Skirts and Hair Longer for 1931

LONGER and MORE DRESSY SKIRTS ARE COMING IN. LONG HAIR and CURLS ARE COMING IN.

Just because the chill winds of winter are singing their shrill song, it is most suitable to dwell on lovely spring clothes and 1931 fashions in general, and so to the accompaniment of a January storm we will offer a few predictions and pointers about the coming sartorial scheme of things.

First of all, and most important, skirts and hair are to be longer for 1931. That is if the prophecies of the leading French couturiers mean anything. And they generally do. For dressmakers rarely create absolutely new styles. They cleverly discern the drift of the tide and have an uncanny way of fathoming the secret sartorial desires of women. Like other artists, their art must be subservient to the demands imposed upon it. Thus Paris knew just when woman had about become weary of seeing herself attenuated, skimpy frocks and was longing to bedeck herself in exquisite feminine clothes again. And so the lovely fashions at present obtaining.

But to get back to hair and the length of skirts. Morning frocks and shirts will have skirts of sensible length and a width suitable for ease in walking. But afternoon frocks will be quite long, and there should be barely a glimpse of the leg at afternoon functions. It just won't look right. And the same applies to hair.

The smart woman, too, will welcome these changes, because she is getting a little tired of the endless ensembles to be found even in the cheapest shops. The ensemble began as a costly fashion but directly it was a case of mass production for this style the woman who wants clothes that are "different" began to long for something else. And so she is turning to the slit and will most likely gladly welcome the fingered blouse with all the care it entails.

Many dressmakers believe that blue is to be the favorite spring color. It usually comes into favor when the tailored suit becomes important. It has been noticed, but will also be much seen combined with turquoise blue and pale pink. Green, too, will be favored. It certainly is a most appropriate shade for the warm season. Later in the winter various shades of brown will be in prominence.

And now for some real news. Paris is turning to sleeves for evening use. That is, for any but the absolutely formal gown. Chanel is showing dinner dresses with long, graceful sleeves that are long from the elbow. These frocks are in chiffon and favor bright colors. Many of the spring sports blouses will have sleeves that stop just short of the elbow. All in all, although skirts will be long, the general silhouette will be more youthful than ever. And hair will be either very small or quite large.

Roseburg Woman's Club Has Splendid Meeting on Tuesday Afternoon

The Roseburg Woman's club members held a splendid meeting in the club rooms on Tuesday of this week. Mrs. W. E. Ott, president, called the meeting to order and an interesting business meeting followed. A committee was appointed to work with the local chamber of commerce to communicate with Washington, D. C., in matters pertaining to the new veterans home.

Plans were made for a lecture by Professor Horner, of Oregon State college, which will be given in the near future. Professor Horner will talk on "Oregon History," and the lecture will be open to the public.

Later in the season, the club members will sponsor a big Oregon product day, at which time an Oregon product dinner will be given.

The following program was presented by Mrs. T. B. Virden and her committee: Mrs. G. Newport sang several selections. She was accompanied by C. H. Arundel, and Charles Brand gave a splendid and interesting talk on "The City Beautiful."

The refreshment committee for the day in charge of Mrs. Virden, served dainty refreshments at a table attractively arranged with bouquets of spring flowers.
