POEM FOR THE DAY

By LOUIS ALBERT BANKS

FLAG DAY

This is the day the flag was born,
So let it fly this summer morn
In every town in all the land—
No other flag is quite so grand.
Each man beneath this flag is free;
It is the flag of liberty.
And on this fourteenth day of June
It floats above no vile saloon.

All hail the flag of Washington
Who loved it ere it was begun!
All hail the flag that freed the slaves;
God bless it now where'er it waves;
It is a flag all freemen love—
With field of blue from heaven above;
Its stars are backed by sovereign states;
Its bars recall heroic traits!

The flag of Lincoln, Pershing, Grant,
Is not the flag to say, "I can't."
There is no limit to its flight;
It flies for liberty and right;
It feels at home at either pole;
It always plays a righteous role;
It never seeks another's harm;
Where'er it flies it is to charm.

Long wave on high the stripes and stars—
The ceaseless enemy of wars!
God grant the red and white and blue
May fly for everything that's true;
May it cheer on the growing man,
In harmony with God's great plan,
Until the flags of all the world
Are 'neath the Master's banner furled.

Sign-posts

Imagine yourself on an unfamiliar highway at night in the country. You want to go to Allison. You come to a forked road. No signs! Which way? You turn left and come to a cross-road. No signs. You turn right. You come to a town. It proves to be Liberty. You go back to the fork and turn left. A mile or so farther on you come to another cross-road. A sign pointing right says "Allison three miles."

But for that sign-post you might have traveled miles—spent hours, and come short of your destination.

Imagine yourself in need of hosiery, clothing, breakfast foods or anything else, and this newspaper without advertisements!

Advertisements are sign-posts. They are information. They save you from wandering aimlessly from store to store. They keep you advised of the newest products; of the latest values. They save you time, and put greater buying power in your dollars. They assure you of quality and service in merchandise, for only honest goods honestly advertised can stand the spotlight of publicity.
