Comfort in Riding Habits Essential

The upper photograph shows Miss May McCarty of Darien, Conn., with Belladonna which she exhibited at the Ox Ridge Hunt Club horse show at Darien, Conn. The other photograph shows Mrs. William Williams in one of the smart riding costumes observed at the Fairfield County Hunt Club horse show in Westport, Conn.

COOL autumn days when there's a nip of frost in the air serve as a reminder that another riding season is at hand. Invariably interest in this prime outdoor sport is heightened by preparations for the big polo matches that have just been played in Long Island.

Quite apart from the dramatic interest which these matches hold for thousands of spectators there are many others who will take to their favorite horse paths and trails seeking the pleasurable benefit that come with outdoor exercise.

As in other forms of outdoor recreation the proper costume for riding has come to be quite as important as the proper mount. Just now jodhpurs, which derive their name from the native Indian state where they were originally worn, are in high favor.

Cotton gabardine, moleskin and Bedford cord are very generally favored in tailoring these costumes with fur legging for comfort as well as attractive appearance.

Coats Tread in Strange Ways—Disguised as Suits and Dresses

By IRVING MERWIN (Associated Press Fashion Editor) PARIS (A. P.)—It is a smart woman who knows a coat when she sees one this autumn.

Outer garments have gone clear off the straight and narrow pathways of other seasons and are doing things on their own.

As a result coats masquerade as suits, as jackets and skirts, as coats and dresses.

In fact the smartest coats look like anything but coats.

One way of disguising is the use of tiers which simulate a three-quarter length suit jacket and skirt.

Another way is peplum like pieces set on at the hips, leading the unwary to believe the coat is a suit.

A third way, and a way Paris loves more and more as the season develops, is the combination of fur and cloth in entirely new effects.

Some coats have fur tops simulating short fur jackets on cloth skirts. Cloth and fur form one garment however, and it is a coat.

Cloth coats with big collars and sleeves made entirely of fur except for a brief cap are in high favor.

Fall and Winter Styles Give Youthful Effect

Just at dawn Jolly Coon stirred in his nest in the hollow tree, and rubbing the sleep out of his eyes to go to Hermit Grizzly for his dinner yesterday, and you went away pretending to be entirely satisfied about it. Both the safety and the honor of all the forest people were at stake, and how you are—alive! What have you to say for yourself?

"Only this," replied Jolly Coon. "I have saved all the forest people. I fooled old Hermit Grizzly into getting himself drowned and no one need ever fear him any more."

"The idea!" "It isn't true!" "It isn't true!" came from some. "I don't believe it!" "I don't believe it!" came from others, and all were greatly excited. The meeting began to break up in disorder.

"Silence! Silence!" thundered Big Horn. And when he had succeeded in restoring order, he said: "Follow forest people, this is a very serious matter. We must make sure of what has been done. If Jolly Coon has done what he says he has, he is the hero of the forest. If he has not, we will take him to Hermit Grizzly to be eaten."

Then Jolly Coon ran down from the limb where he had been standing and went straight to Big Horn's side.

"That suits me, Big Horn," he said. "Follow where I lead and I will prove to you that I have told the truth."

"Follow forest people," called Big Horn, "let every one fall in line and we will follow where Jolly Coon leads. It would be unfair not to give him a chance to prove the truth of what he says. The big people must travel slowly so that the little people may be able to keep up. Remember, everybody must be quiet and orderly!"

The animals of the forest fell in a long orderly line and off they went, following Jolly Coon's lead through the forest.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY ACTIVITIES

The fiscal year of Umpqua Unit No. 16 which has just closed marks the end of the first decade of its service in the American Legion Auxiliary. Each year of the ten has been a step toward the accomplishment of the high aims and purposes of the American Legion, for which reason the American Legion Auxiliary was organized and has "carried on" since the beginning of its existence. Umpqua Unit was organized in 1920 by Carl Wimberly, first commander of the then newly chartered Umpqua Post, Mrs. E. B. Stewart, who later became second department president and afterward national vice president, was chosen as the first Unit president. Mrs. Stewart succeeded in turn by the following executives of Umpqua Unit: Mrs. Guy Gordon and Miss Letitia Abrams, then proprietor of Cluldr's Abrams Millinery company. Miss Abrams moved to Eugene, and Mrs. Carl Wimberly was elected president in 1924. After Mrs. Wimberly came Mrs. Stanford Jones, Mrs. Jay Fulcher, Mrs. Clair K. Allen, Mrs. H. C. Church, Mrs. George Caskey, and Mrs. James Soules.

Auxiliary work for the new year is well begun. A very impressive installation service was conducted by Mrs. George Caskey, junior past president, at the regular meeting in the Auxiliary room at the armory last Tuesday evening, October 7th. The following officers took oath: Mrs. Clinton Gorthy, president; Mrs. R. R. Ritzman, first vice president; Mrs. Ralph Richter, second vice president; Mrs. Roy Campbell, secretary; Miss Pearl Jones, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Boyle, historian; Mrs. Thomas Watson, first sergeant at arms; Mrs. George Ware, second sergeant at arms; Mrs. L. A. Dillard, chaplain; and Mesdames J. Soules, Clair Allen and Mrs. George Caskey, executive committee.

These officers, though experienced Auxiliary workers, are new to their respective duties, with exception of Miss Pearl Jones and Mrs. H. C. Boyle. Miss Jones, because of very efficient service, has been installed treasurer for the sixth successive year. Mrs. Boyle, who was the author of Umpqua Unit's state prize history, will serve her second year as Unit historian. The new president, Mrs. Gorthy, is well qualified to guide the Unit, having served the Auxiliary efficiently in many ways during the past ten years.

Following installation, Mrs. Caskey presented the retiring president, Mrs. James Soules, with a lovely corsage bouquet and a gift of silver from the officers who have served under her during the year. On behalf of the Unit, Mrs. Clinton Gorthy, in a fitting manner, also presented the retiring president with a beautiful jeweled emblem of the outstanding service which Mrs. Soules has given the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Gorthy has announced the following committee chairmen who will serve during the year 1930-31: Hospital, Mrs. R. R. Ritzman; child welfare, Mrs. George Caskey; community service, Mrs. James Soules.

Mrs. James Soules, department soldiers' home chairman, visited the World War veterans at the Oregon soldiers' home, Tuesday, October 7. Mrs. Soules plans to visit the home the first and third Tuesday afternoons of each month and will be pleased to have members accompany her on these trips.

The national convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, which was held in Boston this week, was featured by many brilliant social events. Perhaps the most interesting one to Roseburg members was the Oregon open house, at which many nationally and internationally eminent people were received by our Oregon delegates. At this open house, guests from all over the world were served with the finest of Oregon products, and hence were impressed, not only with Oregon's fine spirit of hospitality, but also with the marvelous quality of our state produce.

Mrs. Wilma Hoyal, who was chosen national president at the Boston convention, is known to Oregon Auxiliaries as a very charming person and an able executive. In 1929 Mrs. Hoyal was national vice president of the western division to which Oregon department is attached.
