MISS LAUR ALLOWMAN AND LESLIE CUMMINGS MARRY IN EUGENE SUNDAY

At an impressive home wedding, Miss Laura Allowman and Leslie Cummings, both of Roseburg, were married Sunday, December 15, at nine o'clock in the morning at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. H. H. Hamer, in Eugene. Rev. C. S. Bernstetter performed the ceremony in the presence of fifteen relatives and close friends.

The bride, charming in a plum-colored tunic afternoon frock trimmed in gold, with matching hat and shower bouquet of gardenias, was attended by Miss Clara Engobretsen, of Salem, who wore a charming green frock trimmed in gold, and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Kenneth Martin, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

A wedding dinner was served at the Hamer home at the close of the ceremony. Following the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Cummings left for Seattle and other points on the Sound for a wedding trip. After the first of the year they will be at home to their friends on Harrison street in West Roseburg. Mrs. Cummings chose as her going-away costume a silver broadtail fur coat with matching frock and accessories.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cummings are prominently known in Roseburg. The latter came to Roseburg about eight years ago from her home in Florida. She is employed in the Umpqua forest service office where she will continue her work upon her return to Roseburg. Mr. Cummings attended the local schools and is now state fire inspector with headquarters in the Douglas County Fire Patrol association office in this city.

American Legion Auxiliary Activities

By Mrs. Walter Fisher

Our motto: We honor the dead by serving the living.

Most colorful of auxiliary events of the week was the auxiliary and legion "Red" party held Tuesday evening in the chapter rooms at the armory. The chapter hall was transformed into a temporary school room, presided over by E. A. Britton, schoolmaster. Britt's bald head, goatee, frock coat, white doublet and wing collar completed a perfect characterization. By means of a croaking crane he nabbed recalcitrant pupils and put them in their places. While there was much dialogue of an extemporaneous nature, there was a lot of prepared repartee that savored of a rollicking end man show. Emily Judd was a typical Sis Hopkins, most elegantly done out in a pink taffeta frock, knee length, and a huge pink bow, which was now on the top of her head and again over her eyebrow. Sula Parkinson, in a gingham pinafore, sat on the front row, and nearby was "Tommy" Dillard, with short pants, bare knees, a white blouse with Buster Brown collar and flowing tie, "Tommy," all of a fifth grader, the despair of the girls in the third grade. Vying with Tommy for feminine favors was Ted Post, the typical French school boy in knee length smock and jaunty beret. Dorothy Gorty looked all in all in her red plaid skirt and hair bow to match. Mary Jo Parkinson, matriarch of them all in appearance and behavior, delighted the "kids" with a tap dance, Bert Dates, legion commandeer, and man-about-town, at the piano — shiveringly so — with bare knees and an icy night without blankets. Cecil Black, personality actor de luxe, was induced to sing "Treasure Island" but he was quickly drowned out by the combined chorusing voices of the other pupils. Dick Preston and Paul Rittenhouse, dignified and aloof, represented the school board. Ward Cummings came in for a lot of complaint from young class members because his mamma had dressed him up in men's clothes. Just as the fun was at its height Peg Young and Bea Reigel, demure twins of about 12 or so, came in bearing a resplendent cake of pure proportions. The cake was presented to "President" Sula Parkinson, who was celebrating her birthday.

At the close of the daily classes there was a spelling match, the boys being pitted against the girls, the latter naturally eliminating the former in short order. Finally there was food, each auxiliary member having prepared a box which was drawn by lot by some legion "feller." We noticed all of the men casting covetous glances in the direction of the large wooden candy bucket which Peggy Young had brought. On the outside of the bucket was inscribed: Dejeuner pour 8 chevaux at 40 homes. Mrs. Vella Broadway, assisted by Mrs. Walter Fisher, assisted the diners with hot coffee. Taken all in all, it was a fine large evening, with enough side splitting events to last one until the next affair in 1936.

This is the time of year when it would be interesting for the people of Roseburg to visit the child welfare center in the Medical City building, where Mrs. George Caskey and Mrs. George McElie are busily organizing Christmas baskets which will be distributed among families of needy veterans next week. There have been several dozen such baskets delivered this year. They will be filled not only with essential food stuffs but there will be a bag of candy, fruit, nuts and toys, where there are children, in each basket. Practically all of the contents of the baskets have been donated by the local auxiliary and legion as well as by other units in this district. Eugene sends 37 pairs of the finest of children's shoes.

Although a charter member of Umpqua unit, we must admit that the breadth and scope of auxiliary service is a source of constant amazement to us. We learned today that Mrs. Irving Reigel, hospital chairman, has been busy for several months contacting units and posts who have disabled men in the local veterans facility. These parent posts and units in turn look up the families of the veterans in the hospitals at Roseburg and see that the Christmas cheer is taken to them. Mrs. Reigel has communicated with units as distant as Louisiana and Honolulu. In addition to this, veterans who receive no money at all, and whose name is legion, are given Christmas cards to send to all members of their families.

Mrs. Parkinson, our president, urges that all applicants eligible for initiation in Umpqua unit remember that January 7 will be official initiation night and it is hoped that all who have not previously been initiated will be present that evening.

After the first of the year Mrs. Judd will be finance chairman, is planning a most interesting winter dress revue. Watch for the date.
