Bonneville Power Distribution Studied by Planning Board

The above map, prepared as part of a study on distribution of power from Bonneville to the entire state of Oregon, shows the location of transmission lines and substations, in accordance with assumption of engineers that within 15 years use of power in the state will increase two and one-half times over the amount used in 1934, and that Bonneville will supply the increase. The report, prepared by the advisory power committee of the Oregon state planning board, also outlines two methods of figuring costs of transmission, as shown in the tables above. Those preparing the report have figured costs of production at the plant and costs of distribution to substations, based on what they term "favorable and optimistic assumptions." No attempt was made to figure costs to consumers, and the engineers point out that the figures should not be regarded as official, but as a guide to possibilities of the project.

IOWA WRECK PROBE BEGUN AT ASTORIA

ASTORIA, Ore., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Close-hipped investigations were under way today into the freighter Iowa shipwreck which forever sealed the lips of the ship's entire crew of 31 on Peacock spit Sunday.

Coastguard officers from Seattle held a hearing aboard the coast guard cutter Onondaga to determine if life saving crews at the Columbia river mouth lived up to the rules of the service by rendering every possible aid.

While the report will be confidential to Washington, D. C., headquarters it was significant that the Onondaga herself was damaged by the battering hurricane in efforts to reach the stricken steamer in Sunday's suicidal seas.

It was understood that investigators for the five marine unions in Portland, which announced they would conduct a probe of the disaster, were interviewing seamen and pilots in the lower Columbia area today. Their findings, it is significant, are sure to reach public ears.

Federal investigators said they would welcome any information concerning the tragedy, but doubted that evidence could be conclusive because no member of the Iowa's crew lives to testify.

PHONE INDUSTRY'S SCOPE DESCRIBED

Members of the Roseburg Rotary club heard F. L. Crittenden, manager of the Roseburg telephone exchange, at the regular Thursday luncheon tell of the scope and service of the telephone company. He pointed out the world wide service of the telephone business. In France, he said, there are two telephones per 100 of population, in England there are five telephones per 100 and in the United States, 14 telephones per 100 of population. The widespread ownership of the telephone company was also revealed. A total of 675,000 persons and firms own shares of stock, the speaker pointed out, with the classification "housewives" heading the list with more than 299,000. The program was presented by J. A. Harding, program committee chairman.

The Mexican department of Mexico has ordered every resident of Mexico vaccinated against smallpox. The treatment started in the army with school teachers and pupils next. All police prisoners are vaccinated and every plaintiff in a new law suit must show a certificate of vaccination.
