

EXTENDED ILLNESS PROVES FATAL TO WILLIAM CURRY

William G. Curry, a resident of Douglas county for the most of the 40 years of his life, died in the Stanford Lane hospital in San Francisco early this morning. His death followed an illness of more than a year.

Mr. Curry, whose family is among the pioneer agriculturists in this county, was prominently identified with the American Legion post, the Elks lodge and the Roseburg Country club.

He was born in San Francisco and came here with his parents when he was only a few years old. He was educated in Hill military academy, the Belmont school and Stanford university. During the World war he served with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. Last year he served as republican committeeman for Douglas county.

His father died several years ago and his mother, the late Mrs. I. G. Curry, died last year. He was survived by his brother, Charles T. Curry, and four sisters, the Misses Isabelle, Elizabeth, Edith and Lulu A. Curry, all of whom reside on the Curry estate five miles northwest of this city.

Funeral and interment will be held in San Francisco, where the bodies of both his parents are buried.

SUSPECT SAYS REAL KILLER FORCED HIM TO GO TO OREGON

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
COLUMBIAS, Kan., June 30.—G. D. "Pete" Irwin, who was returned here yesterday from Phoenix, Ore., by Sheriff John Kreech to face a first degree murder charge in connection with the slaying at Galena, Kan., May 24 of Ralph Price, was said by officers today to have told them that Charles Gibbons, suspected of being Price's actual slayer, forced him at the point of a gun to drive him to Oregon.

Officers said Irwin told them Gibbons had threatened to return to Galena and kill Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Parker, brother-in-law and sister of the slain youth, and Mrs. Elsie Corey, also a sister of Price.

Officers contend that Gibbons killed Price because the youth attempted to protect his sister, Mrs. Corey, from alleged abuse by Gibbons, her one-time employer. Officers said Irwin also told them that Gibbons asserted he would kill any officer who attempted to arrest him.

Rewards totalling $500 have been offered for Gibbons' arrest.

QUARREL DISRUPTS PORTLAND BENCH

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
PORTLAND, Ore., June 30.—District Judge J. H. Henderson assumed the duties of presiding judge today after Judge Fred Olson asked to be relieved of the task following an altercation with District Judge John Mears in which an alleged threat passed between them.

Witnesses said Judge Olson threatened to shoot Judge Mears if he did not "clear out of my office." Judge Olson confirmed the report he had ordered Judge Mears from his chambers.

Judge Olson was to have taken over the duties of presiding judge. New rules were adopted and signed by three other judges which, Judge Olson said, would have deprived him of authority. The rules state that a presiding judge cannot act without full authority and consent of his judicial colleagues on matters of assignment and transfer of cases.

LAWMAKER VICTOR ON BOOZE CHARGE

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, June 30.—Justice Peyton Gordon of District of Columbia supreme court, sustained the demurrer of Representative Denison of Illinois today to an indictment for possession of whiskey, holding the charge was phrased in too general terms.

The action virtually was equivalent to dismissal of the indictment. Justice Gordon held the indictment failed to meet the constitutional requirement that a defendant be informed specifically of the nature of the charge so he may frame his defense and plead an acquittal of the charge as a bar to re-indictment for the same offense.

Denison and his former secretary were indicted after prohibition agents had charged they found trunks containing liquor had been delivered to his office in the house office building.

REDSPOUT CHILD DROWNS IN UMPQUA

President Taft sustained Dr. Wiley and praised his work.

Then only did the scientist tender his resignation because of "irreconcilable" differences with his superiors and the consciousness of an "essentially inhospitable" official environment. That was in 1912 and President Taft having expressed regret at his retirement, Dr. Wiley turned to the more peaceful pursuits of contributing editor of a national monthly magazine that deals with food problems for the home.

Honored by Colleagues
Dr. Wiley was born in Kent, Ind., Oct. 18, 1844, and Hanover college of that state was his alma mater although Indiana Medical college, Harvard and Vermont later awarded him degrees. His active career began as professor of Latin and Greek at Butler college, Indianapolis, but turned soon to the teaching of scientific subjects in various colleges which led him to his federal post.

The controversy that preceded his resignation grew out of the charge that Dr. Wiley, Dr. L. F. Kellum, chief of the bureau's drug laboratory, and Dr. W. D. Bigelow, assistant chief of the bureau, permitted an arrangement to be made with Dr. H. H. Rusby, of Columbia university, whereby Dr. Rusby was to receive a salary of $1,600 a year with the tacit understanding that he was to do only enough work to secure this amount at the rate of $20 a day. This was declared to have been in violation of the act which held that no classified scientific investigator should receive more than $9 a day.

Upheld in Whiskey Issue
The "what is whiskey" fight came with enforcement of the food and drugs act in 1907. Dr. Wiley rendered much talked-of decision declaring there was only one kind of whiskey, that made by the pot still method of distilling the mash, and the liquor aged in charred wood. This process produced chemical changes and gave the liquor its "characteristic" flavor, he said, while the "rectifying" method produced something that was not straight whiskey.

The question of the labeling of various brands of whiskey led to another long controversy with Warwick M. Hough, counsel for distilling and rectifying interests taking part and carrying his fight to the secretary of agriculture, congress and the White House. President Roosevelt ended it by ordering that straight, blended, compounded and imitation liquors should be correctly labeled as such, which was confirmed later by President Taft.

Jabs Benzate of Soda
In the benzate of soda case, a referee board of experts headed by Dr. Ira Remsen reversed a decision by Dr. Wiley who had pronounced the substance harmful as a food preservative after tests by a "poison squad." The wrangle dragged its way through the usual course until President Taft upheld Dr. Wiley.

"Dr. Wiley was the author of several books, including 'Songs of Agricultural Chemists'; 'Foods and Their Adulterations'; 'Principles and Practice of Agricultural Chemistry'; '1,000 Tests'; and 'Not by Bread Alone.' At the age of 67 he married Miss Anna Campbell Kelton and had two children, John Preston and Harvey W. Jr. The family made its home in Washington.

Sure, Hens Lay!

But how many eggs do they lay, and what do the eggs cost?

The profit is in the high grade eggs, and the last few dozen eggs.

Two shipments of eggs to the Pacific Co-op averaged 19 1/2c and 22 1/2c a dozen respectively. Scientific feed and care made the difference.

In this spot, but had gone down river.

Rev. Perry Smith, Weldon Bradford, R. W. Fuhrmeister, W. L. Torrey, Redmond Sharpe and a youth named Lindsay, manned row boats and first rescued Lawson.

Ex-Life Guard Aids
Fuhrmeister, who is a member of the Grants Pass fire department, is a former life guard from Santa Monica beach, applied resuscitative methods and expelled the water from Lawson's lungs, bringing him back to consciousness.

Within a half-hour Walton's body was recovered. First aid methods failed, and when Dr. George E. Honck of this city with Fire Chief James Fletcher arrived with the city pulmotor, the doctor pronounced the boy dead.

Examination of the body showed that Walton had not been drowned, but had died from a heart attack. There was little water in the lungs the doctor reports, and even though respiration could have been restored he would not have lived.

No inquest will be held on the case, District Attorney Guy Gordon said this morning. The affair was obviously an accident and official investigation could not add anything to the findings, he said. The prosecutor warmly praised Lawson for his efforts to rescue his companion.

Victim Here 9 Months
The Walton boy came here about nine months ago from Carrington, N. D., where his father now resides. He was graduated from the high school there in 1929 and has worked for the Southern Oregon Gas corporation since coming here.

He is survived by his father, B. W. Walton, of Carrington, a brother, E. R. (Zeke) Walton, clerk at the Umpqua hotel here, and a sister, Mrs. Gordon Hibbs. He has lived at his sister's home for the past three months. His mother died when he was only three weeks old.

Last week the boy returned from the national guard camp at Clatsop beach. He was a member of Company D of this city.

Funeral services will be held upon arrival of the father, which will probably be Thursday. The body is at the Roseburg Undertaking parlors.

WOODEN LEG THEFT HALTS HONEYMOON

SEATTLE, June 30.—Because someone stole his wooden leg, Lloyd Burns had to postpone his honeymoon, he told police here today. Burns was married last night. When he and his bride stepped into their automobile today to start the honeymoon, he found some one had pried open a window and taken a small trunk. Burns' leg was in the trunk.

He had been using crutches temporarily, he said.

20 DIE IN BATTLE OF REDS AND POLICE

TORREON, Mexico, June 30.—The correspondent of La Prensa reports that twenty communists and police were killed and eight wounded in a severe encounter in the streets of Matamoros, Coahuila, near here.

The dispatch stated that the communists had sought permission to parade in protest against the government's arrests of communists in various parts of Mexico.

Troops hurried to the scene and restored order.

"CHEAP" HOODLUM GANGSTER VICTIM

CHICAGO, June 30.—A nickel gripped tightly in his hand, the body of Michael Gallelio, 24, young hoodlum, was found shot to death along a lonely stretch of the Joliet highway southwest of Chicago early today. Nine bullets had pierced the body. Police said the nickel was a brand of cheapness placed in the hoodlum's hand by his killers.

Located at Brockway—Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Johnson, formerly of Bridge, are now making their home on the Coos Bay highway near Brockway. Mr. Johnson is employed hauling pulp wood from Camas valley to Dillard to be shipped to Salem for use in the paper mills.

E. C. Yellowley's regime as prohibition administrator in this district. His successor, T. J. Herbert, declared early today he had not been advised of the raid.

"I am not officially in Chicago until midnight, June 30," he said. "This is still in the hands of Mr. Yellowley."
