ANTLERS—Today, "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," with Betty Compson, Chester Morris, Jean Hersholt; Thursday, Friday, Saturday, "The Texan," with Gary Cooper and Fay Wray.

"THE TEXAN," produced by Paramount, starring Gary Cooper and Fay Wray, is going to be ushered into the Antlers theatre Thursday with an all-star supporting cast adapted from the famous story of the same name, by O. Henry.

"The Texan" is said to be a companion picture to "The Virginian." Although it is a different kind of story, it is reported to be an outstanding success.

Gary Cooper again gives a sincere, sympathetic, robust performance in the famous role of the Llano Kid, Texas bandit, who almost before he knows it, finds himself in South America impersonating the long-lost son of a wealthy widow, and then the full begins. Fay Wray playing opposite Gary, does easily the best work of her career and looks ravishingly beautiful, according to those who have previewed the picture. Oscar Apfel and Emma Dunn, both well-known character people, have other important roles. Much of the credit of "The Texan" must go to the director, John Cromwell, who hereby adds another hit to his list of recent directorial triumphs.

WHATEVER has previously been said of the picture, "The Case of Sergeant Grischa" has not been enough. The unusual picture opened at the Antlers last night and will show today for the last time. It is a production difficult of description other than wonderful. It should be seen by everyone who enjoys truly good acting.

THE VALUE of SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE GOOD PERFORMANCE of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance.

Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.
