TODAY'S MARKETS

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

PORTLAND, Jan. 21.—Butter and egg quotations held unchanged in wholesale markets today.

Butter market at the opening stood on firm ground in its relation to receipts to demand. Receipts were light and demand unusually good, promising a good cleanup of fresh supplies.

Egg market opened easy, sales greater than demand, sales at irregular prices. Pacific coast extras a cent lower at New York was a weakening factor on the Atlantic side.

Country meats and poultry were steady except for a cent decline in chicken weight hens in over supply; quote: 11 to 15 cents a pound.

Fresh fruit and vegetable trade opened normally active at unchanged quotations on all lines.

Onion sets, near Brooks, Ore., set a new offering for the week at 7 to 8 cents a pound.

Government market news service reported conditions as follows:

Local cauliflower continues to arrive at the farmers' early market, and at the East Alder St. wholesale market at the rate of 500-1000 crates daily. Considerable local sound and other coast points via motor truck.

Letuce declined as a result of unusually heavy truck supplies. Imperial valley shipping point quotations are slightly lower also.

The potato trade continues slow, although there have been more retail unloads into stores recently. Fine quality Oregon Burbanks are realizing top prices at California markets.

Apples are enjoying moderate local distribution, with export and domestic demand in slow. Current boat loadings at Portland are rather light, with few larger crates.

Alfalfa Price Drops

PORTLAND, Jan. 21.—U. S. No. 1 alfalfa hay was quoted to the trade at $17.00 to $18.00 a ton in Portland today, a 50-cent to $1.00 decline in price of a week ago and a reflection of continued slow demand reported by representatives of the department of agricultural economics throughout the northwest. F. o. b. prices in the Hermiston district were reported around $12.00.

BOWLES MURDER INDICTMENT HOLDS

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

PORTLAND, Jan. 21.—A Portland millionaire and his former secretary today were faced definitely with a joint indictment for first degree murder.

Circuit Judge W. A. Ekwall denied a defense motion to quash the indictment against Nelson C. Bowles and Irma G. Loucks, accused of the knife murder of Bowles' wife.

Although it lost its battle to have the indictment quashed, the defense won a partial victory. Bowles and Miss Loucks were indicted jointly and separately and when arguments on the defense motion opened three days ago the court ruled the state must decide whether it would prosecute on the joint or separate indictments. The state elected to go to trial on the joint indictment and the separate indictments were dismissed.

Mrs. H. W. Howard, important state's witness in the case, was said today to be recovering rapidly from injuries received last Thursday when an unidentified as salant attempted to kill her.

Missing Fliers Long Overdue

POEM FOR THE DAY

By LOUIS ALBERT BANKS

THE PASSING SHOW

Recall the fleeting things that pass,
That bulk so largely in the mass;
And now that they are gone and passed,
How quick they vanish in the vast!
That jolly, playful pantomime
That seemed to be such waste of time,
Now looms as large in memory green
As does a coronation scene.

That speech that woke a nation's cheers,
And stirred the opposition's fears,
Which waked a senate's loud acclaim,
And proudly spread that bubble, fame,
Takes place beside a driftwood fire,
Or when we joined the country choir;
And all seem trifles in the chain—
They count but little in life's gain.

The day we won a case in court
That had the judge's high report,
And woke to praise the country-side,
And stimulated all our pride,
Is in our memory but a name—
Like chess men in an idle game.
When once these things have come to pass,
They wither like the new-mown grass.

There are some things that still abide—
That live and flourish in their pride:
They are the souls we learned to love,
That link us with the life above;
Unselfish service that we gave
Some careless wanderer soul to save,
Such deeds no fading memory bars,
They shine in glory 'mong the stars.

Jacket That Matches Jewelry Is Latest Mid-Winter Color Idea

By DIANA MERWIN
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS (A. P.)—Short velvet jackets the color of their jewelry are a little mid-winter idea of ultra smart Parisiennes who are having a big white season.

If emeralds are the piece de resistance in the jewel box the little jackets worn with the white dresses are emerald green.

Some women carry the idea even further and combine their slippers to the color note. Almost everything but white slippers is seen with white evening dresses.

The wraps are almost without exception made of velvet. It may be cotton velvet, easy to work into crisp original folds; or silk velvet draped in graceful folds.

The little wraps are meant to be worn under the evening coat.

Aside from supplying the color note they cover up shoulders and backs in a season of exaggerated décolleté.
