OUTDOOR sports of swimming, boating and fishing continue to hold the attention of Roseburg folks throughout the warm summer months. Weiner romps, picnics and swimming parties are now the order of the day, and are largely taking the place of indoor affairs.

An exceptionally delightful and well attended picnic was held by the Business and Professional Women's club of the city on Friday evening on the river behind the residence of Miss Bess Wharton. This annual event is always an enjoyable frolic, and this year's picnic proved to be the usual success.

Among the most charming events of the summer season were the luncheons on Wednesday and Friday afternoons, at which Mrs. A. M. Throne and Miss Naomi Scott entertained jointly.

Mrs. Hall Seely, formerly Miss Margaret Elizabeth Brown of New Haven, Connecticut, who is being entertained here as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Seely, was the center of several informal gatherings among the members of the younger circles during the week.

The Country club is growing in popularity during these joyous summer days, and groups of golfers may be seen on the links at almost every evening. Ladies' day on Thursday sees larger attendance every week at the golf and bridge tournaments.

Minnesota Girl Bride of Julian Hatfield in June Wedding

A June wedding of much interest here was that of Miss Emma Rickaby of Anoka, Minnesota, and Julian Hatfield of this city, which was solemnized at a quiet ceremony at the home of her bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rickaby, in Anoka, on June 25. Rev. Boyce of Anoka read the ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride wore a white tulle and crepe wedding gown, made with a lace yoke, fitted waist and circular skirt. Her hair was held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms. White slippers and hose completed her costume. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and carnations.

The guests were entertained at a reception following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield have left Anoka for this city where they expect to make their home. They are traveling through the Canadian Rockies by way of Lake Louise.

Southern Visitor Honored With Dinner at B. Helliwell Home

For the pleasure of Miss Ruth Helliwell, guest from Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Barton Helliwell entertained on Friday evening, July 11, at their home in Laurelwood, with a seven-thirty dinner. The attractively appointed dinner was served on the lawn.

Covers were laid for the guest of honor, Miss Helliwell, and Miss Alice Mann, Mrs. Lillie Plaster, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Barton Helliwell.

The following morning Miss Helliwell left for Yonahda to be the guest of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William Helliwell.

Miss Bess Wharton Entertains With Dinner Sunday Evening

Miss Bess Wharton entertained a group of relatives and intimate friends on Sunday evening of this week, arranging a dinner of pretty appointments for their pleasure. The dinner bank behind her home was the cool and pleasant setting for the affair.

Covers were laid for Mrs. M. J. Shoemaker, Mrs. Warren Briggs and her children, Eugenia Mae, Jimmy and Jerry Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kay and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hume and daughter, Joan, and nephew, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wharton and son, Billy, and the hostess, Miss Wharton.

World Wide Guild of Baptist Church Meets Tuesday Evening

The girls of the World Wide guild of the Baptist church met on Tuesday evening of this week in the church basement for a hot lunch supper and business session. The business of the evening consisted of the apportioning of the year's White Cross quota among the guild members.

Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Seely and son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hall Seely, who have been visiting here since their marriage in Connecticut last in June, left today for a vacation at Hamam, Lake Erie, accompanied by 21.

The color scheme of this chic dress is as attractive as it is unique. A lovely tomato shade is accented by navy blue trimmings. The colorful ensemble is carried out by a navy blue panama-like hat.

Mrs. H. E. Hoffman Delightfully Surprised With Housewarming

Mrs. H. E. Hoffman was delightfully surprised on Thursday afternoon of this week when a group of her friends met at her new home in Happy valley to honor her with a housewarming. The ladies brought their sewing and embroidery, and the afternoon hours were most agreeably filled with chatting. Delectable refreshments were also brought in and served by the visiting ladies.

Besides Mrs. Hoffman those present included Mrs. O. L. Johnson, Mrs. R. W. Taylor, Mrs. S. J. Black, Mrs. C. H. Wickham, Mrs. Lucius Page, Mrs. C. W. Tipton, Mrs. Horace Wolford, Mrs. J. F. Mrs. McGee Hostess at Pleasant Affair on Wednesday Afternoon

Mrs. William McGee presided over a pleasant affair on Wednesday afternoon of this week, when she entertained a number of her friends at her home on Harvard avenue. The rooms were beautiful with artistically arranged gladioli and baby breath.

Music and chatting were the diversions of the afternoon. Mrs. Helliwell entertained with a reading describing her "Visit to Her Old Home by Lake Ebevein" in verse. Mrs. George Chandler sang a Scotch ballad to the delight of her audience, and Mrs. Ferguson read the Scotch poem, "Cuddle Doon," which was very much enjoyed. Mrs. Millikin entertained her audience with his "Highland Fling." Sir Harry Lauder's songs were heard over the radio to complete the program.

Later dainty refreshments were served to Mrs. George Chandler, Mrs. Helen Ferguson, Mrs. Belle Webb, Mrs. A. Cray, Mrs. J. H. Cray, Mrs. T. Blevins, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thomson, Mrs. T. S. Millikin, Mrs. Jeannette Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Reese, and the hostess, Mrs. McGee.

Dinner Party Enjoyed Wednesday Evening at Verrell Home

Mr. and Mrs. E. Verrell arranged a dinner party on Wednesday evening inviting a group of friends to their home on South Pine street. The rooms were attractive with floral decorations. Cards and chatting filled the evening hours.

Enjoying the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Tally, Mr. and Mrs. H. Baker, Miss Minnie Easton, Arthur Verrell, R. J. Malchoretto and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Verrell.

Color Combinations Rule Season's Styles

The charming young lady attired as a beautiful bride in the traditional white satin and cloud of tulle, the smart young debutante in a delectable beach ensemble, the coolly efficient secretary seated at a business-like desk wearing the latest office clothes or demonstrating the points of an office device—all these attractive pictures are possessed by the girls who are leaders in their chosen profession.

And then again the illustrations that accompany the stories in periodicals and magazines, the same charming girl model in the same too, and do their best to make the story even more interesting and intriguing than it is. Talk with some of the famous artists who are top notchers in the field of magazine story illustrating and they will tell you how much they owe to their models, and how much these suave models help them in creating the correct atmosphere in the picture that helps tell the story.

The girls who are most in demand by photographers and artists live exceedingly busy lives. Their days are mapped with the precision usually associated with a busy executive. They dash from one sitting to another sustained by a hastily eaten sandwich, snatched in between appointments or eaten

Mrs. Sanford, Mrs. Wharton Joint Hostesses at Lovely Affair

Mrs. C. W. Wharton and Mrs. S. A. Sanford joined in entertaining the members of their bridge club at a business luncheon and additional guests on Friday evening, July 11, at a six-thirty dinner at the delightful summer cabin belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Wharton. The dinner was served at small tables on the platform beside the river. Rows of sweet peas formed an attractive color motif.

At the close of dinner the guests assembled in the summer cabin of Mrs. J. F. Barker, where several tables were laid for bridge. High scores among the ladies went to Mrs. J. C. Hume, first, and Mrs. J. G. Hume, second. Arthur Baum scored highest among the men.

Slurping the hospitality of Mrs. Sanford and Mrs. Wharton were Mrs. Warren Briggs, Miss Elizabeth Parrott, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyard Waddell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bellows, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Virden, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tyle, Mrs. L. W. Joseph and son, Jack, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lewis, M. M. Miller, Gene Parrott, H. Wollenberg, guests. Club members and their husbands were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Modern Artists' Models Must Be Intelligent

"Beautiful But Dumb" Girls No Longer in Demand—Popular Posers Make Good Salaries.

Betty Johnson, by Alice Alden. New York, July 19.—Beauty has become something more than a cult. It has become a profession, and to the girl who realizes the assets of her beauty, charm and innate grace it offers a new field of achievement and success. The artist model is not what she used to be, or what she is supposed to have been—a good-looking girl who had nothing more to do than to look beautiful and stand still for hours and hours.

Today the artist model relies as much on her brain as on her charms and charms. And that is why the ranks of successful models contain several college girls, daughters of professional men and even society girls, all of them young and charming, all of them full of vigor and enthusiasm over their chosen profession. For modeling has become a profession, as one can learn from any famous commercial artist or photographer.

Leaders of Profession

The charming young lady attired as a beautiful bride in the traditional white satin and cloud of tulle, the smart young debutante in a delectable beach ensemble, the coolly efficient secretary seated at a business-like desk wearing the latest office clothes or demonstrating the points of an office device—all these attractive pictures are possessed by the girls who are leaders in their chosen profession.

And then again the illustrations that accompany the stories in periodicals and magazines, the same charming girl model in the same too, and do their best to make the story even more interesting and intriguing than it is. Talk with some of the famous artists who are top notchers in the field of magazine story illustrating and they will tell you how much they owe to their models, and how much these suave models help them in creating the correct atmosphere in the picture that helps tell the story.

The girls who are most in demand by photographers and artists live exceedingly busy lives. Their days are mapped with the precision usually associated with a busy executive. They dash from one sitting to another sustained by a hastily eaten sandwich, snatched in between appointments or eaten

Some of the Best

The highest paid models in the profession today are Betty Johnson, who poses for the girl of the "society" type; Joan Clemens—much in demand by photographers; Peggy Fish, a good clothes type; Celine Anderson, blonde and statuesque; Marjorie Moorehouse, a most aristocratic type, and Winifred Strickland, who instantly suggests a cute and fashionable "debutante."

Many girls who are very much of society are also earning extra "pin money" by posing for photographers. One of these is Miss Hannah Lee Sherman, who is listed in the New York Social Register. She portrays, of course, the society girl as a bride, in evening clothes and other lovely raiment. It is said that her mother was at first opposed to her daughter, a seclusion of an aristocratic old family, doing this work. But after accompanying her daughter and seeing how interesting the work is, and how business-like its methods and activities, it is said that she not only gave permission for her daughter to continue the work, but that she herself helps to arrange the appointments and schedules. Thus has the once-despised profession of modelling entered the ranks of society and created new standards of beauty combined with brains.

Roseburg B. and P. W. Club Annual Picnic Successful Affair

One of the most outstanding events of the club year was the annual picnic of the business and professional Women's club held at the beautiful picnic grounds of Miss Bess Wharton's home on the banks of the Umpqua.

About forty-five members of the club and guests were seated at tables beautified with baskets of baskets of gardenias, which lovely picnic dinner was served. After group singing, the regular business meeting was held and the yearly reports of the officers given, which bespoke of a very successful year just past. At this time Ellen Post gave a very interesting report of the international relations luncheon at the state convention held at Medford in May.

The installation of the officers for the coming year was held at this time, the retiring president, Mrs. E. R. Keny, installing the following officers: Edith Balbe, president; Stella Spencer, vice-president; Vera Frearickson, secretary; Ila Laubach, treasurer, and Ellen Post, sergeant-at-arms. The new officers were each presented with a corsage bouquet. Mrs. Keny was then pleasantly surprised with a beautiful gift from the club members.

Afterwards boating and fireworks were enjoyed. The club has been invited to the home of Mrs. L. J. Skinner at Winston in August and this is being looked forward to with great pleasure by the members.

The committee in charge of the picnic was headed by Miss Bess Wharton, who had as her assistants, Mrs. S. L. Kidder, Mrs. Goldie Brunn, Mrs. W. E. Ott and Mrs. Edith Gilmour.

Poets' Corner

OREGON PRUNES

When Eden's garden held a man,
The first that nature knew,
Sweet sleep upon this man one day
Beneath a prune tree grew.

He slept and slept as ripe prunes fell
And all around him lay,
He stilled in dreams while from his side
A rib was cut away.

The rib, entwined with life, was changed
Into a full-grown tree,
Fair as the roses that she plucked
And tied with threads of grass.

Prunes were forbidden but the girl,
Who to the man did call,
Did eat and eat with him this fruit
Which led them to their fall.

Then in this land, which now is known
As Oregon, they found
The prunes were not forbidden
Prunes.
