Birthday Anniversaries Celebrated With Dinner

An interesting event of the week end occurred when Mrs. J. E. Rich and entertained at her home at 501 S. Pine street Sunday for her husband and eldest son, Edmond Jr., and John Enslin of Salem, whose birthday anniversaries occur during this month.

A large birthday cake trimmed in St. Valentine colors centered the attractive table with covers placed for the honor guests and for Mrs. Lucinda J. Enslin of Salem, Dorothy, Helen, Milfred and Arthur Richard, and the hostess, Mrs. Richard.

Mask Wedding Is Enjoyable Affair at Lodge Meeting

The Lilac Circle No. 49, Neighbors of the Woodcraft, had one of the most interesting meetings of the year Monday evening, when they met at the I. O. O. F. hall. Two applications were brought up at the business session for benefit members. The "pin system" has proved to be an interesting factor in the circle. Names are placed in a hat each month and the first name to be drawn out of the hat, is the lucky number, who receives a lodge pin to wear one month. If the lucky member receiving the number wins a new member for the lodge, he is allowed to keep the pin. Paul Beaver was the name drawn for the month of March.

Fifty members were present for the Monday meeting with two visitors from Oakland and one from Medford, also being present. Mrs. Metta Brown played an instrumental solo and Mrs. Lucille Fullerton gave a reading.

The suprise committee presented a mask wedding, which proved to be a delightful feature of the evening. A mock wedding, with all participants wearing masks was held. The audience was asked to guess who took part in the wedding and Mrs. Edward Peyton won the guessing contest. The mask wedding cast was composed of bride, Mrs. Cynthia Germond; bridegroom, Mrs. Prudy Hidinger; bridesmaids, Mrs. Maxine Ruff and Mrs. Anna Hunnicutt; flower girl, Mrs. Grace Owens; minister, Mrs. Belle Crenshaw, and ring bearer, Miss Dorothy Germond.

The circle members were asked to bring either teaspoons or cups as gifts to the bride and groom and in this way the lodge received 43 teaspoons and 20 cups.

Refreshments were served at a table centered with a large wedding cake with a wedding bell hanging from the chandelier. Red tapers and hearts carried out the Valentine motif.

Eastern Star Has Fine Social Evening at Temple on Thursday

The Eastern Star met on Thursday evening in the Masonic temple at which time Mrs. Maxine Stearns Webb was initiated into the order. Visitors of the evening included Mrs. Ralston Bridges, Mrs. A. A. Young and Mrs. R. M. Bestul, all of Oakland, Mrs. Burnett, of Canyonville and Mrs. Elliott of Myrtle Creek. All of the visitors made short speeches.

William Austin and sons, owners of the Fern Flower shop, presented several lovely bouquets to the Eastern Star for decorations for the affair. Mrs. J. M. Judd and Mrs. Roy Entler were joint chairmen of the affair, with Miss Rose Wharton, assisted by Mrs. R. O. Pargeter, in charge of the decoration committee.

The tables were attractively arranged with red carnations, red tulips, tall red tapers and Washington's birthday motif. Covers were placed for one hundred guests and a special table for those having birthdays in January, February and March, was especially attractive. Mrs. A. J. Young, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Myrtle Williams, played several solos.

The next social meeting will be held on March 19, at which time the Glendale, Myrtle Creek, Canyonville and Riddle chapters will be guests.

Trousered Skirts for Daytime Wear Being Shown by Designers

By ADELAIDE KERR

PARIS.—Trousered skirts for daytime wear were introduced by Paris couturiers today as a spring style innovation. The designs were so full that the bifurcated cut was revealed only when the wearer walked.

Among the models were blue linen suits for street wear and black satin ensembles for formal afternoon functions, both designed with full trousered skirts and hip length jackets. Virtually all the trousered models were made with a wide panel in the middle of the back falling the length of the skirt and concealing the bifurcated cut. The new skirts are ten inches above the ground.

The couturiers varied the trousered evening designs by placing pajamas under chiffon or satin skirts. There were black satin evening frocks with skirts slashed to the knee on each side, revealing white satin pajamas underneath and white chiffon dinner gowns the full skirts of which fell over silver lame pajamas.

Both daytime and evening fashions were displayed with interesting new gadgets. Quilted shimmering lame coats of knee length, cut with kimona sleeves, were introduced and satin and beaded chiffon were exhibited as wraps for the more informal evening parties.

Gay Plaids and Checks Much in Evidence for Milady's Spring Costumes

By ADELAIDE KERR

PARIS.—Gay plaids and checks of sombre hue are being exhibited by the Paris couturiers and probably will be worn for sports this summer by American girls.

Coats, skirts, vests and scarfs designed of large bright plaids or small dull checks are combined with one-color wools and silks. Some very smart playtime basques.

Hip length jackets of green, red and black plaids have been displayed with black gored skirts with kilted inserts of the same plaid above the left knee.

Brown and white checked wool sports frocks with clusters of knife pleats in the front and back of skirts appeared with short brown jackets and red silk scarfs.

One-piece delft blue wool frocks have bright plaid scarfs knotted closely about the throat and white cotton sports coats are lined with dark blue and white checked wool.

Sports frocks for hot days combine linen and wools in new designs of chrysanthemum yellow and aster pink. Sleeveless linen sports frocks have encrusted designs of the same colored wool on the bodices. They are worn with matching wool berets.

Pajama Costumes Are Many and Varied for Coming Spring Season

By ADELAIDE KERR

PARIS.—Trousers, long and short, formal and informal, indicating that the modern modish miss will combine 1931 freedom with 1879 feminity are one of the most important features of showings of spring styles just begun.

Although only small collections have exhibited so far, collections indicate pajamas launched as a fad are now a definite part of the mode both for playtime and evening wear.

There are wide variations of cut and variety of material from red canton flannel to glittering sequins. Summer girls may lounge on beaches in red flannel made in overall design with braces crossing over the shoulders and buttoning to a belt. The overalls go with red and green gingham long sleeved shirts. A bandana of the same gingham may be knotted around the head, worn under a broadrimmed crownless hat of red flannel.

Tennis costumes feature white pique shorts with sleeveless blouses of the same material accompanied by long full pajamas to wear when the game is finished.

Yachting pajamas are one of the newest items of trouser display. They are made of white with light blue shirt and dark blue pocket.

Stylists predict great success for dinner pajamas of definite sophistication.

One such model has gray sequin trousers worn with a tight bodice which has a strap decolletage. Another is pale pink crepe with a high necked bodice made of the open silk mesh which is now much used for evening.

All pajamas (save white semi-flaring lines tight slips and bodices which are generally attached to the trousers. Pajama costumes have loose hip length coats.
