Poets' Corner

"PADDY" W. Taylor Cooper. When we opened our neighbor's door, we'd hark To the joyous welcome of Paddy's bark.

His greetings were cordial and sincere, As much as to say, "I'm glad you are here."

But there came a day when Paddy grew ill, When we entered the home, 'twas strangely still. No sound of pattering feet on the floor, And no welcoming bark as hero to fore.

He came to our side in a quiet way, With a look in his eyes that seemed to say, "I'm not feeling well, you can plainly see, And, oh, if you can, won't you please help me?"

But all that was done proved of no avail, For his course was set for the long, long trail. And one night, some time 'twixt darkness and dawn, With a tired little sigh, Paddy went on.

Among the memories that ever glide Like an army of phantoms at our side, Another that now will our way attend, Is Paddy, our little four-footed friend.

(Associated Press Leased Wire) OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 13.—Three "cry baby bandits," youths who shed tears profusely during their trial, were executed last night for the slaying of a Long Island druggist during a holdup.

Wheat Men Urge Debenture Plan

(Associated Press Leased Wire) HEPPNER, Dec. 12.—The Columbia basin wheat farmers today unanimously passed the recommendation of the legislation committee asking immediate passage of the debenture law as a means of affording emergency relief to grain growers, which it is said cannot be obtained from the present long time plans and activities of the farm board and other agencies.

The same committee urged that steps be taken looking toward acreage control in the case of a rise in price, though there is no bill providing for it before congress at the present time.

Least the action of the body be taken as a reflection on the present efforts of the farm board, the league passed a comprehensive endorsement of the board and its efforts, pledging support in the face of widespread criticism, which the league characterized were from "sources never friendly to the farmers' interests."

Harry Pinkerton of Moro was elected new president; James Hill, Pendleton, vice-president and Charles Smith, Heppner, secretary as the convention adjourned several hours earlier than scheduled. The Dalles extended an invitation for the session next year, but the matter was left to the new executive committee.
