy lolling around camp too . . . we offer just the right equipment, at just the right pleasing prices western folks have learned to expect from "Western Auto." Your nearest store will be only too glad to help you select, most economically, all you need for happier outdoor hours.

Here are a few of the many pleasingly priced articles you'll find at your nearest "Western Auto" Store . . .

Standard Auto Tent

Most popular for hunting trips, tours, beach and picnic parties. Top of tent extends well down over opposite side of car. Heavy and substantial material. 7x7, with 3-foot wall in back. White canvas, complete with stakes and poles $7.45

"Palmetto" Auto Tent

Screen windows, awning and pocket, complete with pole and stakes. 7x10 size $17.65
Other tents ..... $9.85 to $41.85

Vacuum Bottles and Jugs

Every well chosen outfit should include vacuum jugs and jars. They are offered in several styles for keeping foods and liquids hot or cold.
"Dandy," pint 90c
Quart $1.75
Other vacuum bottles, $1.85 to $5
Gallon Jugs ..... $1.85 to $2.95

A Dependable Battery

"Wizard and "Western Giant" Storage Batteries are powerful, lasting and dependable. Tremendous volume enables us to offer them at unusually low prices. According to car and size ..... $5.95 up
Installed FREE

All-Steel Folding Bed

Very strong and substantial. Resilient coil springs. Will not sag or warp out of shape. Folds up into small, compact unit for easy carrying or packing on side of car. Accommodates two large persons $6.45
Angelus Folding Spring Bed—larger, 24 coil springs $9.85

Genuine "Gold Medal" Folding Cots

High quality hardwood frame covered with canvas.
$2.95 and $4.25

In Summer—More Than Ever You Need Seat Covers . . .

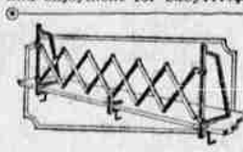
At "Western Auto," the most complete choice of seat covers ever offered by any one concern makes it easy—and Economical—for you to select a set within your budget, that will harmonize perfectly with your car interior, and prove a lasting protection for your upholstery.
According to car make and model, and style of covers—priced from $1.85 to $40.50.

Poncho Mattress

The ideal mattress for your camping trip. Size open is 48"x 76", and when rolled up is 48"x 12". Waterproof Pantasote covering protects you from dampness. Heavy cold-proof lining protects from chill $7.30
Mattress Pads—khaki covered—$2.95 and $4.97.

Chairs and Stools

Take one for each person—All kinds, from 70c to $3.95.
Folding Camp Tables—light and strong.....$3.95 and $4.95
Ride-Along Baby Seat—comfort and enjoyment for baby....$3.25



Take Your Extras in Collapsible Luggage Carriers

All the extras that usually fill up the back of the car and cause aches and pains from cramped riding can be carried on the running board with luggage carriers. Every car should have one or two ..... $1.10 to $2.25

Aluminum Cooking Kits

Everything you need for four persons. Includes 2 kettles with lids, 1 skillet, 1 coffee pot, 4 plates, 4 cups, and cold handle—all heavy aluminum $5.95
Victor Aluminum Kit — extra heavy—with more pieces $8.85

"Prentiss-Weber" Camp Stove

A folding camp stove which meets every requirement of the tourist or camper. Made of sheet steel. Folds up like a suitcase. Gasoline tank and burners are latest approved design—safe and durable.... $3.95
Basford Camp Stoves, $7.75 to $10.65.

Good TIRES are Important

Be sure your tires are all in A-1 condition before you start out on your trip. Take no chances but trade your doubtful tires in now on guaranteed, economical Western Giant or Wear-well Tires. "Western Auto" protects you with their Unlimited Guarantee, backed by Tire Service all over the West.

·169 Stores in the West·

Western Auto Supply Co.

117 South Stephens St.
Phone 97 Roseburg, Ore.