POET'S CORNER

THE POWER OF RIGHT THOUGHT

By ALDEN HARNESSE
War soon may plunge this world in hopeless night.
The need is great. Why can't we think aright.
Solve the great world problem,
Of selfishness, dishonesty and fear?
The time for thinkers, doers, now is here.
With fearful warnings now the wide world shakes.
Let us awaken and arise and act and face unshrinking each present day.
Let us know unfettered thought forsakes
The meanness we obey!
Let us know, as submission covers eyes and quakes.
That around us Truth's eternal ocean breaks
In dawn-light of a newer day!

ONLY A LITTLE—?

By G. M. LEPPER
Eyes shine a little brighter
When you come home at night,
If you say a little softer
Dear you're looking just right.
The step is a little firmer
As it brings to you a light,
And it burns a little brighter
O'er the shadows of the night.

The fingers are a little softer
As they gently stroke your brow,
And it thrills a little deeper
As they linger with you now.

The laugh is a little closer
As it greets you at the door,
If you come home a little earlier
As you promise to be fore.

The greeting is a little sweeter
For the smile tells you so,
The sky is a little brighter
In the twilight fading glow.

It will make a little easier
All the trials of the day,
When you speak a little softer
In a friendly sort of way.

The world will be a little better
If you keep that smile on longer,
And it will help a little more
Just to make someone stronger.

There will be a little less
Eyes that look hurt today,
If you mix a little kindness
With all the words you say.

It will be a little longer
Shiny tresses have to hold,
Before they change a little to
Silver threads among the gold.

We will live a little closer
When we meet beyond the shore,
Love will be a little sweeter
With hearts that we adore.

Oddities Gleaned From Day's News

External Equality
OKLAHOMA CITY, April 1.—(AP)—Gold plated badges of Oklahoma City's police sergeants have been called in to be done over in nickel. Inspector L. D. Bonette said gold badges gave some of the sergeants delusions of grandeur and caused patrolmen, sporting only nickel ones, to develop inferiority complexes for harmony.

Tax "Velvet"
TIPTON, Iowa, April 1.—(AP)—Instead of Harvey Erickson paying his taxes to the county treasurer, the county treasurer paid Erickson. Erickson's taxes, after a deduction for soldier's exemption, came to two cents. When he went to pay, the county treasurer discovered he owed Erickson a six-cent refund on his 1934 taxes. Erickson left, four cents to the good.

Blow to Moviedom
WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—Fourteen extracted teeth and a coming campaign appeared today to have barred Representative Gassaway, Oklahoma's cow boy congressman, from the movies.

A motion picture company asked him, he announced some time ago, to take a role in a picture. "I don't think I'll be able to do it," he drawled today. "You see I've just got eight teeth left after a visit to a dentist, and then I've just got to run for office. No sir, I don't believe I'll have time for Hollywood."

HITLER SUBMITS ARMISTICE PLAN

Commission of Three Men to Rule Frontier Areas Proposed to England.

BERLIN, March 31.—(AP)—A four-month "armistice" with a three-man international commission to control both the German and the French-Belgian sides of the frontier was reliably said tonight to be Adolf Hitler's counter-proposal to the Locarno powers in the Rhineland crisis. During the "negative or moral armistice" Germany would agree not to increase her Rhineland troops, but France and Belgium would have to give the same guarantee. This plan was flown to London by Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's special ambassador, for delivery to Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary. Hitler proposes that the international commission be composed of an Englishman, an Italian and a neutral, to be chosen by the English and the Italians. This commission would not only control the German side of the border to see that troops are not increased but also the French-Belgian side. The Locarno proposal of an international police force on German soil apparently was rejected. This was said to be the kernel of the long document which von Ribbentrop took to London. Hitler considers that the negotiations for a "more peaceful peace" ought to be completed within the four-month period. If not, the possibility remains open that the armistice could be extended.
