Drum Corps to Baker

It is practically all settled—the Umpqua Post American Legion drum corps will represent us at the big state Legion convention in Baker.

The boys will have a special car which will no doubt have room for other legionnaires, should they wish to go. Housing arrangements in Baker can be arranged here through the post officers. From all accounts it is going to be one big fine convention and Roseburg will be on the job STRONG.

One of the reasons we are making such an effort to send the drum corps to Baker is that we want the convention here in Roseburg in 1932 and the only way we can get it is to go after it—with drums and everything else we can muster.

We'll "Make 'er to Baker" this year and start "Rolling toward Roseburg in 1932."

They have built an all-metal apartment house in Chicago. Good intelligent building—good head work—safely first!

Oregon Editors' Opinions

PHILIP GAZETTE TIMES: Phil Metschan, who was finally nominated, is too well known in Oregon to need any extended encomiums here. He is abundantly qualified for the position. He is as honest as the word itself. He is a self made man in every sense of the word—a man of keen business ability, good judgment, incorruptible, not easily swept off his feet, knows human nature—an excellent trait in making appointments, knows all Oregon like a book, well educated and thoroughly versed in business administration. He will make Oregon a good government and his long service to the republican party entitles him to its united support.

MEDFORD NEWS: Natural enough is it that the "stand pat" press of Oregon, anxious to see the "yes men" we see every day around us, should rally to the standard and the standard-bearer, when bitter criticism is being leveled at the party for the Oregon and cowardly manner in which that notorious "ring" of politicians slanted aside all principle in its determined attempt to "railroad" into public office Phil Metschan. But the "railroading" ceases immediately. The people of Oregon indicated in the primaries when they so decisively voted their desire for the Joseph principles, that they are sick and tired of being cudgeled into believing what they don't want to believe. They are sick and tired of being ruled by "political bosses" and minions who seek nothing more than "soft jobs" with nothing to give in return.

BAKER DEMOCRAT-HERALD: Mr. Metschan would not have been our choice had we been voting in the convention. The reason is that he does not seem to represent a fair cross section of republican opinion in Oregon but the conservative wing which was defeated at the primaries and should not have been given the nomination when death removed the successful candidate. We should not have countenanced the Metschan nomination wise republican politics because he was one of the few strongly objected to by the Joseph following. We would not have accepted the state or the dictation of Joseph's followers but we would have met them half way by nominating a moderate liberal, who might hope to represent the average feeling of the party. Such a step might have avoided an independent candidacy now likely to be launched. We believe the Metschan nomination will be generally recognized as one that the people would not have made.

SALEM STATESMAN: The Statesman opposed the nomination of Metschan, and still thinks the committee erred in judgment. But writing objectively in the effort to give an honest report of what happened, we must repeat that the committee meeting was free from machine domination of any nominating convention we have observed or participated in. We may expect the democratic press joined by the extreme pro-Joseph element to start a coyote chorus about the secret ballot and "machine control," but the howling will be solely for political effect, because the voting by the 26 committeemen was the most independent and individualistic which we have ever seen. It would not have swung through fourteen ballots with all the shifts and turns it did if the business of nominating had been cut and dried.

PENDLETON EAST OREGONIAN: It looks like we are to have a busy time politically in Oregon this year with a three cornered race for governor in the offing. The Metschan nomination does not please the Joseph followers and they are formidable. They received patron and they do not seem to warm up to Senator Bailey, the democratic nominee. Reports from Portland are that an independent candidate will be in the field.

OREGON CITY ENTERPRISE: The nomination of Phil Metschan as republican candidate for governor by the republican state central committee on the fourteenth ballot can be construed as representing a reward for party loyalty and as the decision of men who refused to recognize factionalism within the party. Metschan, although long recognized as a successful business man, and as a public spirited son of Oregon, as well as a party leader who has been a consistent worker for party success, is on the blacklist of the Joseph adherents and his nomination presages a spectacular three-cornered race this fall.

THE DALLES CHRONICLE: The republicans have chosen a nominee for the governorship of Oregon who is fully qualified to lead the party to victory in November. Phil Metschan, named by the state committee in Portland late Saturday, has the fortunate combination of business ability, political leadership, high character and personal popularity that will serve in good stead, if he is elected governor. Given the united support of his party, little difficulty should be experienced along this line.

Talks on Health By DR. R. S. COPELAND

WE ARE always afraid of the word "hydrophobia." It has a sinister sound, and used to be the cause of a great many deaths. This was before Pasteur gave to the world the benefit of his treatment for the disease. By the timely use of his treatment by inoculation nobody need die of the disease at the present time.

Of those who are bitten by dogs only about 15 per cent develop the disease. The large majority of bites are inflicted by healthy dogs and such bites mean nothing beyond the ordinary dangers that accompany any wound.

Hydrophobia is an infectious disease caused by a particular germ which has been communicated by an animal to the bitten human. Most domestic animals are subject to rabies. This is true of cats, dogs, horses, cattle, swine, as well as skunks and wolves. Wolves seem to be the most dangerous of all animals in this respect, but few of us are likely to meet them.

In view of the danger of rabies, it is important to find out whether or not the biting dog is really rabid. This is done by examining the brain of the animal after it has been killed. As soon as a person is bitten the wound should be allowed to bleed as much as possible. Then it should be cauterized with carbolic or nitric acid, applying it carefully so as to keep from burning a large surface of the skin.

When a person is bitten by an animal one should notify the health department or health officer at once for advice on what to do and for treatment. If it is found that the dog had rabies it will be necessary to take the Pasteur treatment, which continues over a period of about twenty days. Any local or state board of health will give you advice on what to do.

If a dog is suspected of being mad it should be kept under observation in a suitable place. Within five or six days it will give every evidence of the disease and quickly die. Then its brain is examined to verify the diagnosis. Dog lovers do not like to muzzle their pets. But the only sure way to stamp out hydrophobia and make the public safe from the disease is to insist on dogs wearing muzzles in public places.

praise for what he has done, because he is going to feel that he did only his DUTY. But the knowledge that he wasn't afraid when the test came is going to help him a lot.

THERE is much wild talk, most of it uninformed, about business conditions in the United States. Here are some FACTS, to set over against this wild talk:

Business as a whole, throughout the entire country, is about 51 per cent normal.

Employment, all over the United States, is about 85 per cent of normal.

Volume of retail sales, for the entire country, is about 87 per cent of last year.

ON JUNE 30, 1930, bank deposits in Oregon exceeded by $85,837 the total of bank deposits in Oregon on June 30, 1929.

Not a large increase, to be sure—but an INCREASE.

HERE is another little straw in the wind:

For the first six months of 1929, total membership receipts of the Oregon State Motor association were $46,926.03. For the first six months of 1930, total membership receipts were $56,480.32.

That is to say, during the first half of this year the people of Oregon VOLUNTARILY spent $10,000 more for the motor association dues than they spent last year.

DON'T draw wrong conclusions from these facts. The country as a whole isn't BOOMING. Oregon isn't booming.

Business, unfortunately, doesn't run along at a smooth, even gait. It runs at top speed for a while, and then it has to stop and pant; recovering its breath for another spurt.

Business is pausing now to pant after its last burst of speed.

BUT business isn't ALL GONE. The country hasn't gone to the dogs. The future isn't all black and gloomy.

Business all over the country is moving forward much as usual, but NOT QUITE SO FAST.

After a while, business will begin to speed up again.
