Established here nearly fifty years ago this bank has led in the upbuilding and advancement of the territory it serves—the Umpqua Valley. The celebration at Canyonville last week calls to mind the fact that this bank was in existence and doing its part in the early Stage Coach Days, when mule pack trains were still used as a means of transportation and side saddles and long riding skirts were in fashion.

BIG MUSICAL SHOW NOW AT ANTLERS

Attractions AT THE MOVIES

ANTLERS—Today and Tuesday, Marilyn Miller in "Sally"; Wednesday only, "Slightly Scared"; with Evelyn Brent and Olive Brook; Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "The Isle of Lost Ships," a sea romance packed with hair-raising thrills.

The girl who was so many years a great success on the New York stage would be expected to make an unusual talking picture for the screen. That's just what Marilyn Miller did in "Sally" which opened at the Antlers last night for a three-day run.

"Sally," as most theatre goers know, was adapted from Miss Miller's greatest stage success. The picture being all in color is the nearest thing to a stage production that could be expected. It includes some of the most pretentious stage ensembles which this reviewer has ever seen.

The noted cast, the stellar acting of Miss Miller, the big story, the music—everything contributes to make a wonderful picture.

An interesting sidelight on the story of "Sally" is that it corresponds closely with the actual experiences of Miss Miller.
