TILLIE THE TOILER

Getting the "Right" Party

Attractions AT THE MOVIES

"Those Three French Girls," appear today at Hunt's Indian theatre. The comedy is booked for two days. It might well be subtitled "Making Whoopee in Paris," for this talkie farce contains as amusing a series of incidents connected with the French capital as has been shown on the screen in some time.

Heading the group of revelers in the Cosmopolitan production is Reginald Denry, who, as the sportive nephew of a wealthy English peer, makes the rounds of the Parisian pleasure resorts and returns to his uncle's home with an ill-assorted group of companions, including the piquant Fifi Dorsey, with whom he has fallen in love; two American ex-doughboys in the persons of Cliff (Ukulele Ike) Edwards and Edward Brophy and their two girl friends, portrayed by Yola d'Avril and Sandra D'Avril.

"Shadow of the Law," is the dramatic story which William Powell brings to the Liberty theatre screen for two days, starting today. A story of an innocent man's fight to clear himself before the law, the picture is filled with drama, action, suspense and heart-throbbing interest. It's a desperate struggle of one man against society.

"Shadow of the Law" is in no sense a prison picture. The scenes in prison, while realistic enough to give an idea of the background of the story, are merely incidental to the sweeping drama which follows the sensational prison break. Powell, in this picture, is supported by an excellent cast.
