Save the Trees
 It takes at least twenty years for a maple tree to grow to full maturity—and but twenty minutes to chop it down. Two beautiful maple trees on Winchester street which have for years beautified a portion of the city's northwest entrance were felled last week to make room for another gasoline filling station.

Portland suffered the loss of a great Linden tree in a similar manner not long ago.
 No doubt we must leave a sigh and philosophically accept the demolition of the trees as progress and as a giving way to the necessities of business. It seems too bad though that business must be so ruthless in its destruction of trees, particularly of trees that beautify our entrance streets.
 The Roseburg Rotary club as its major activity for this year will encourage tree planting. It might also well undertake to preserve and care for the trees which have already reached their full beauty.
 Future service station builders might thus be shown the benefitious shade around their places of business.

Well, that's that. The republican committee nominated its retiring chief. Good republicans will rally to the support of the new nominee and the election will settle down and become a good old republican and democratic election. It will, that is, unless some eternal optimist decides to run as an independent.

Parents should be grateful for this tree-sitting craze adopted by the youngsters. They are certainly out of mischief when they sit up in a tree.

Oregon's Growth Quite Satisfactory
 (Salem Capital Journal) OREGON'S extraordinary complex and rapidly changing state as backward and lagging behind in development and growth, yet the preliminary census estimates show that Oregon ranks sixth among the forty-eight states of the Union in rate of increase in population during the past decade. With 2.49 per cent gain, only California, Florida, Michigan, Texas and North Carolina exceed her in percentage of growth.
 Among western states only California has increased faster in population. Washington, however, led up a shining example of progress in Oregon to emulate, showing that Oregon to gain 7.67 per cent, less than Oregon. Other western states are as follows: Nevada, 16.9 per cent; New Mexico, 16.2 per cent; Wyoming, 15.6 per cent; Utah, 11.8 per cent; Colorado, 9.9 per cent; Montana, decrease of 2.8 per cent. The only western states reporting larger populations than Oregon are California, Washington and Colorado.
 With nearly a million population, it is high time that Oregonians discard the defeated attitude, and anxiety howling and recognize the steady but unimpaired growth and development of the state.

Advice to Girls
 By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE:
 I am a girl in my early teens.
 Am usually considered good-looking and am rather fat. This detracts from my popularity with the boys. I am popular with the girls but I would like the companionship of both sexes.
 Please advise me what to do.
 I would like you to answer these questions for a friend.
 1. Nancy Lee, do you think twelve too young to have dates with boys?
 2. Should a girl of twelve take a present from a boy?

Around Douglas County With The News-Review Man Combine Equipment Proves Value in Progressive Farming; Pullets Yield Early.

By R. R. WOOD
 Among the progressive farmers of Douglas county who are reaching out for greater achievements in agricultural pursuits, undaunted by the low bid in farm products, is J. H. Cathcart, who farms a big place near Yoncalla. Mr. Cathcart believes the only way to beat low prices is to make the business of farming so thorough that production costs will be greatly lessened, and then sell to the best advantage. This farmer is a grower of grain, raises sheep, and carries on general farm operations. He uses the latest methods in preparing soil and seeding the ground, and then harvests the crops the quickest way through the use of latest machinery. He has just purchased an Oliver combine outfit, cutting use equipment in operation Thursday, D. H. Reed, of Portland, re-was present to get the outfit in good trim for the season's business.

 Oregon politics, "on the inside."

PHIL METSCHAN IS REPRESENTATIVE OF THE OLD TYPE OF LEADERSHIP IN OREGON

PHIL METSCHAN is representative of the old type of leadership in Oregon—the OX TEAM type of leadership. The inclination of leaders of this type has been not to strike out after new and original things in the way of development of Oregon, but rather to sit on the lid, to see that Oregon doesn't get into trouble through boiling over with new en-thusiasms.
 We have had many leaders of that type here in Oregon. And under their leadership Oregon has fallen behind her neighbors in the march of progress.
 But, if we are to be wholly fair, we must admit that under this type of leadership Oregon has stayed sound. The growth she has made has been SOLID growth.

THE SEA BRIDE
 By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

Faith Kilcup had always looked upon Captain Noll Wing, of the whaler, Sally, as a man in a tower of strength, but shortly after their marriage he changed.
 Dissipation and old age were exacting their toll. The men of his crew no longer feared him. Faith was disillusioned. Dan'l Tobey, second mate who loved Faith, vainly tried to discredit Noll before Faith. In a quarrel Noll kicks out the eye of Mauger, a member of the crew.
 Thereafter, he fears Mauger's vengeance. When the Sally Sims puts into a lonely island, Faith goes ashore. She meets an ex-sailor named Brander, who goes with her to join Noll's crew.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII
 When Mr. Ham, writing his boat with his men, saw Faith coming, and saw the stranger at her side, he went to meet them. His bearing was inclined to truculence.
 Faith was ashore here in his charge; if this man had disturbed her—Faith reassured him.
 "I've a hand for you, Mr. Ham," she called. "You need men." Mr. Ham stopped ten paces from them, his legs spread wide. He looked from Faith to Brander.
 Brander smiled in a friendly way.
 "Can you use me?" he asked.
 "I know the work."
 Mr. Ham frowned thoughtfully.
 "What's this, ma'am?" he asked Faith. "Who's that man?"
 "Ask him," said Faith quietly.
 "I believe he wants to ship. I told him we were short."

THE MATE LOOKED AT BRANDER.

The mate looked at Brander.
 His attitude toward Faith had been deferential; toward Brander he assumed unconsciously the terrorizing frown which he was accustomed to turn upon the men.
 "What do you want?" he challenged.
 "To ship with you," Brander replied pleasantly.
 "What are you doing here?"
 "I was third mate on the Thomas Morgan," said Brander.
 "Cap'n Marks?" Mr. Ham asked.
 "Yes."
 "We've no use for any o' Marks's mates aboard the Sally!" Brander smiled.
 "I wasn't thinking of shipping as mate. Can you use a hand?"
 "Where's the Thomas Morgan?"
 "On the Solander Grounds, likely."
 "How come you're not with her?"
 "I left them hereabouts."
 "Left them?"
 "Yes."
 "They've got the name on the Morgan of letting me go?"
 "They had no choice. They took me—otherwise engaged when I took my leave."
 "That's a slovenly ship," said Mr.
 Ham.
 "One reason why I'm not on her now."
 The mate frowned.
 "I'm not saying it's not in your favor that you got away from them, and we do need men. Men, not officers," he added hastily.
 "That suits me."
 Mr. Ham looked around. Faith stood a little at one side, listening quietly.
 "Well, come aboard," said the mate. "See what the old man says."
 Brander nodded.
 "Thanks, sir," he said.
 He adopted, easily and without abatement, the attitude of a format hand toward the officer, and went ahead of the mate and Faith to stow his bundle in the boat. The other men waiting there, as mentioned before, but they all fell silent as Mr. Ham and Faith came to where the boat lay on the sand.
 Tichel had already taken the watercasks out to the whaler. The men took the whale-boat and dragged it down to the water.

WASTE ELIMINATED

This demonstration was carried on at the Dear farm because Mr.
 Cathcart's own fields were hardly ripe enough to cut and thresh.
 This field of vetch, according to estimates made by farmers, was running around 29 bushels of seed to the acre. This was considered excellent, and there was no waste, as in some cases of harvesting by the old method a loss of 25 per cent is sustained through cracked or broken grain, which is ruined in the process of handling. The farmers present at the demonstration agreed that the combine would save practically 100 per cent of the crop, and in this way a profit, heretofore lost, will be saved the grower.

South Planning Giant Cooperative To Market Fruits and Vegetables

ATLANTA, Ga., July 26.—(A. P.)—A giant new cooperative is in the making in Dixie.
 The proposed organization, which would join fruit and vegetable producers of the south, got its inception at a meeting here of commissioners of agriculture from seven states.
 The plan will be taken to the federal farm board in Washington.
 The cooperative would revolutionize methods of marketing fruit and vegetables in the south, which in the last decade has added a rapidly growing output of truck crops to its large fruit output.
 Action of the commissioners was the first move ever made to form an organization serving the entire south for distribution of farm products, other than cotton and tobacco, to eliminate competition between states and communities.
 Commissioner William A. Graham, of North Carolina, proposed the cooperative. Harry D. Wilson of Louisiana, president of the Southern Association of Commissioners of Agriculture, was an enthusiastic second.
 The other commissioners favored the plan unanimously.
 Details of the organization will be worked out by Graham and Wilson who, with other southern commissioners and state market bureau chiefs, will submit the plan to the bureau of agricultural economics and the federal farm board in Washington.
 Out of the Washington meeting, Graham and Wilson believe, will come a strong union that will enable each state to know at all times what the other is placing on the market and govern shipments to avoid glutted markets and low prices.

FRENCH TENNIS DUO RETAINS DAVIS CUP

(Associated Press Special Wire) AUTEUIL, France, July 28.— Once more the tennis musketeers of France have beaten off America's challenge for the Davis cup.
 Capturing both of the final singles matches yesterday, France clinched the cup by a margin of four victories to one and lost no doubt the superiority of the French team, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, over the best American can offer in a tennis war at the present time.
 Borotra, the "Bouncing Pasque" of old, clinched the series with a five set victory over George Lott of Chicago, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2, 8-6, and Cochet put the finishing touches to an overwhelming French victory by trouncing Bill Tilden, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.
 Thus the series ended with Tilden still clinging to the American point by beating Borotra in singles on Friday. Lott lost both his singles matches and Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, Wimbledon champions, lost the doubles to Co-chet and Jacques Brugnon.
