NEW COAST ROAD GETS ENDORSEMENT

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

WHEELER, Aug. 6.—A series of resolutions concerning the proposed construction of a short cut to the sea from Portland for submission to the Oregon state highway commission, were being signed by civic and community organizations from Astoria to Tillamook today.

The resolutions are in the nature of an assurance of support and a pledge of loyalty to the highway commission in any action it may take on any route.

TODAY'S MARKETS

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

Fresh Extras Advance

PORTLAND, Aug. 6.—Fresh extras in eggs advanced 1c to 27c today but no changes in other grades were announced by the Pacific Co-operative Poultry Producers. Top grades are reported in wide demand.

The butter market was firm with trade moderate and receipts ...

Trading on the wholesale fruit and vegetable market is rather quiet this week, with ... low price-levels. Watermelons show the greatest activity, comprising ... of the total carlot volume of unloads at present.

Tomatoes from The Dalles are now at their season's peak, ... are holding at firmer levels during last year's peak. Receipts from The Dalles are much lighter than last year, possibly due to a greater portion of the crop moving eastward by rail.

With the northwestern cantaloupe season approaching, much interest is felt in competition from Colorado. First loadings from that state are expected today or tomorrow, with considerable volume moving by the end of this week. Colorado's peak shipments are expected to reach 100 cars daily, in the last week of August.

California peaches have apparently reached their lowest price levels of the season. Growers and shippers are allowing the surplus production to remain unharvested, rather than causing market gluts with extremely heavy shipments.

FISHERMEN CAN NOW BE HAPPY

So that Oregon nimrods who like their sport of fishing served with a line and spinning spoon may continue to enjoy bringing home a creel full of fish, the Bonneville fish hatchery is making plans this year to release more than 12,000,000 salmon in the water of the Columbia river.

At the Bonneville hatchery, which is the best of the 17 salmon hatcheries in Oregon and said to be the most comprehensive in the world, there are 45 various sized ponds, each of which holds from 200,000 to 2,000,000 small salmon. Most of the fish released at this hatchery are Chinooks although an appreciable number of Sockeyes are also raised at Bonneville.

Mr. Howell, superintendent of the hatchery, explained to the Pontiac party that the salmon are hatched in trays and are then placed in troughs, which have a capacity of 90,000 fish each, until the young salmon are large enough to feed in ponds. Chinook salmon are approximately 4½ inches long when liberated in the Columbia while Sockeyes are held until they are 6½ inches long.

Eggs are taken at the Bonneville hatchery in September, hatched during December and January and then the small salmon are released in the Columbia in August and September.

"There are just as many fish as there were a few years ago in the Columbia river," said Mr. Howell. "The only reason that they are scarce is that commercial fishermen are catching about twice as many as they did twenty years ago."

FOREST OFFICIALS STOP IN ROSEBURG

A group of forest service officials, including Fred Morrell, assistant forester in charge of public relations from Washington, D. C., Major John D. Guthrie, assistant regional forester; Ted Greenwater, deputy state forester and E. H. McDaniels, regional inspector, visited Roseburg today and conferred with officers of the Umpqua national forest. The officials are accompanying Mr. Morrell on a survey of the national forests of the state, where he is making an inspection in connection with the survey recently ordered by congress.

POEM FOR THE DAY

By LOUIS ALBERT BANKS

POVERTY THE KEY TO ROMANCE

The John Brown School, whose 400-acre campus near Siloam Springs, Arkansas, is nestled by the Ozark foothills, is a school where a student's absolute lack of financial resources is a necessary requirement for admission. Applicants must make affidavit that they are without funds to go elsewhere to school. Students who are accepted for enrollment pay a nominal yearly tuition of $150, but they pay it in the form of 6 per cent notes that do not begin to draw interest until graduation day. No repayment of the principal of these notes is expected until a student is able actually to earn the money with which to do so.

Regardless of all this, Presiden. John E. Brown dissents when it is stated that the school bearing his name is engaged in giving poor boys and girls an education. He prefers to have it said that the Siloam Springs institution exists to give young folks without resources an opportunity to educate themselves. To one who has never been upon the campus this may appear to be a distinction without a difference. Yet the idea embodied in the way President Brown prefers to speak of the purpose of the school is one about which every activity of its faculty and its student body revolves.

The John Brown School has been called America's all-work college. It is a place where everybody works and where everyone rejoices in the opportunity to do so. Each boy and girl in this institution learns actually how to do things. Every task about the place is made to serve a laboratory purpose whether it be the baking of gingerbread in the school kitchens or the preserving of fruits and vegetables in the well-equipped school cannery.—News note from Kansas City, Mo., July 12, 1930.

John Brown makes poverty the key
To open doors on mystery;
He gives unprivileged youth a chance
To enter doors of rich romance;
To help those in financial need—
That is his royal college creed;
Give hungry minds in moral health
The chance to sample learning's wealth.

He keeps no learning there for sale,
But needy youth may find the trail
That leads to wisdom's golden store
If they are hungry to the core.
It is no place to sponge or shirk,
But gives rewards to those who work,
A chance to educate one's self
If he loves knowledge more than pelf.

This is a college with an aim
That fits a youth who's poor—but game—
To overcome his handicap
And all the founts of wisdom tap.
This is a school where all must work—
No laziness allowed to lurk,
But, climbing, hope has chance to rise
And capture learning's highest prize.

John Brown has dreamed a noble dream,
Evolved a worthy Christian scheme;
'Tis meet it has this name "Siloam,"
Where struggling youth may find a home.
It harks us back to that retreat
Where Jesus walked with friendly feet.
'Twill strengthen multitudes of souls
And send them forth to nobler goals.

ROY ANDREWS IN THE GOBI DESERT

Word has just been received by John R. Lee, vice-president of commercial relations of Dodge Brothers, from Roy Chapman Andrews, American explorer and zoologist, now in China, that his latest expedition into Mongolia in search of the birthplace of man is under way.

Five months will be spent in the field, according to Dr. Andrew's message, and the explorers of the American Museum of Natural History plan to cover an area of between 3,000 and 4,000 square miles in the Gobi desert, traveling by means of the fleet of eight Dodge Brothers motor vehicles which has been used instead of camel caravans on a series of previous Central Asiatic expeditions, starting in 1922.

The latest expedition, it is reported, was held up for a considerable time by the unfriendly attitude of native Chinese bandit chieftains. However, it is believed that Dr. Andrews has finally negotiated amicable arrangements with the tribesmen which will enable the party to complete its explorations of the trackless wastes in the great upland desert of Gobi, where it has already found traces of a people there more than 20,000 years ago and the partial skeleton of the world's largest land mammal, standing 16 feet high at the shoulder and weighing more than 20 tons.

All the real exploring, according to Dr. Andrews is done with the Dodge cars. It is expected that the latest expedition will develop much additional scientific information and add materially to the collections of fossils.

IRRIGATION PLAN EYED BY ENGINEER

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 6.—The Eastern Oregon Livestock company yesterday filed with State Engineer Luper a claim for what would be the largest irrigation water right ever granted in the state. The filing is on Donner and Blitzen river and its purpose the irrigation of 49,382 acres. The claim is made in connection with the adjudication of the waters of that stream.

TOOK IT TO BUILD HER UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

La Junta, Colo.—"After my little daughter was born, one of my neighbors persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up. The first bottle made quite a change in me. I got an appetite and can sleep much better, I am not so nervous as I was. I have six children and do all my own work. I can do so much more now than I could when I began taking the Vegetable Compound and I shall certainly recommend your medicine whenever I have an opportunity."—Mrs. John Osborn, R. #2, Box 216, La Junta, Colorado.

FINDING NUGGET STARTS GOLD RUSH

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

BENDIGO, Australia, Aug. 5.—Discovery of a 30-ounce gold nugget at Tarnagulla, Victoria, 40 miles from here, has started a new gold rush.

More than 250 prospectors, most of them driving high powered American cars, have already reached the field and pegged out claims.

Australia today was in the throes of the greatest gold fever n many years. Seven expeditions with full transport equipment including airplanes, trucks, and camel caravans, the prospectors backed by many thousands of dollars and their outfits staffed by experienced pioneers have been fitted out for penetration of the waste areas where traces of gold have been found.

Hostile bushmen already have caused considerable trouble for some of the prospectors.

The prospectors are looking particularly to what is known as the center of Australia, an area about 1,000 miles square. This district, which is virtually unexplored, is believed to contain rich mineral areas.

Discovery of the Tarnagulla nugget created a tremendous interest in the Australian gold fields.

One expedition, led by Donald Mackey, noted Australian prospector, had just returned from central Australia, where it made an extensive airplane survey. Mr. Mackey brought back to Sydney maps and other data he collected for use in further prospecting.
