ROSEBURG, OREGON, FRIDAY, JUNE 13, 1930.

SCHOOL ELECTION MONDAY

VOTERS in the Roseburg school district are called upon Monday to make some important decisions. Two directors are to be named. This in itself is important, for a good school board is the very basis of an efficient school system. There is another matter before the voters which in its fundamental effect upon the future of our schools is more important than the selection of directors.

Two of the holdover directors, who have two years yet to serve, are facing the embarrassment and ignominy of a recall election. The reason given on the ballot for demanding the recall of these two directors is in substance as follows: "That . . . he did refuse to hire the most capable and best teacher available as principal of the Junior High School in said District."

The men who are facing the recall are Dr. B. R. Shoemaker and Dr. G. C. Finlay. The charge as printed on the ballot does not say that these men are guilty of any malfeasance in office. Their recall is sought only because in the opinion of some people they "did refuse to hire the most capable and best teacher available." Obviously such a thing is a matter of opinion and yet the folks who disagree with the action of the board place such action in the category of a crime, an abuse of office, and all of the other things implied by the use of the recall.

The ultimate effect upon our city school system from having the recall election at all is bound to be a bad one. Use of the recall is serious and costly business. It is already hard enough to secure good men for such offices. If sincere and conscientious men realize that should some people in the district fail to agree with their every move while in the office of school director, they will be faced with a recall, such men are apt not to accept an election to office.

Now that a recall must be voted upon, now that it is actually on the ballot, the best way to discourage such an abuse of the recall privilege in the future is to smother it under a mass of votes thereby expressing confidence in the ability and integrity of the two directors named in the recall and so proving beyond all doubt that such recall attempts are not approved by a majority of the voters.

DIRECTORS TO PRESENT ANSWER TO CHARGES

Roseburg, Ore., June 13.

To the Editor News-Review: The malfeasance and unfairness of the advertisement appearing in Thursday's News-Review in apparent to all fair-minded citizens. It appeared at the last moment demanding a reply when they knew it would take time to marshal facts to refute their alleged facts. A complete reply to their statement will be made Saturday night. We ask all citizens of Roseburg school district to withhold judgment until the true statement of expenses for the past four years can be assembled.

In view of the fact that the opposition has deemed it advisable to change their charges from the Olemann case to that of attacking the honesty of the school board, we ask permission to take enough time to complete a statement dealing with this subject and promise to have this reply ready by Saturday.

We understand also the opposition is spreading the rumor that Mr. Campbell has been sent to the Spokane conference each year at a big expense. In answer to this, we will state that the expenditures amounted to $52.90. This conference is held each year and is attended by superintendents from all over the northwest and we feel the good resulting from his attendance justifies the expense.

TOILER FAVORS RECALL AND ACCOUNTS SCRUTINY

Roseburg, Ore., June 13.
Editor News-Review: I am most certainly in sympathy with the present movement to recall two of the present directors and the election of new material. The showing in your newspaper of last evening of the high cost of education in this school district must give every taxpayer, large or small, food for reflection. The answer is found in better management.

COUNTERFEITER DRAWS TERM OF TEN YEARS

PORTLAND, Ore., June 12.—Only one of two causes, income tax or graft, it is more charitable to assume the former, as accounting for the high cost of schooling, but in any event it is proper to ask the present board why there has never been an audit or expending of the district's books during their term of office. Is it not their duty to have this done at regular and stated intervals? Or does it devolve upon the school clerk, whom I supposed from press accounts had long ago been removed from the board for occupying two salaried positions, but whom I always see in the clerk's office discharging those duties when the board is in session? Talks on Health

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

It has been said that the normal person, when free to choose, will select the food best suited to his needs. It is true enough that most persons will eat enough food. But whether that food is of the right kind is entirely another question.

On the other hand, there are too many persons who eat too little for the body needs.

Diet is a very important thing, and you can't leave to chance, to the dictates of your appetite, or to taste just what is good for you. It is not so simple as that.

Everyone should learn how to avoid nutritional failure. There are plenty of sources from which to draw information on the subject. The libraries, the schools and the lecture room afford plenty of knowledge in nutrition.

There are four factors that should always be considered. They are the fuel requirements of the body, for which there must be fuel to produce energy; the protein intake; the mineral substances, and the need of vitamins.

A normal six-year-old boy requires a total daily average of about 1,600 calories. Calories are units indicating the energy-producing value of food. We must have energy to run this machine—the body. Girls require a slightly lesser amount, 1,500 calories.

At ten years of age the average boy needs about 2,300 calories daily to furnish him with enough energy for his active life. A girl at this age requires about 2,200 calories. During the next few years the girl's needs slightly exceed the boy's. At fifteen the boy's needs are again greater—3,800 calories daily, while a girl's needs are about 3,200.

The protein—milk, cereals, legumes, such as peas and beans, and other vegetables are all readily utilized and are important in the diet of every growing child. A child needs at least one quart of whole milk every day.

It is difficult to set a guide for everybody in selecting the amount of proper food elements needed. In general it has been estimated that the average adult needs proteins 118 grams, carbohydrates 500 grams, and fat 56 grams.

A vigorous, active boy puts forth an enormous amount of energy in a day. He burns up a great deal of fuel through his incessant play and muscular activity. This is true to a lesser extent of the girl. It is necessary to include in the

Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE: I am twenty-one years of age and am in my last year at college. I met a young man one year my senior about ten months ago. He is very nice but rather bashful. Everyone who knows him speaks well of him. Sometimes this young man will speak to me and other times he won't. My love for him grows stronger daily. I've tried hard to forget him, but it seems impossible. I don't know how to meet him, and if he is just suffering from an over-dose of shyness, you must hope that he will overcome it, at least so far as you are concerned. If he continually seeks your company I should imagine he has indicated that he cares for you. But if he is just moody there is very little you can do about it.

DEAR NANCY LEE: I am a girl 17 years old and am in love with a boy. I care for him a lot, but I am very much afraid to go out with him, for my people don't approve of a girl going out with a fellow so young, but I am an orphan and am thinking of making myself a home. He is not my nationality; he is Portuguese and I am French. Do you think it is good for me to go out with him? Do you think it is wrong to go out with him without my people's permission? BLUE EYES.

BLUE EYES: Your people, who stand in the relationship of parents to you, as long as you are under age, are fully justified if they forbid you to go out with a young man. There is plenty of time for that; you are but a child yet, even if you are talking about making yourself a home.

done." They say always IT CAN BE DONE.

PORTLAND has just crossed the 300,000 mark. Portland, in another decade could reach a population of half a million.

How? By having just a little more faith in ALL OF OREGON, and backing her faith in ALL OF OREGON, and not just Portland, with energy and money and sound, constructive leadership.

YOU have noticed probably that evening newspapers incline toward larger headlines running clear across the top of the page—"banners," they are termed technically—whereas the morning papers are more inclined to keep their headings within the width of a single column at the most.

Perhaps you have wondered why this is true.

HERE is one reason: When you read an evening paper, you are apt to be sitting relaxed, with your paper held in both hands, so that your eye travels naturally across the whole page, and thus grasps easily the banner headline.

But when you read a morning paper, you are quite apt to have it folded up beside your plate at the breakfast table. Thus, you see, the narrower headlines can all be read even with your paper folded beside your plate, whereas it would be inconvenient to read a banner headline stretching clear across the page.

Is a banner headline sensational, whereas a narrow, smaller, headline is necessarily conservative? Not at all.

Sensationalism consists in WHAT IS SAID and not in what, particular type is used. A highly conservative statement can be made in a large-type head, whereas an exceedingly sensational statement can be made, and often is, in a small head.

It all depends on the man who is doing the writing.

To all newspapers that pride themselves on accuracy and dependability, a large head means simply this: "This story, in the judgment of our experienced editors, whose business it is to know news, is the most important story in the paper, and if you are at all in a hurry, and haven't time to read everything, you should READ IT FIRST."

That is the function of the large headline.

ADVERTISE PEARS OR GET LOW PRICE. GROWERS ARE TOLD

WENATCHEE, June 12.—(A. P.)—The necessity and value of advertising and merchandising as a means of increasing the sale and improving the price of pears was stressed in a statement issued by the Pacific Pear Growers' association of which David H. Rosenberg, Medford, Ore., is president.

Approximately $80,000,000 is invested in 10,000,000 pear trees now growing in Pacific coast states, the association pointed out, and the significant fact brought out was that less than one half an acre of pear trees have yet reached bearing age.

This means, the report said, that the future will bring lower prices and poorer returns unless something is done to make people eat and use more pears. The California orange and lemon growers faced a similar situation several years ago, the pear association reported, but they met it by establishing an advertising and selling fund ranging all the way from 5 to 15 cents a box.

As a result the output of oranges and lemons has more than doubled during the past 20 years, the average price per box also has doubled.

LONDON NAVAL PACT FRIENDSHIP SEAL ROBINSON STATES

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
TORONTO, June 12.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, declared at the unveiling of the unveiling of the Shriner's peace memorial today that the London naval treaty was the "seal of friendship" between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.
"Never before," said the senator, "have citizens of these nations so well understood one another more implicitly."
Leo Youngworth, retiring imperial potentate, called the memorial a reminder that the Shrine, with its 600,000 members representing 20,000,000 people of the North American continent, sought to stand in the forefront of the movement to make war impossible.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH SERVICE EXTENDED

Over 2,000 telephone subscribers in Roseburg will today be able to telephone their Postal telegrams direct from their home or office telephones to more than 78,000 points in the United States and Canada to Europe, South America, the Orient and to ships at sea, according to Miss Whitford, manager for Postal Telegraph here.

Miss Whitford explained that inauguration of this new service today virtually gives every telephone subscriber here the facilities of a Postal telegraph office at his or her telephone and is part of the Postal telegraph development program in this section.

Subscribers desiring to telephone their telegrams will ask the operator for "Postal Telegraph" and will then give the message to a Postal operator. The charges will appear on the monthly telephone bill.
