Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

IF YOU follow the broad, national news of the day, so that you may keep informed as to what is going on in the world, your eye caught this headline in yesterday's papers: "President Signs Tariff Bill."

But your eye didn't catch any long and fulsome printed statement from the President PRAISING the tariff bill.

WHEN you are all out of sorts and need a phsyat, you take castor oil, holding your nose and gagging a little, but HOPING FOR THE BEST.

That, in all probability, is about what President Hoover did when he signed the tariff bill.

BUT let us get back to the castor oil. Your grandmother, and your grandmother's mother, kept it on the shelf, and if ANYTHING went wrong with ANYBODY in the house they reached for the castor oil bottle.

Castor oil was looked upon as the sure-fire remedy for everything.

AND so it was with the tariff for generations in this country. When anything went wrong with business, congress administered a good stiff dose of higher tariff.

Usually it worked and brought relief, for this was a vast, undeveloped country, whose infant industries were unable to supply the DOMESTIC market. So when a higher tariff enabled them to charge HIGHER PRICES their troubles vanished.

They put more men to work, paid HIGHER WAGES, unemployment vanished and business recovered.

SO much for the good old days. But NOW a change has come.

The domestic market, which means the market here in THIS COUNTRY, no longer absorbs the entire output of our manufacturing industries, which are no longer infants, but have grown enormously.

They have to look now to the EXPORT market which means the market in other countries, as an outlet for a considerable part of their production.

And that is where the rub comes in with the tariff.

OTHER countries, you see, watching OUR success with high tariffs, have begun to do a lot of tariff raising on their own account.

Roaring Welcome by Sea, Sky and Land Extended to Explorers From the Antarctic.

Admiral Reports Discovery of Evidence of Great Coal Area; $100,000 Debt Faced.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, June 19.—Aerial conqueror of both ends of the earth, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd set foot again today at 10:40 a. m. (E.S.T.) on the turf of lower Manhattan, from which he sailed twenty months ago on a pilgrimage of exploration into the white wastes of Antarctica.

Surrounded in sea and sky and on earth by a roaring welcome in which planes and harbor craft and cheering thousands joined, he departed from the city-welcoming tug Macon to receive from the city the third and by far the most boisterous greeting it has tended to him for his achievements of exploration by air.

Admiral Greeted First
Admiral Byrd had boarded the Macon half an hour before from his barque the City of New York, at quarantine. The first person he greeted was his mother, whom he held in a warm embrace for a moment, then turned to other relatives and friends.

"It's good to get back again," he said smiling, as he greeted the city from the radio telephone aboard the Macon. "It's good to have this reception."

Then, turning to the reporters, he spoke of what his expedition had accomplished in the Antarctic.

Coal Deposits Found
First, he said, they had discovered and explored 125,000 square miles of land, existence of which

New Oregon Forester Graduate of State College; Porter S. King Appointed Assistant

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
SALEM, Ore., June 19.—Lynn F. Cronmiller, who has been deputy state forester six years, was yesterday elected to succeed the late Frank A. Elliott as state forester. The selection was made at a meeting of the state board of forestry. His salary will be $4000 a year.

Cronmiller was authorized to name Porter S. King as assistant state forester in charge of fire protection at a salary of $3000. He has been with the department some years at $2700. The new state forester was authorized to offer to Theodore Ralvater of Marshfield the post of administrative assistant at $1800 a year, probably later to be made deputy state forester. It was said Rainwater is now with the Coos Bay Fire Patrol association and has been in state work for three years.

Cronmiller was graduated from Oregon State college in 1914. He was in field work for the state forestry department the following year and then went to Lakeview, where he was in newspaper work, his father being owner of a newspaper there. He followed newspaper work two years, and for the next seven years was with logging camps in Oregon and Idaho in various capacities.

600 POLICE SEARCH FOR MAD SLAYER

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, June 19.—Several hundred policemen searched the byways of the Boston road today for evidence of a third murder by the maniac blamed for two killings in Queens within a week.

Search for the mad slayer shifted today to the eastern Bronx, after an all night vigil in Queens, when a newspaper received a warning in the mails purporting to come from the slayer himself, boasting that he had committed his death, with the comment: "If I had had more money I would have spent more."

McKinney was indicted with Prohibition Administrator Roy C. Lytle, his assistant, William M. Whitney and two agents, Whitney when informed of Olmsted's statement declared:

"Olmsted is a liar and he knows he's a liar. That is probably the price he is willing to pay for the pardon he thinks he will get. His testimony in another trial contradicts what he said in San Francisco. He must have forgotten that."

In addition to the $3,000 he says he gave McKinney, Olmsted testified that he subsequently gave the federal officer from $50 to $100 "every time I left some gin with him."

Shakedown Recited
Olmsted, under questioning by Assistant Federal Attorney J. M. Peckham, said he was introduced to McKinney by Mack Fleming, who said "McKinney has something he wants to tell you."

Olmsted said he retired to a

WALLA WALLA MILL TAKEN BY FLAMES

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

WALLA WALLA, Wash., June 19.—In a spectacular blaze here last night, fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Northern Flour Mills, with damage estimated at from $200,000 to $225,000 by the owners. The loss included several thousand sacks of flour and a large quantity of wheat.

The mill was one of the largest in this section of the county, with a capacity of 600 barrels daily, besides by-products. The warehouses were large enough to store 50 carloads of flour.

The plant, originally run by waterpower, was first operated by the Decker family, who built it in 1868. It was sold a few years ago to the Northern Mills company of Portland, and later to Straus and Co., present owners. The plant was enlarged at various times and a few years ago was equipped with the most modern electric machinery.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Captain Eugene Wall, veteran San Francisco police officer, was killed and four companions injured, two probably fatally, when the automobile in which they were returning from Santa Cruz, skidded and overturned on the La Honda grade of the Skyline boulevard.

Patrolman, Edward J. Murphy, Captain Wall's son-in-law, and Cornelius Lehane, San Francisco grocer, were reported near death in a San Mateo hospital while Charles Geggus and Tony Baroni were less seriously hurt. Murphy was driving when the accident occurred.

Captain Wall had been a member of the police department for nearly forty years.

EX-RUM KING SAYS HE GAVE $3000 BRIBE

Paid to McKinney to Help Revelle in Governor Race, Testimony of Olmsted.

Money Solicited to Insure Protection, Convicted Man Swears; Story Termed "Lie."

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

SEATTLE, June 19.—"If McKinney took money from the Olmsted crowd, God help him," was former United States Attorney Thomas P. Revelle's comment on the statement made yesterday in San Francisco by Roy Olmsted, imprisoned rum baron, that he had contributed $3,000 to Revelle's campaign fund for governor in 1924.

The statement was made at the hearing on the government application to remove Rev. Clifford T. McKinney, former assistant United States attorney under Revelle, to Seattle for trial on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act. Olmsted said the money was paid to McKinney as "government insurance" against interference in his liquor running enterprises for the campaign fund.

"If McKinney was writing government insurance or any other kind of insurance, that's his business," Revelle said. "I am not in the insurance business."

He refused to comment further. In an official statement filed after his defeat for the republican gubernatorial nomination, Revelle listed his campaign expenses as $2,949.99, with the comment: "If I had had more money I would have spent more."

McKinney was indicted with Prohibition Administrator Roy C. Lytle, his assistant, William M. Whitney and two agents, Whitney when informed of Olmsted's statement declared:

"Olmsted is a liar and he knows he's a liar. That is probably the price he is willing to pay for the pardon he thinks he will get. His testimony in another trial contradicts what he said in San Francisco. He must have forgotten that."

JUSTICE ALLEGED SHORT IN ACCOUNTS

ASTORIA, Ore., June 19.—The district attorney today was investigating the report of G. Ziegler, auditor employed by the county, court to check the books of Justice of Peace Tuomala, who announced last night that the check revealed $14,985.11 was due in unpaid fines, and that $14,533 was unaccounted for.

The auditor's report extended from January 1, 1926 to May 30, 1929.

The justice of peace refused to comment on the situation, but requested he be given a copy of the audit on which he might base a statement.

The auditor also reported that records could not be found for $1810 turned over to the justice by the sheriff according to receipts held by the sheriff's department.

Ziegler also reported that fines for drunken driving cases had been turned over to the state traffic department instead of the county treasurer.

SCIENCE DETECTS GOAT FLESH SOLD AS DRIED VENISON

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

SALEM, Ore., June 19.—Scientific progress in meat inspection has ruined the trade of certain enterprising citizens of Douglas county, who in the past have enjoyed a lucrative business in drying goat meat and selling it for jerked venison. Mr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, said today. Tests have been evolved which, it is said, show to a certainty whether the meat is goat or deer flesh.

Also it is no longer possible for certain meat dealers in Oregon to make money from the agricultural association's sale of pork and beef sausage and sell it as an unadulterated product, Lytle said. A favorite trick among some dealers, he said, is to mix in a good-sized percentage of horse meat, particularly in hamburger.

WOOL MEN'S HEAD BACKS MARKET ACT

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, June 19.—Assurance was given by the agricultural conference in session here today by Frank J. Hagenbarth of Spencer, Idaho, president of the National Wool Growers association, that the federal farm marketing act was not a plan for robbing the people to pay the farmer but was a means of orderly marketing the farmer's product.

The address was given before 150 representatives of railroads, business organizations and agricultural sections meeting under the auspices of the agricultural council of the western shippers advisory boards.

Heretofore, Hagenbarth said, in explaining operation of the act as applied to the sheep industry, the farm stockman has been an individualist, but the trend of the organization has come so forcefully in other lines that he is being forced to organize with his fellows to protect himself.

He said the present difficulties in the wool and sheep industry brought about by low prices, did not spell disaster to the industry. "No matter how badly the wool grower loses his mone," he said, "the old ewe wanders along the mountainside, picking up grass and other forage and each year produces a crop of wool and a crop of lambs to tide the industry over."

CANNON IMMUNITY CHARGE LABELED LIE

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Denouncing as "liars" any who say Bishop James Cannon Jr. was granted immunity by the senate lobby committee, Chairman Caraway reported to the senate today the examination of the South Methodist churchman which was climaxed by his refusal to answer questions on his 1928 anti-Smith activities.

The report was a transcript of the questions and answers and refusals to answer. No stand was taken by the committee, which voted just before closing its hearing not to compel the churchman to reply.

Caraway said it had been intimated Cannon had "misappropriated" $48,000 contributed to the 1928 anti-Smith campaign by E. C. James, New York capitalist. Stipulating that the lie was not making that charge, the lobby chairman explained the committee had not made a practice of going outside its jurisdiction to report such things.

SCIENCE HAS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR SMUGGING

Coast Association Meeting Told Present Common Orchard Heating Still Best.

Much Money Expended in Futile Tests of Other Methods to Combat Frost Peril.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

EUGENE, Ore., June 19.—The fruit grower, who in combating frost is obliged to "smudge" his orchard, must for some time to come continue "to warm up all outdoors," in the opinion of Prof. Floyd D. Young of the U. S. weather bureau, Pomona, Calif. Prof. Young today addressed members of the American Meteorological society, held here in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Pacific coast division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

After describing the many schemes for frost protection that have been suggested and discarded, Young declared nothing has been found to take the place of the common orchard heater now in wide use, admitting its inefficiency. Such heaters are generally used in southern California, he said, and are equipped with drafts and pipes to eliminate the smoke nuisance. Oil is in favor as fuel.

Costly Tests Futile

"Huge sums of money have been spent in developing gigantic machines designed to create artificial winds in the orchards," Prof. Young said. "Central heating plants with pipes radiating to every part of the orchards, have been set up, tested and removed; overhead sprinklers have sprayed water on the trees until the weight of the ice has broken them down in many cases; chunks of iron have been hung in the trees to absorb the frost, and the use of airplanes has been urged to lay down smoke screens over entire districts. Steam boilers have been set up in the groves and a choking mixture of steam and ammonium chloride has been shot in among the trees to create an artificial fog. The use of dynamite has been even suggested to break up the frost by explosions set off in the air above the orchards."

Oil Burners Best
Orchard heating, he said, or the actual heating of the air through ducts, is a large number of small fires throughout the grove, and dates back to 1897 when the use of coal baskets was begun in the orange groves of southern California.

Since that time improved oil burners have already replaced other heat-disseminating devices. Prof. Young said the disastrous freeze of 1913 stimulated interest in orchard heating, and that since that year improvement had been rapid. Use of antiquated equipment, he said, created much smoke which caused a black pall over all of the large groves.

ROSEBURGERS MEET COQUILLE C. OF C.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

A group of Roseburg chamber of commerce members enjoyed a very delightful meeting with the Coquille chamber at Coquille last night. Maurice Newland, W. C. Harding, B. R. Shoemaker, Frank Norton, W. B. Strawn and Harris Ellsworth were guests at the regular monthly forum luncheon of the Coquille chamber, which was also attended by a large group of Coos county residents. Ray Conway, of the Oregon State Motor Association, was the chief speaker of the evening, talking on the tourist traffic and its effect on Oregon.

Following his talk, each of the Roseburg men was introduced and short talks, after which the meeting was thrown open for a general discussion. W. C. Harding, secretary of the Roseburg chamber, told of the possibilities for the national soldiers' home in Roseburg, and asked support of Coos county cities.

BOY, 16, DATED FOR TRIAL FOR MURDER

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 19.—The uncommon situation of a county prosecutor testifying in behalf of a prisoner whom he has sworn to prosecute will arise when Clifford Campbell, 16, goes to trial Monday here charged with killing Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Northrup, Clark county farmers, by dynamiting their home.

Campbell's attorney filed the defense witness list today and included in the names was that of Dale McCullen, county prosecuting attorney.

Campbell will face trial for his life. The youth is alleged to have dynamited the Northrup home, killing the man and his wife, because they chided him about his studies.

SCREEN "IT" GIRL DENIES HEART LURE

Sojourn in Texas Intended Only as Rest From Toil, Clara Bow Says; Refutes "Affair" Report

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

DALLAS, Tex., June 19.—Denying friendship for a Dallas professional man brought her here, Clara Bow, the "It" girl of the movies, today told the Associated Press staff men tales of southern hospitality that lured her to Texas.

Desiring a rest between pictures, Miss Bow said she sought a quiet place where she could get away from Hollywood.

Referring to published reports she had made a $30,000 settlement of a threatened $150,000 allegation of affectionate suit by a Dallas woman, wife of the professional man figuring in the story, Miss Bow declared:

"I didn't even have the money to pay such a thing. My money is tied up in a bonus trust fund which the studio inaugurated and it can't be touched by anybody."

Miss Bow said reports of a morality clause in her contract providing forfeiture of money were wholly false.

She exhibited a telegram received last night from a Hollywood man with whom she said she was in love and was "thinking of marrying."

"This terrible thing had to come along and might blow up my romance in California."

"The studio wired me last night to leave at once, but that is impossible."

MORROW ADMITS HE SPENT $15,000

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

NEWARK, N. J., June 19.—Expenditures on behalf of Dwight W. Morrow in his successful campaign for the republican senatorial nomination today were placed by his campaign manager at approximately $14,000, of which Morrow contributed $15,000.

Douglas Thomson, the campaign manager, said contributions totaling $65,698 were received. He said his figures included expenditures up to and including June 13.

Alexander Simpson, democratic nominee who will oppose Morrow in the November elections, in a statement said:

"The democrats will enter this fray unfettered by the money of J. P. Morgan and company which almost floated New Jersey out of a position between New York and Pennsylvania."

Morrow was a partner in the Morgan firm before assuming the post of ambassador to Mexico. With only a few districts in the state unreported, Morrow's plurality was 299,619. The vote was: Morrow 417,058; Franklin W. Fort 117,429; and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen 47,730.
