OUR EXEMPLAR. JESUS, CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUBJECT

By Gavin W. Allan, C. S. B. of Toronto, Ontario, Canada Member of the Board of Lecture-The Mother Church, The Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

in Boston, Massachusetts.

If we would understand Christianity—its Principle and its practice—we must begin by understanding its Founder, "the man Christ Jesus, "because he and he alone has been its perfect exponent, its perfect demonstrator, if we examine the life of Jesus as perfect, in the perfect of the standard of the Cornels we cannot be the standard in the Cornels we cannot be seen as the standard in the Cornels we cannot be seen as the standard in the Cornels we cannot be seen as the standard in the Cornels we cannot be seen as the standard in the Cornels we cannot be seen as the seen as the

we examine the life of Jesus as portrayed in the Gospels we cannot fall to note some of his outstanding characteristics. Let us consider a few of his traits which have not been sufficiently stressed.

SELFLESSNESS

First, his selflessness. During the years of his ministry he seemed to have no ambition for place or power, no desire for superiority or preferment. It is true that just before he entered upon his ministry he passed through a great struggle in overcoming the false sense of self; the desire for fame and dominion strove to assert itand dominion strove to assert it-self. But it is also true that this desire was completely routed and that never again did it become ap-

Jesus' selflessness was manifest-You will remember that on one or ension Jeaus called his disciples to him and said, "Ye know that the princes of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority upon them. But it shall not be so among you: but . . whoseever will be chief among you, let him be your servant." In Jesus' estimation, then, the willingness and ability to sever ranked higher than the ension Jesus called his disciples to serve ranked higher than the lesire to be served. Service ranked higher than dictatorship; selfless ness than selfishness.

Christ Jesus is our Exemplar, our ideal model. We as Christian Scientists are his followers. The ideals he presented, the qualities

rights and privileges that we claim for ourselves."
But we were speaking of self-lessness, Let us hear Mrs. Eddy again, this time somewhat more emphatically in the Christian Science (extbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptines," she writes tp. 548;, "Self-abneration, by which we hay down all the Truth, or Christ, in our warfare against error, is a rule in Christian Science." Why should this be 50° Because selflessness is an essential quality of spiritual man. Afred Thiel.

A REVERIE OF THE GRASS

I'm only the grass on a mountain ranch; grow where the goats and the sheep are fed; My roots run so deep as they spread and branch, I make of the earth an attractive bed Where gorgeous flowers oft love to grow. Though tall fir trees and the singing pines Are making a greater, more vivid show; The worth of the ranch is my tender spines.

I carpet the hills with a glowing green The sheep love to nibble my tender sprouts.

I fill all the world with my brilliant sheen Whenever the spring is awakening shouts. Though eaten and tramped and tossed about By sheep and goats and the careless wind. My roots are aware and keep sending out Fresh verdure for goats and the sheep to find.

Lorow in the sun and Lorow in shade Where fragrant and sweet may the ferns be found Most delicate things that were ever made. But goats and the sheep as they make their round Will wander about till they find my blades And chuckle and sigh as they eat of me. They'll surely grow fat in these quiet shades Quite ready for shearing they soon will be.

But I shall stay on, for I am the grass: My roots have a hold in this piece of earth: I wait for the seasons to come and pass. Twas here that I sprang at the call of birth Tis here I will stay in the sun and shade I'll wait for the goats and the sheep in spring I'll ove all my low on the slope or glade: No matter what comes I'll awake to sing.

WEATHER PROBLEM OF UMPQUA'S BAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12-Report ing upon complaint as to inade-quate depth of the channel at the quate depth of the channel at the Umpqua river entrance, Colonel Lukesh, the district engineer, attributes shipping difficulty there to unusual weather conditions rather than the channel.

At Coos Ray, Colonel Lukesh reports, similar trouble was encountered, the dredge Michie being unable to work much of the time during November and December.

During the coming season a second dredge, the Savannah, will be employed on the Oregon cosst, and Colonel Lukesh is confident that a depth of 18 to 20 feet will be maintained over the Umpqua bar.
