Attractions AT THE MOVIES

LIBERTY.—Today and Thursday, "For the Defense," featuring William Powell; Friday and Saturday, Buck Jones in "Shadow Ranch."

THE Bridge of Sighs, dark corridor of drama that long has been a New York landmark, is used as one of the settings for William Powell's newest starring release, "For the Defense" which opens at the Liberty today for two days.

The Bridge of Sighs is a covered span of stone that connects Tombs prison with the New York criminal courts building. Across it prisoners are led from their cells to the court docks; its name originated from their thoughts and feelings as they were led to trial or brought back again following pronouncement of their sentences.

Some of the most notorious criminals in the world have made the trip over the historic "bridge." "For the Defense" presents William Powell as a brilliant criminal defense lawyer who saves many a client from jail through his resourceful application of legal technicalities. But the day comes when he must summon every trick in his power to save the girl he loves from a charge of manslaughter.

In attempting to win the case for her he becomes embroiled in the coils of the law himself, and faces a life term in jail. The climax is filled with high-tension drama.
