Inquest on Assassinated Reporter

anced himself nervously upon the edge.

"I'm not going to stay here another instant," he cried, suddenly breaking free and floating down the garden path. "Do you know of any homes for rent in the neighborhood?" he asked the shadows, who ran along with him just below.

"There's the kennel," said Flor. "Kennel? Do you suppose I'll live in a kennel? I should say not! I'm not a dog. Oh, how angry this makes me. First, I'm thrown out of my home, then I'm asked to live in a kennel. One would think I had no feelings, that I didn't matter to anybody. Well I have feelings and I do matter. It's enough to make me burst with indignation!"

And to the shadows' astonishment, that's exactly what he did.

SENATE CONFIRMS HANFORD MacNIDER

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The senate today without a record vote confirmed the nomination of Hanford L. MacNider, of Iowa, as minister to Canada.

Objecting to confirmation of MacNider, Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, today told the senate he "is personally offensive to me in the highest degree."

Senator Brookhart told the senate that MacNider, who also is a republican, was "the chief lobbyist against me at the time of my contest for a seat in the senate."

HUGE TIMBER TOLL TAKEN BY DISEASE

EUGENE, Ore., June 20.—Lumbermen and scientists gathered here yesterday for the forest symposium of the annual session of the Pacific division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and were told that tree diseases take an annual toll of six billion feet of timber, valued at $78,000,000 and that forest fires destroy annually from ten to twenty million acres of timber.

E. I. Kotok, director of the California forest experiment station, declared western lumbermen must come to realize that slashing by burning is not only out of date but very injurious to reforestation. Clearing of land should be done scientifically, he said, and protection of forest from fire should be done more intelligently. Forest fires must be followed by careful reforestation and these new forests must be protected, he told the association.

Come Into the Kitchen

Mechanical refrigeration is the grandest thing—a snap of the switch and there you are—colder than ice! Electricity promptly chills the refrigerator to the temperature desired and maintains these temperatures constantly with never a speck of variation—day and night—summer and winter. Vegetables and fruits keep for weeks because of the intense dry cold; baby's milk is vigilantly guarded "ouz germs can't possibly grow in this frigid zone and besides it's really a miniature manufacturing plant in which all sorts of frozen foods can be made. Food insurance is positively guaranteed. It's absolutely no bother, easily installed and easier cleaned. A bit of baking soda in tepid water and a soft cloth to wipe it out—there's always spick and span in its gleaming white coat.

Frozen Desserts
There is no end to the variety of frozen desserts. Frozen electrically means no labor nor messy cleanup—and oh so good! The food value of such desserts is high. They are easy to digest and are valuable in the diet, unless too much cake or too rich cake is eaten with them. Simple wafers, sponge cake and macaroons are an excellent accompaniment. Frozen mixtures are variously named. There are three types of ice cream: French ice cream—rich custard with cream or milk added. American ice cream—flour or cornstarch added to less rich custard. Philadelphia ice cream—thin cream (or cream and milk) without eggs. Frozen electricity these require beating at half hour intervals—nearly always. They require from 4 1/2 to 5 hours to freeze.
