TODAY'S MARKETS

PORTLAND, Aug. 7.—Commodity prices have begun to answer the call to higher ground. With corn and wheat values soaring at Chicago, flour, butter and egg quotations are likewise soaring. The first two products advanced materially Thursday with eggs firming up evidently in anticipation of another advance.

All grades of butter were up 1c at the Portland Produce exchange, bringing extras to 36c.

Butterfat at the same time stepped up 2c to 36c, delivered Portland.

Family patents and pastry flour advanced 20c by the Sperry Flour company.

Two of the summer's choicest fruits—peaches and cantaloupes—are now in very liberal supply, prices are considered reasonable.

Green corn has dropped to about 15c a dozen.

TIMKEN ROLLER BEARING COMPANY INCREASING CREW

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 6.—L. M. Likinedinst, vice-president of the Timken Roller Bearing company, said today 5,000 men will be returned to work in the Canton, Ohio, plant of the company Monday as an indication of improved business conditions.

Here for an inspection of the local branches of his company and a tour of the steel district, Mr. Likinedinst expressed the opinion that business depression has reached its lowest point and now is taking an upward trend.

HOOVER DONATES CHURCH WINDOW

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

PORTLAND, Aug. 7.—Dedication of the Minthorn community church at East Milwaukie Sunday, August 24, will have a special significance due to the donation by President Hoover of a stained glass window.

Dr. John Minthorn, owner of the land near the present church, was an uncle of President Hoover. During his childhood, the president spent many vacations with Dr. Minthorn.

Mrs. Chris Hansen wrote President Hoover concerning the dedication and a stained glass window symbolizing peace, showing a wreath inside of which is a dove with an olive branch was forwarded for installation.

Children of the church raised sufficient money to purchase a similar window.

POEM FOR THE DAY

By LOUIS ALBERT BANKS

PERSHING THE STEADFAST

It is exactly almost twelve years since General Pershing, the Allies being hard pressed, made an offer which instilled new hope in their hearts. "All we have is yours," he proclaimed, and the tired poilu and the worn-out "Tommy" felt the power of the new force that was with them. From Calais to Belfort the moral effect was pronounced.

Men exhausted by a four-year struggle looked up and saw an army of youth from over the seas ready to help.

Much has happened in those twelve years. Most of the commanders-in-chief of the allied armies have given their last command. But in Washington, and very slightly changed since those momentous days, the head of what was the American Expeditionary Force is active in the war department.

It was in Paris that I first met him, a Paris that was being shelled in the daytime by Big Bertha thirty miles away, and bombed during the night by German planes. It was thus a sad and despondent Paris to which he had come—a confused and frightened city, where not only terrified and pale-faced children, but grown men and women, rushed to safety when the sirens with their melancholy wails warned of another attack from the skies.

His house was on the left bank, on the Rue des Varennes. It was large and furnished in rococo style. I shall never forget my first glimpse of him as he came from the carved marble steps. The fat modeled cherubs, the gilded wreaths with their flamboyant bows of carved ribbons, the tapestry hangings and the flowered rugs, seemed a queer setting for the rugged figure in khaki. He was all business-like efficiency. There was a certain grimness about him, a look of purpose, but withal an air of optimism and sincerity that made an impression which twelve years have not dimmed.—S. J. Woolf in The New York Times, Feb. 2, 1930.

Here is a man who ne'er stampedes;
'Tis safe to follow where he leads.
When we were in the hell of war
We chose him for our polar star.
He did not boast; he did not flinch,
But with our foes began to clinch:
He was a sure defense and shield—
We knew Jack Pershing would not yield.

He is the captain of his soul;
He plays a quiet, steadfast role;
He never stops to make a noise.
But keeps his head in perfect poise.
Armed and equipped for what is right,
He never shirks from any fight;
Intrenched within the Golden Rule,
He holds to purpose strong and cool.

Jack Pershing won the world's respect;
He stands among its famed elect
Whose names will gild a nation's story—
An honor to our own "Old Glory."
He is a soldier of good will;
He has in him no lust to kill.
Would build a self respecting state
Whose righteous manhood makes it great.

No wonder Pershing longs for peace
And prays that wars forever cease!
He's seen the ravage war will make.
Knows well the pillage it will take;
So he who led two million men
Prays war may never come again.
That man by man be understood,
Cementing all in brotherhood.
