THE DAIRY train, sponsored by Oregon State college, is touring the state in the interests of a state-wide campaign for dairy products consumption. In connection with the tour authoritative speakers on the dairy industry are giving talks.

Altogether, the tour is one that ought to stimulate good results and have the co-operation of farmers everywhere. We all need to be reminded occasionally how important good milk, butter and other dairy products are to us, and the farmer needs to be reminded, and reminded often, that good cows and right feeding pay.

WHY does Mayor Baker of Portland get so much publicity? Why is his face so well known on the Pacific Coast? Why not? He is ready at any moment to greet the doctor, the merchant, the banker, the grocer, and the farmer, when they come through enroute to convention headquarters. Because he is a happy friend to all Portlanders as well as a capable executive. Because he knows how to grin, and how to make you do the same thing. In this rests the quality of modern day persuasion. The world's affairs are so competitive that men become almost equal in ability. Almost, but not quite, for often a smile and a willing nature establish precedence over ordinary quality. No wonder Mayor Baker is well known.

THE political world of Oregon is very much agog over the way Governor A. W. Norblad is disrupting the state highway commission, the state game commission, and certain other of the boards under his power. Many are the critics who have risen up to assail the governor for his action. "He has too much power," some say. "He should be curbed." "The commissioners should be elected by the people whom they serve," say others. "Keep the highway commission and the game commission out of politics," says everyone.

ALL THIS is well enough, and no attempt should be made to defend removals and appointments based on politics alone. But it should not be forgotten that a governor with too little power is worse than one with too much. The governor is elected by all the people to represent them in the conduct of the affairs of the state. He has certain policies to which he pledges himself, and he cannot carry out these policies unless he has subordinates who are willing to work in harmony with him.

UNDER ordinary circumstances a governor is better able to select those who will work in harmony with him than are the citizens of the state. Under ordinary circumstances a governor is much better able to judge the qualifications of a highway or game commission than are the citizens. Abuses there are bound to be in any form of democratic government, but the greatest amount of efficiency is possible in governments in which the governor has the power to choose his own subordinate executive officers.

EVEN the harshest of headline readers will have noted that trouble is brewing in India; 200,000,000 people, or some good fraction of them at least—are seething under the yoke of British rule, striving to shake off the hand of the conquering white man. A country with a population many times as dense as these United States is attempting to free itself.

Few of us who have been raised in a western environment can really feel that the British rule is not best for the peoples of India. None of us can know the horrors

PLANE SHOWS
DUSTING PLAN

Application Exhibited to Large Group of Spectators.

An effective demonstration of the practicability of orchard dusting by means of airplane was made this morning at the Winston prune orchard, six miles south of Roseburg, by the Northwestern Aero-dusting company of Portland. Sulphur dust was spread over the orchard from the air in a plane handled on three successive trips by L. M. Boyd, C. Graul and F. W. Sauer, in turn. These three pilots, together with E. Klaisner and Charles Mears, are owners and proprietors of the company making the demonstration.

It is the purpose of these fliers to establish an industry in this state, whereby they will contract for orchard dusting, seedling, spreading of fertilizer, dusting for wheat diseases, forest pests, etc. They are holding demonstrations similar to the one given here this morning for the purpose of interesting growers in the project, in order to secure large enough acreage contracts to make profitable operation possible. C. R. Hoerner, agricultural adviser of the Niagara Sprayer and Chemical company, cooperated with the fliers in the demonstration, and is assisting the company in a technical way in the effort to establish the industry.

The plane used this morning has a hopper with a capacity of 1,000 pounds, but three trips were made, carrying a little more than 300 pounds each load, in order to demonstrate how the work is done on large acreages when many trips are necessary.

Method Gains Rapidly
The practice of dusting orchards rather than using liquid spray is growing very rapidly in fruit producing areas, particularly in California. Although dusting is rather new, in comparison with the liquid spray method, Uniqua valley growers are using more than 25 tons of orchard dust yearly, Mr. Hoerner states, and there are about twelve dusting outfits in use in this county.

The chemicals used are very largely the same. Advocates of the dusting method claim a less

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 6.—Fire which broke out at three o'clock yesterday engulfed the entire business district of Siletion, an important center of 3500 population of the Sacramento river valley, was reported under control at 3 a. m. after damage, tentatively estimated at over $100,000, had been caused to the Central hotel, a large garage and two dwellings. The greatest damage was caused at Hunt's garage, where 25 new cars, some 30 second hand machines, most of the equipment and the building had been swept by fire.

PENALTY IN NOOSE

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., June 6.—Smiling, William (Dagger) Pruitt, 22, convicted slayer of William Mann, 17-year-old Dallas, Tex., high school boy, early today was electrocuted here at the state prison. "Have you anything to say?" an official asked him as he entered the death chamber with a robed priest.

"Nothing. I have made my statement, but I would like to say that I appreciate what Father Finnegan has done for me."

As the motors started whirling an unidentified man just outside the door fainted. He was carried away and revived.

Pruitt was convicted of slaying Mann when the youth resisted a holdup.

RADIO BOARD WILL FIGHT KVEP APPEAL

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.—Counsel for the radio commission today prepared to resist in the court of appeal of the District of Columbia a petition filed late yesterday by William B. Schaeffer, owner of station KVEP, Portland, Ore., for an order permitting the station to resume operations.

Schaeffer also filed notice of appeal from the commission's decision refusing to renew his license which expired May 30. KVEP was ordered off the air for allowing "shockingly vulgar broadcasts" by Robert Gordon Duncan, self-styled Oregon "Wildcat" and defeated candidate for the republican nomination for congress.

In his appeal Schaeffer contended the commission exercised power of censorship over speeches by Duncan without authority and in violation of the radio act. He claims he could not be held responsible for speeches over his station by Duncan and that the only way to reach Duncan is by criminal prosecution.

Schaeffer contended the commission cannot question his citizenship now after granting licenses to partnership of which he was a member while a German subject. He also accused the commission of attempting to enforce the policy of taking small stations off the air to benefit larger stations.

MAN OF 46 SLAYS
GIRL, 13, AND SELF

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

ROCHESTER, Mich., June 6.—A coroner's inquest today was expected to write an official "final" to the insane drama which, police say, Henry Clouse, 46, farm hand, was driven by hopeless affection and disordered mind to kill Marjorie Clemons, 13-year-old daughter of his landlord, and then take his own life.

Bodies of the man and girl were found late yesterday huddled side by side beneath a blanket at the edge of a woodland clearing on an abandoned farm seven miles north of here. The girl had been shot in the back of the head. Clouse was shot twice through the mouth. His thumb was still on the trigger of a rifle which he had borrowed from Marjorie's father a week ago. They had been dead for several days.

Clouse's automobile in which they drove away Saturday night from the Clemons home "where Clouse roomed for 11 years, was found nearby, a charred wreck. A bottle which Clouse had filled with kerosene in a Rochester garage shortly before he set out, presumably to instruct Marjorie in driving after dark, was standing a short distance away, evidence that he had deliberately planned the crime and had prepared to burn the car. Police said the girl's body was bruised as if she might have been subjected to an attack.

Since Sunday when the alarm was first spread for the missing couple, Mrs. A. E. Clemons, the mother, had expressed entire confidence in Clouse, who had come to be regarded almost as a member of the family through long residence in the household. She insisted the car had been wrecked or the two had been killed by highwaymen.

An interesting relay will be on display in the form of an old 13-star flag, recently found near Glendale.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 6.—Repeal of the eighteenth amendment is "unhesitatingly favored" by former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, the democratic presidential nominee in 1920.

Cox injected the prohibition issue into his party's campaign at a "victory dinner" of Ohio democrats here last night at which he acted as toastmaster. He announced preference for government control of manufacture and distribution of liquor.

The former governor was joined in his stand against prohibition by former United States Senator Alton Pomeroy of Cleveland, but the party's attitude on the question left unsettled when the final speaker, former Congressman Martin L. Davey of Kent, candidate for governor in 1928, urged that the issue be left alone.

Cox Gives Opinion
"The people will never change the existing order by bringing back the saloons," Cox said, "nor will private interests ever again be permitted to become selfishly allied on any side of this issue."

"With this understanding, I unhesitatingly favor the repeal of the 18th amendment. As between the old saloon order, with its brewery-controlled politics and what not, and the set up, I would prefer the latter, but we all prefer not being compelled to choose between the two extremes. Both are impossible."

Cox said there is need of an other government provision "which

GOVERNMENT LOSES
TEST LIQUOR CASE

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—The first of the government's test cases against San Francisco restaurant owners who supply patrons with "setups" for the mixing of alcoholic drinks has resulted in the acquittal of Edward Spohn, manager of the Silver Slipper cafe, on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Federal District Judge Frank H. Kerrigan yesterday directed the acquittal verdict after ruling the evidence submitted at the trial did not support the information in the complaint against Spohn. The information charged Spohn with "keeping and possessing liquor" for sale, but defense attorneys proved the liquor seized in the cafe raided was brought in by patrons.

Kerrigan pointed out, however, Spohn could be charged with maintaining a nuisance in permitting patrons to bring in the liquor and aiding them to consume it by supplying ginger ale and other "setups."

Among the patrons who "brought their own" it was disclosed at the trial, were two prohibition agents detailed to obtain evidence upon which the raid was made. Agents Leo O'Hara and William Goggin admitted they consumed a flask of liquor during the evening which had been seized as evidence in another case.

"We drank all we had," said O'Hara, "and then tried to buy more from the waiters but were unsuccessful."

A similar case is pending against Wilfred Roberts, one of the proprietors of "Shorty Roberts At-the-Beach." Roberts' place was raided the same night Spohn was arrested and comes up for trial June 17.

The "setups" raids were conducted by prohibition agents here following affirmation of the United States supreme court of the abatement of the dining room of the Butler hotel in Seattle on similar charges.

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—The California supreme court today ordered the release on bail of Alexander Pantazes, millionaire showman, who is in the county jail awaiting action on an appeal from his one to fifty year prison sentence for criminal assault.

Pantazes had appealed to the high court from superior court rulings against his release, which he had sought on the contention that jail confinement was endangering his life. He has been confined to the county jail hospital for several months as the result of recurrent heart attacks.

Pantazes was convicted of criminally assaulting Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old coal miner's daughter, in his theatre building office last August.
