MOVIE OF BYRD'S SOUTH POLAR TRIP SERIES OF THRILLS

By G. C. ARR

Actual pictures of the South polar flight accomplished by Rear Admiral Byrd who sketched in highlights some of the conditions and hardships confronted by his men in the ice wastes. Then, a shot of the bark "City of New York" which carried the party south and a series of impressive, danger-filled sea shots which graphically indicate the perils of the southern waters through which the boat plied from New Zealand to the Bay of Whales.

The camera takes you then to the Ross Barrier, guardian of the Antarctic, and picks out the dangers of all unknown—that faced the hand of 42 men left on the ice to carry forward the objectives of the exploring party. Shelf ice that crashes without warning into the sea, crevasses that cover blind dangers and terrific storms that sweep up from nobody knew where.

The construction of the camp, dubbed "Little America," is pictured in a quick, but self-explanatory, series of sequences; the life of the men, the blotting out of the sun for 155 days, the assembling of aeroplanes, the wireless room.

Then into the plane, the pictures carries the spectator further, showing the mechanics of the flight, scenes of the barren islands below and a memorable, thrilling inset of Byrd's famous message when his calculations convinced him that he was actually over the Pole.

When he takes the American flag, weighed down by a stone from Floyd Bennett's grave, drops it through the floor of the plane and stands stiffly at salute in honor of his dead companion, right then and there enough kick reaches out from the screen to electrify any audience.

No one who likes drama in its most thrilling form, no one who would like to see the South Pole or the Antarctic should miss this picture. It is historic and in that nothing similar was ever before filmed and should not be missed by any man, woman, boy or girl who can possibly see it.

Returned From Vacation—Miss Dolma Grobe, clerk at Abraham's clothing store, has returned from a vacation of two weeks spent in Portland and Newport.

Gray haired men foolish to be gray and look old

New Tonic Stops Hair Falling Out and Banishes Every Gray Hair in Your
Head

USE AT HOME LITTLE
WHILE; NO TROUBLE

"My hair had been falling out for years until it was mighty thin in spots and had turned gray, too, so I bought one thing and then another but nothing helped me until I saw Lea's Hair Tonic advertised. It is wonderful stuff," declared Albert Janz, who, like many others here, is no longer gray or bothered with dandruff or falling hair.

"I didn't have faith in Lea's but gave it a trial anyhow and am glad I did for it works like magic. Results were astonishing and so perfect I recommend Lea's Hair Tonic to everybody and think gray haired men are foolish not to use it. It makes a man look years younger and better groomed," continued Mr. Janz, 2910 South J Street, Tacoma, Wash.

Thousands of men massage a drop or two of Lea's into their scalp with finger tips and are delighted beyond words at the youthful, improved appearance it brings to the hair. It doesn't strain or give a dyed appearance. It is a clear clean smelling liquid even the most fastidious people use with delight. One can defy their barber to detect the use of Lea's and gradually day by day the hair goes back to its youthful color. Then an occasional massaging keeps the head and scalp in vigorous healthy condition entirely free of gray or dandruff.

If the reader desires to try Lea's let them obtain a bottle at nearest drug store on positive guarantee of satisfaction or money back, or send dollar bill, check or stamps to Lea Hair Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md., a regular size bottle will be mailed to you.

NOTED MOVIE LION
TO VISIT ROSEBURG

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

Everybody who is interested in seeing $1,000,000 worth of lion should make a note to be in the vicinity of the Antlers theatre at 6:45 p. m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, where Leo, the celebrated trade-marked lion of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is scheduled to make his headquarter during his stop in town. Leo, who lends his dignity as the king of beasts to the trade-mark of this motion picture company, and who roars at us at the beginning of each of its motion pictures, will appear in person—behind the silver bars of his magnificent, motorized traveling cage which is reported to be the most lavishly equipped and decorated conveyance ever specially designed for any quadruped.

At any rate Leo is insured for a million dollars which makes him the most highly valued beast in the history of showdom. The policy makes Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sole beneficiary in the event of injuries or fatality, but to all appearances there is slight possibility of any adjustments being necessary so well protected is Leo in his palatial motor cage, and so closely are his seven hundred and thirty-five pounds of health guarded by his trainer, Capt. Volney Philter.
