Attractions AT THE MOVIES

INDIAN—Today, Gary Cooper in "The Spoilers"; Wednesday and Thursday, John McCormack in "Song O' My Heart"; Friday and Saturday, "The Santa Fe Trail," with Richard Arlen.

"THE SPOILERS," rated by many the peer of Rex Beach stories, opened last night at the Indian theatre.

Something of the epic dimensions of "Wings," too, there is in the new version of the gold-rush adventures about Nome; something of the rugged sincerity of "The Virginian," something of the fascination of "Beau Geste."

To those who have seen the play, to those who have seen its double screen presentation in silent form, the talking edition will bring still greater thrills. The stage at best was only a foreshortening of the expansive outdoor setting requisite to the action. The silent screen did not compass the resonant timber that comes with hearing living voices, crunching action, nummelling battle.

Kay Johnson and Betty Compson, each fighting for the same man, each with the slinking and alert fascination of a panther, silicon claws loosed from the velvet veneer of convention, ready for the vital "strike" which spells exaltation or hunger to the passion-starved lady heart, "click."
