Colors Gay in Smart Styles for Spring

Gail Patrick, Anne Shirley, Margaret Lindsay

One of the problems to be considered in selecting that spring outfit is to combine smartness with comfort, to select an ensemble which appears chic yet is sufficient protection against the cool days common to April and even May. Margaret Lindsay chose a charmingly gay suit for the Easter parade, warm in weight and light in color. It is of white wool kasha, trimly tailored and single-breasted. A white and brown taffeta blouse and swagger white felt hat are accessories. Another suit with a definite holiday spirit is that sported by Gail Patrick who went in for a color scheme of beige and green. The jacket and skirt are of beige wool with an angora-like finish and the silk crepe blouse is green, dotted in beige. Anne Shirley's frock is a hand-blocked print in clear pastel shades of rose and pale green accented by black. At the neck is a clever mid-victorian ruff of finely pleated chiffon.

MISS JANE WHARTON ENTERTAINS BRIDGE CLUB ON TUESDAY

The Tuesday bridge club enjoyed a delightful 1:30 o'clock dessert-luncheon this week at the Dutch Windmill in West Roseburg, after which the group was entertained by Miss Jane Wharton at contract bridge at her home.
