NEW DEAL HIT BY DR. J. E. CONANT

"Will the New Deal Destroy the Constitution" was the question asked by Dr. J. E. Conant on Tuesday night in his series of addresses this week at the Baptist church.

"The whole race is in slavery to sin by birth," said he, "and so there has been a perpetual fight for freedom by all men. One group has fought for freedom from the will of God, and the remainder for freedom to do the will of God, and there has been enmity always between them."

"The chief means used in the fight for freedom has been through political measures, and so every form of government has been tried, from absolute monarchy to complete democracy. History has shown that monarchy develops always into tyranny, and democracy drifts toward anarchy, and freedom has never been achieved under either form of government."

"But at last a middle ground has been found, and that is the one which we are governed by today. It is the one which is the best of all worlds, and it is the one which is the only one which is worth living under."

"The New Deal is a middle ground between a centralized and a decentralized government, and it is the one which is the best of all worlds, and it is the one which is the only one which is worth living under."

POISON GAS USE IS CHARGED TO ITALY

Ethiopian Ruler and Rome Exchange Bitter Words Over War Incident.

By HENRY CASSIDY
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Italy and Ethiopia exchanged bitter recriminations today over their warfare's newest cause celebre—the fascist aerial bombardment Monday on the southern front.

Emperor Haile Selassie, telegraphed a protest to the league of nations, charging Italy with using poison gas in the attack and with effecting "complete destruction of a Swedish Red Cross ambulance."

The Rome government, in turn, countered with an official communique insisting that the bombardment which took place on the Somali front was fully justified by the proved fact that two Italian aviators who fell at Daggah Bur were killed and decapitated, and their heads carried to Harar in triumph.

The rival government communications, outlines of what actually occurred in the bombardment on the Genaale Doria river, about 20 miles north of Dolo, began to emerge.

Original indications were that only a Swedish ambulance, in the Ethiopian version of the incident, was attacked.

Halle Selassie's protest indicated now that Ethiopian troop concentrations came under the bombardment.

Rome Explains
The Rome communique confirmed the following indications:

"The Italian planes did not mean to bomb tents of the Swedish Red Cross and other Red Crosses, although it is well known that Ethiopian chiefs take shelter under Red Cross signs when they are Italian airplanes."

Although first Ethiopian reports said nine Swedes and 25 Ethiopians of an ambulance unit died in the assault, the Italian government reported:

"News of the number of dead is not definitely stated. The Swedish Red Cross unit was believed by Ethiopian officials themselves to have been in the heart of their troop masses which have been menacing Gen. Graziani's army on the Ethiopian-Somali front."

Halle Selassie, reacting on this case, accused the bombing of Adwa and Desays, told the league:

"We again protest most explicitly against the criminal acts of the Italian government."

To which the Rome communique, intently, replied:

"The methods of the Ethiopian planes on the Somali front are already shown in documents given to the league of nations."

While fascist officials thus decried vigorously the conduct of their campaign, other Italians at home saw the new year in more quietude than usual, but with the customary cry—"Viva il Duce!" still on their lips.

Italians went home early from their new year's eve celebrations, and the fascist regime, decreed to combat the danger of riotous war penalties.

They did not, as in former new year's eve celebrations, cast junk into the streets, or break crockery on the pavements to herald the new year.

Most of their junk had gone into the regime's war chest; the rest they saved.

But fascists looked hopefully to the new year to bring them decisive military triumphs in East Africa and an end to the league's sanctions siege at home.
