Wife Swappers to Enjoy or Regret Trade

Poetic Ruling of North Dakota Justice Tosses Unusual Case Out of Court

Mr. & Mrs. Willis Knight and Mr. & Mrs. Lawrence Rikansrud

MINOT, N. D., June 23.—North Dakota may soon be as famous as the wife-swapping state as she has been as the cradle of the non-partisan league.

Under a recent ruling made by District Judge C. W. Buttz of Devils Lake, trading your mate with a friend may become the chief indoor sport of North Dakota.

About a year ago Mr. Lawrence Rikansrud and Mr. Willis Knight of Renville county, both farmers and fathers of large families, decided they were tired of their wives. Or maybe it was Mrs. Rikansrud and Mrs. Knight who came to the conclusion that being wed to the same men was becoming a bit tiresome.

The Knights had been married for eighteen years and the Rikansruds for twelve. Each couple had two children. The families lived about half a mile apart on farms, twenty-four miles northwest of Minot.

Last June the quartette, who were all on the best of terms with each other came to the conclusion that a little novelty might be injected into their lives by exchanging partners.

The first step was for each woman to secure a divorce. This was done by having the ladies testify for each other in the suits. A clause in the decrees provided that neither marry again for ninety days.

However, the Knights and the Rikansruds decided not to wait that long. After thirty days they all went to Melita in Manitoba, Canada, and were married in a double ceremony. The new Mrs. Knight and the new Mrs. Rikansrud each retained custody of her own offspring.

All went along swimmingly until the state stepped in, alleging they were not legally wed, and brought criminal proceedings against the two brides and two grooms. Judge Buttz after hearing all the evidence, dismissed the charges, claiming the defendants had not violated any of North Dakota's laws. Asked whether they were not in contempt of court and why their divorce should not be vacated, Judge Buttz declared he had no jurisdiction, not having granted the decrees.

"Nor is it in our province," continued the court, "to ponder whether the facts of this weird escapade, disclosing personalities rivaling a Cassanova, an Italian adventurer of the eighteenth century or of an Aphrodite, the Greek goddess of love, stalking over the flower-bespangled prairies of the west."

So far all has been serene in the two households. The four children like their new nuptials and the entire eight Rikansruds and Knights of ten get together and talk over old times when Mrs. Knight was Mrs. Rikansrud and vice versa.

Red-Thatched Ice Man of Illinois Appears in New Role

Galloping Ghost Now Does His Field Running on Night Club Floor.

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Harold "Red" Grange, idol of twenty million football-crazy Americans, is working in a night club.

The feet that once raced to fame over frost bitten football fields are now tapping out fox trots in jazzland.

To blaze Broadway, which has seen murderers, champion boxers and lady aviators become vaudeville headliners and smilingly watched Russian grand duchesses metamorphosed into tearoom hostesses, the news is no surprise.

But Main Street and a hundred college campuses are dazed to hear that America's greatest halfback has become master of ceremonies in a California cabaret.

Since the mighty Grange emerged from the portals of the University of Illinois several years ago, he has been in turn a professional football box office attraction, a sports promoter and a movie star. But all of his post-college activities have been identified one way or another with the athletic activities that first screamed his name across newspaper front pages.

Even his picture debut was made in a movie built around the college gridiron career. But since he first turned his back upon amateur sport six years ago, Red has been dogged by a curiously persistent understudy star.

His efforts to capitalize transcontinental marathons and other ventures with his friend, C. C. (Cash-and-Carry) Pyle, cost him a fortune.

After making a film or two, his movie contract was not renewed. Hollywood magnates said that Red Grange as a picture star was a flop, or at best a momentary box office name.

From his first intercollegiate football game in 1922 Grange's brilliant end runs, drop kicks and line plunges marked him as a coming sensation. The following three years with Illinois confirmed this prediction. The West had never seen such an amazing athletic performer. Single-handed he again and again sent the powerful western university eleven down to defeat. Coming east he surpassed himself in 1925 against Pennsylvania.

At the end of that year Grange quit amateur football and Illinois. Pyle, his manager, rushed him into a schedule of two or more games each week. Sporting experts predicted the red-thatched ice man from Illinois would suffer a breakdown. Today at the age of twenty-seven, "Red" Grange is through with football forever.

The millions he drew to football stadiums may only see him now in the smoke-laden atmosphere of a night club.

SWITCHING CHARGES HIT BY DECISION

(Associated Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, June 23.—Increased switching charges in Portland, Tacoma and Seattle which the railroads proposed to make effective last September were held unreasonable today by the interstate commerce commission.

Service charges maintained prior thereto were ordered effective until further notice. Proposed increases were suspended by action of the commission and railroads until July 24 to await the results of an investigation which the commission's decision today disclosed.

Schedules involved would have increased by about 50 per cent switching charges applying to freight cars more than 42 feet long. On cars of lesser length no rate change was proposed. Long cars to which the rates would apply were largely supplied for lumber movement.

STORM DESTROYS 7 YEARS' LABOR

ISTANBUL, Turkey, June 23.—A floodburst at Anzora yesterday destroyed in a half an hour much that the Kemalists had accomplished in seven years of labor toward modernization.

The torrential rain tore up miles of new roads and sidewalks in the ancient city, destroyed the villa of the president of the national assembly, and flooded the new model dwellings of many deputies.

The children's playgrounds, operated by Americans, were washed away.

STOCKS CLIMBING

UPWARD AFTER 3 WEEKS' DESCENT

(Associated Press Leased Wire) NEW YORK, June 23.—The stock market began the new week with a substantial rebound today, after three weeks of almost steady declines. Heavy selling early in the day was soon absorbed, and prices worked steadily higher during the afternoon, a long list of popular issues closing $2 to $5 a share higher, and a few issues selling up $5 to more than $10.

Wall street was again left to puzzle over the problem of whether the decline had finally hit bottom, or merely had been interrupted by another technical rally. A substantial rebound in grain prices was encouraging, as stock traders have been paying close attention to the commodity markets of late.

Although July wheat touched $93 cents a bushel, the lowest in 36 years, it closed at $2 1/8, off only 1/8, while September wheat closed 3/8 and December 3/4 of a cent higher. Corn futures gained 1 to 1 1/8 cents.

Trading in stocks was in huge volume during the early trading, when several transactions of 10,000 to 40,000 shares were recorded, but it turned comparatively dull in the afternoon and the day's total sales were about $300,000, only a little more than the volume of last Friday.

U. S. steel common, after selling down to $152.50, a new low for the year, rallied to $157.37, and closed at $156.50, up $1.25. American Telephone, after dropping to $30.12, closed a new 1930 low, closed at $28.50, up $5.00. American tobacco dropped $9.50, then rallied $7.

American Can was a strong spot throughout the day, sagging only slightly during the early selling, and closing up $6. Public service of N. J. held firm during the sellings, and closed up $4.50. Utilities were prominent in the rally. American Water Works, Consolidated Gas and North American closing about $2 to $4 a share higher. While Electric Power and Light was up $6.75, Westinghouse Electric and Eastman Kodak ended the day $4 higher, and Byers, $5. Allied Chemical and Vanadium gained $6, and J. I. Case, normally a high wide mover, closed $1 higher.

Standard of N. J. and Radio gained about $2 and General Electric $1.62.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR RETURN HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE MATCH BETWEEN MAX SCHMELING AND JACK SHARKEY WERE ADVANCED TODAY WHEN ARTHUR BUELOW, THE GERMAN FIGHTER'S DISPUTED MANAGER, REACHED AN AGREEMENT THROUGH THE MADISON SQUARE GARDEN CORPORATION FOR THE DISPOSAL OF HIS 20 PER CENT SHARE IN SCHMELING EARNINGS.

Some technicalities remain to be ironed out, but papers separating Schmeling and Buelow will be signed tomorrow, Frank J. Burns, general manager of the garden, announced. Burns added he expected contracts for the return fight in September at the Yankee stadium, to be signed before the end of this week.

Under the agreement it is understood Buelow will receive approximately $50,000 which will be paid by Jack Sharkey out of the latter's 12 per cent "cut" in the purse and meet the small end of the principal and meet the financial obligation in order to secure return bout this year. He told Burns he will be willing to fight for nothing, if necessary.

H. R. ROBERTSON AND MILDRED ANDRUS WED

Miss Mildred Andrus became the bride of Harold R. Robertson on Saturday, June 21, at 5:30 in the afternoon at the parsonage of the local Christian church. Rev. W. R. Baird, pastor of the church, read the ceremony. A number of friends and relatives of the couple were present. Both Mr. and Mrs. Robertson are residents of Roseburg.

ANTLERS. — Today, Tuesday, Irene Bordoni in "Paris"; Wednesday and Thursday, "The Marriage Playground," with Mary Brian; Friday and Saturday, "Rough Romance," with George O'Brien.

A STAGE success with the star of the play transported to the screen in what a large audience saw in "Paris," which opened at the Antlers last night for a three-day run. The stage play was a huge attraction in New York, where it ran for months.

Irene Bordoni was the star in the stage production and now does wonderful acting in the picture, which is an all-talking reproduction of the original. Both Miss Bordoni and Jack Buchanan, noted English stage star, sang and danced, utilizing songs especially written for the screen version.

With a good supporting cast, a good story and plenty of music, the show is worth seeing.
