Mrs. Paul Jenkins, mother of the outgoing queen, and Mrs. Gazley, mother of the incoming queen, were honored by receiving lovely corsages and being escorted to the east. Judge R. W. Marsters, associate guardian, was honored by the Bethel, which presented the associate guardian's pin to him. A song by Annabelle Berg and Eva Baker was sung in his honor.

A beautiful intimated traveling case was presented from the Bethel to Mrs. Young.

The ceremony was interspersed by groups of vocal numbers by Mrs. Barbara Clark Winkler, accompanied by Miss Ruth Hoover; Leroy Hatt, accompanied by Mrs. C. S. Heinline; Blossom Gazley, sister of the honored queen, Marjorie Johnson, presented a lovely bouquet to her and then presented a charming dancing number; the Book of Gold ceremony, led by Dorothy Bates, assisted by the Bethel and Blossom Gazley, closed the impressive service. INDIANS TO BATTLE MYRTLE POINT TEAM

The Roseburg senior high school basketball team will tangle in a conference game here Friday night with Myrtle Point in what promises to be an exciting contest. Myrtle Point is reported to have a very strong team this season, while the Indians have been making a good showing, despite the lack of height among the players.

The Roseburg team is composed of players short in stature, and is therefore somewhat handicapped in meeting taller teams. The Indians, however, are endeavoring to overcome this handicap by speed in ball handling.

Saturday night the local team will meet the University of Oregon freshmen in a game at the local gymnasium, with a preliminary by the Roseburg B team and the Oakland high school as an extra feature.
