U. S. GROSS FARM INCOME SLIGHTLY BETTER LAST YEAR

A gross income from farm production of about $11,851,000,000 for the calendar year 1929 compared with $11,741,000,000 in 1928, with $11,480,000,000 in 1927, and with $8,480,000,000 in 1926 is estimated by the bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture.

The gross income from crops last year is estimated at $5,602,000,000, and the gross income from livestock and livestock products at $6,249,000,000. Crop income declined $73,000,000, as compared with 1928, but the gross income from livestock and livestock products increased $183,000,000.

The decrease in crop income last year is accounted for largely by decreases in income from grains and cotton, which more than offset an increase of nearly $200,000,000 in the gross income from vegetables. Wool was the only commodity in the livestock and livestock products group to show a decreased income as compared with the preceding year.

The operating costs of farming in 1929 were about the same as in 1928, and after deducting operating costs, wages to hired labor, taxes, interest on debts, and rent paid to non-operating owners, the balance available for capital, labor and management was $5,578,000,000 compared with $5,478,000,000 for 1928, an increase of about $100,000,000.

On a per farm family basis this income available for capital, labor and management was $882 for 1929, compared with $864 for 1928, and $898 in 1925, which was the best year since 1921. The bureau points out, however, that these figures per farm family do not represent total income of farmers in so much as they do not include income derived from sources other than agricultural production, and that these income figures alone do not give a complete basis for comparing the economic well-being of farmers and other groups.

Reports from about 12,000 farmers who reported income and expenses individually to the bureau last year show that receipts less expenses in 1929 averaged $1,097, in addition to which each farmer valued at an average of $362. These farms are better than average, however, being 270 acres in size and having a total average investment of $15,242.

SHOOTS HIS WOMAN FRIEND; SUICIDES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 29.—After shooting Mrs. Dora Davis, with whom he had been "keeping company" in her Sacramento apartment early today, William Stocker, a married man, drove his automobile to Roseville and ended his life a few blocks from his own home five hours later.

Mrs. Davis was shot three times by Stocker. Her condition was reported as critical. Stocker, until recently a car repair foreman in the Southern Pacific shops at Roseville, sent one bullet through his head.

EMPLOYMENT IN OREGON INCREASES

(Associated Press Leased Wire) SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Oregon employment increased 4.5 per cent last month, compared with the previous month, analysis of reports by firms in that state to the San Francisco federal reserve bank showed today. This is slightly more than the usual July-August increase, although the employment roll was 11 per cent smaller than a year ago.

The improvement centered in food store, clay and glass products chiefly. There was a small increase in the number of men employed in the lumber industry. Wages held up better than employment, reports on weekly payrolls showed. Payments were down only 9 per cent from August 1929, employment being down 2 per cent more for the year than wages.

Laundry marks on the man's clothing led to questioning of the Portland family, members of which did not know of McKinnon's disappearance.

Description of Donald McKinnon and that of the body found in the river tally, police said.

LIBERTY SHOW IS MUSICAL COMEDY

Any movie fan who saw and enjoyed "Rio Rita" will like "Dixiana" which opened a three-day run at the Liberty theatre last night. "Rio Rita" was brim full of comedy and music and featured the great Bebe Daniels together with the "Cuckoo" Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey. The same thing is true of "Dixiana." It has plenty of music and plenty of comedy. Bebe sees that the songs go over big and leaves it to the cuckoo pair to furnish the comedy. The story, though unimportant, centers around the picturesque old South and has just enough of the impassioned splendor of this romantic section of the country to make it highly enjoyable. Everett Marshall plays the lead opposite
