POET'S CORNER

OLD HOUSE

By WANDA ARMOUR
Dear old house, we found you
Nestled in trees and flowers
Vines climbing o'er your door
Where you smile with sunshine and showers.

Where the ghosts of old home
Lingered as of yore,
A love song, and children played
Memories live forever more.

Old and forsaken we found you
Your heart was still young and gay.
We gave you your youth in bright colors
You blossomed one perfect day.

And now you live in your beauty
Your outstretched arms welcome
all—
Enchanted by your loveliness,
Reverently we worship your home
call.
(Thought) "Clean-up week."
