An Editor Gets the Ax

A UNIVERSITY OF OREGON student who happened by dint of hard work and ability to reach the all important post of managing editor of the student daily news paper, has been removed by the student council, all powerful executive body of the associated students. He was removed because, so the dispatches say, he printed in the student daily a story concerning a proposed pre-game rally. The rally was frowned upon by the faculty and the student council had agreed that it should meet with student executive disapproval. The fact remains, however, that Roy Allen, who was the student managing editor, printed a news story which happened to be an accurate news story.

Here is a point that is vital in newspaper making whether the newspaper happens to be published by students or by adults: News is one thing and is handled in one manner while editorial opinion is quite another. Had Allen been guilty of editorially offering opposition to the student government, his nominal employer, that employer might have been justified in removing him. In the present case Allen only printed a NEWS story which was exactly what he was employed to do. Had he FAILED to print the story he would have shown lack of ability and would most certainly have been subject to censure. He could not help the fact that the news story told of something that was contrary to the agreed policy of the student organization.

The student action in ousting the Emerald editor shows a glaring lack of grasp of fundamentals on the part of the members of the executive body.

SURELY NOT A SCALPEL?

(Corvallis Gazette-Times)
We have a letter from a lady who says we were wrong about correcting the Emerald as to what is a scalpel. She says the thing we described was a spatula. We hate to disagree with a lady, but what she has in mind is a scalpel.

(Baker Democrat-Herald)
The contrast between our climate and that of the states farther west was never more convincingly demonstrated than during the past few years. Eastern Oregon has had a little snow, but the mercury never even got close to zero. Colorado, Wyoming and Montana had much more snow, bitter cold and some fatalities. Though 400 miles from the Pacific ocean our weather conditions are greatly influenced if not dominated by that great expanse of water.

(Astorian Budget)
A Tacoma retail lumber dealer has found one of the stimulating rales during a dull period and at the same time contributing to a lessening of the unemployment situation.

Knowing that the cost of building materials is at a very low level he sent one of his salesmen out into the residence district to interview house-holders. These salesmen made 197 calls in various sections of the city. They found 65 owners away from home, 39 renters, 33 out of work and one unemployed house owner. Of these they found 39 who were contemplating remodeling or building of some nature this fall or next spring.

Upon these 39 they employed their salesmanship to induce them to take advantage of low prices and unemployment situation, with the result that they induced quite a number of them to do now what they were contemplating doing in the future.

Here is a concrete example of what can be done to help the present economic situation by a little intelligent self-help.

(The Dallas Chronicle)
The Kluckhoffs were covered with snow from head to foot the first day, and merely tipped with snow the second day. From this we deduce that the first half of winter will be severe and the second half mild. Negative prophets, please write.

of the fact that Dan Cupid isn't using up so many arrows this year as he did in 1929.

General conditions were suggested as the reason by Sidney Summerfield, chief clerk of the marriage bureau as he released figures on the subject. They showed 34,551 persons have obtained licenses thus far this year as compared with 40,330 for the same period in 1929.

"It's the unemployment situation, as I see it," he said.

SLAYS TWO OF HIS FAMILY AND SELF

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—Albert Tarlo, 50, president of the Robert Tarlo & Son Woodworking company, today shot to death his wife Florence, and their daughter Marie, 20, and then ended his own life.

The cause of the shooting was not known. According to relatives and friends there was to have been a Thanksgiving day reunion at the home. Some of those invited came to the house unsuspecting that anything had occurred. Tarlo was considered well-to-do.

EARL SANDE OUT FOR STAGE CAREER

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 28.—Earl Sande, who realizes he cannot keep his weight down enough to permit him to stay in the saddle indefinitely, is taking vocal lessons and has ambitions to go on the stage. His horses have heard his tenor at times. He had made his concert debut, singing "Mother Machree" and "Bird Songs at Eventide" before the Kiwanis club.

MAY BAR FOREIGN LABOR FROM DAM

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Legislation requiring employment of American labor only in the construction of the huge dam on the Colorado river will be sought by Representative Swing, republican, California.

Commenting on Comptroller General McCall's ruling that contracts may be drawn with such a proviso, Swing said today he would introduce an amendment to the act which authorized the project, forbidding employment of aliens. Passage of the amendment, he added, would remove any uncertainty.

set out to conquer the world. Razed armies carried the flag of the new republic to foreign soil on every side.

But nothing much came of it. With their first enthusiasm spent, the revolutionaries came back to France and set about the MUCH MORE IMPORTANT task of putting their own house in order and looking out for their own affairs.

The French republic that grew up on the foundation laid by the French revolution has not been a menace to the world.

As for its own probability, it will be with Russia when the evil forces loosed by the revolution are spent and we give way to the better forces inherent in the nature of the Russian people.

Isn't even too badly frightened by the great industrial development that is reported to be under way in Russia, and which may cause it to be a menace to the rest of the world?

If this great industrial development does place its effect will be to raise the standards of the Russian people, and as their standards are raised they will wait more of the things we have in mind. What is more, they will be enabled by their better standards and their greater economic power to buy these things we have for sale.

Talks on Health

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

QUITE frequently we are forced to take care of someone who has met with an accident and is bleeding. No one of us enjoys this experience and if the choice of going for the doctor or staying with the bleeding is given, I know what most of us would rather do.

The injured person is usually just as timid and frightened as you are at the sight of blood. He is bleeding and the doctor has been called. Everybody is distressed and worried. What shall we do until the doctor comes?

We are frightened for fear the patient will bleed to death before the doctor arrives. The friends get excited and almost always the patient gets excited. The more you get excited the more he does.

How well I recall a scene in medical college many years ago. The professor was asking his students as to the proper first procedure in a case of bleeding. Many excellent and correct outlines of the procedure as recited in the text books were given by the anxious to please students.

"No, no," stormed the professor, and to the amazement of all stated: "The proper care is first to keep cool. After that," he said "stop the bleeding."

If we would always remember this and act upon it, there would be less excitement, therefore such emergencies arise. A life may be saved in consequence.

Various methods of stopping the blood actually have been described by the surgeons. Which one to use depends on the type and site of the bleeding.

As a rule, bleeding will stop in a few minutes anyhow. If the patient is kept quiet. The firm pressure of a dressing may do the trick. Such a dressing soaked in very hot water will often stop the bleeding.

If the bleeding continues and you are doubtful as to the vessel that is responsible, something else must

Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE: I am engaged to a very nice young man that I love with all my heart and don't believe I can live without him.

He has not been very attentive lately, but still declares his love for me. What can I do to hold his affection?

I am in my late teens and I am a very sensitive girl.

My sister and girlfriend are very peppy and seem to think I should be the same.

What do you think about this? My fiancé is very funny about marriage, and does not care very much about children. Should I marry a man of this kind? I love children dearly.

Some one told me my fiancé went with other girls.

Should I then accept attention from other young men?

POLLY: You tell me that you are very sensitive and that is no doubt what is causing you unhappiness. If it is your nature to be quiet, then why should you try to be "peppy"? Each nature is entirely different and a quiet nature generally means that the girl is inquisitive but that she is most restful and always a valuable attribute in this rushing world of ours. Many a man who says that he does not care for children becomes the most adoring and affectionate father and makes more fuss over the "little visitor" than anyone else. As to the gossip, do you know the character of the person who told you these things? Tell your fiancé what you have heard and listen to the other fellow worry about that. If there is a mutual understanding between you, then neither of you should accept attentions from others.

WORK AND OPTIMISM URGED AS REMEDY FOR "BLUES"

ROSEBURG, Ore., Nov. 27.—Editor of News-Review: For the last few weeks a good part of business America has drifted away from the work bench to cock an excited eye at the biggest crap game the world has ever seen. In fact all too many of our amateur economists have taken literally the engaging admonition, "Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet."

The time comes when the best handlers of the rolling dominoes cannot make another pass, and the arrival of that time is signalled by the crash through the margins of the finest bunch of industrial securities that ever declared an extra dividend. Well, that's that, and it's pretty well over except for an occasional bird who has lost everything but his ego and who hurls himself from a high window with complete disregard for the busy people who are really using somewhere on the sidewalks below.

But, while they are cleaning up the empire, let's not forget that John Rural, out on his farm in Douglas county, is figuring a new house on his ten acres of rich land. Let's not forget that same as ever the miller will soon be wanting a new bathtub and all the fixtures. Let's not overlook the fact that all the young Joe's, Ma's and Sues are getting married as usual and need household goods and installment accommodations for the after glow.

Let's not forget that millions upon millions of regular folk throughout this grand, greatly deserving American need cover, heat, light, food, transportation, recreation and other things now as always. They will go on wearing out

COOS BAY PLANS JUBILEE ON FINISH OF HARBOR WORK

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
MARSHFIELD, Nov. 28.—Coos bay will hold a great transportation celebration and jubilee next July when the entire district will mark the completion of the $4,000,000 harbor project with a program which bids fair to make the event one of the largest waterway observances along the Pacific coast.

The first move for the celebration was started this week when hundreds of invitations were sent out to chamber of commerce groups throughout Oregon and to all parts of the United States to participate in this giant event.

With the removal of Pigeon point reef, inner harbor, next February, the last obstacle to full cargo shipping for this port will be taken care of. The completion of the Coos bay jetties has given Coos bay a safe full cargo depth at the bar throughout this year, opening to world shipping one of the Pacific coast's six major seaport projects. The communities will take six months to arrange for the harbor celebration.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Oxidant has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the large, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water softens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or over increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Have a Rexall Oxidant at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to lay at the nearest Rexall Drug Store—Adv.

FORMER ATHLETIC STAR KILLS SELF

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
LARAMIE, Wyo., Nov. 27.—Fred Nolan, 23, formerly all state high school athletic star shot and killed himself last night. Dependancy over study in an engineering course he was taking from a correspondence school was believed by relatives to have been the cause for his act.

Nolan was captain of the championship Laramie high school basketball team in 1925 when it competed in national contests in Chicago.

Ends Piles Quick

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. Cutting and external remedies can't do this—an internal medicine must be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, a specialist, succeeds, because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere, and has such a wonderful record of success right in this city that Chapman's drug store says to every pile sufferer, try HEM-ROID at your risk. It must end all pile agony or you get your money back.—Adv.
