Memory of Senator Harry Lane, One of Six Who Voted Against U. S. Entry Into World War, to Be Honored at Willamette

SALEM, April 21.—(AP)—Willamette students and alumni tomorrow will honor memory of Senator Harry Lane, graduate of 1878, who was one of the six United States senators who refused to vote for America's entrance in the World War in April, 1917.

Today, 19 years after the death of Lane, who was a nephew of Joseph Lane, the first territorial governor of Oregon in 1849, most of the things he advocated have come to pass, university professors said. Among these are the neutrality measure, control of armament manufacture and prohibition of exportation of arms.

The history of Senator Lane and his five colleagues in 1917 is recalled during the special program on the campus. With him voting on the negative side of the war declaration were Senators J. Gronus, North Dakota; Robert M. La Follette, Sr., Wisconsin; George W. Norris, Nebraska; William J. Stone, Missouri; and James K. Vardaman, Mississippi.

When Lane was asked why he had voted against war, he was recorded as saying: "I cannot vote to throw our country into a struggle, the final results of which no one is able to foretell. This is not a war to make the world safe for democracy. It is a war to make the world safe for greed and profits. After this war there will be less democracy than ever."

Twenty-four hours after Lane made this statement, the nation was condemning Lane for his stand, speakers here tomorrow will relate. He was burnt in effigy in various parts of the country, and his mail brought threats of physical violence. A letter made public stated to him: "You will render Oregon a great and lasting service by resigning in favor of an abler representative."

Lane's death, described as coming from a broken heart, followed two weeks later when he was en route to Oregon. He died in San Francisco. Shortly before leaving Washington Lane told Senators La Follette and Norris, two of his closest friends, that he would never see them again.

Senator Norris of Nebraska said over Lane's grave, "When he was denounced by men in public life whom he loved, as an enemy to his country, it well might break his heart. The despair of his honest heart was so great and the agony of his blighted hope so severe that he never recovered his former self. I think he was satisfied with his work."

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary for the national defense council for the prevention of war, will be the main speaker on the memorial program. Student body presidents from Linfield, University of Oregon, Reed college and other institutions were invited to participate in the program.

SCHOOL MAY GET FOURTH TEACHER

SUTHERLIN, April 21.—Under a law enacted by the state legislature in 1919, the Sutherlin school board may find it incumbent to employ another teacher as a physical educational instructor for the girl students of Sutherlin high school. It is understood the board now has this matter under consideration. An additional teacher would bring the local high school faculty staff to four members.

Saturday, April 25, be set aside for clean-up days for the city of Sutherlin, and every resident will be expected to get busy and make a thorough clean-up of all garbage and junk about his premises. Residents are requested to put all rubbish in sacks and place them in the alley abutting their property or along the curb line of the street. This rubbish will be picked up by trucks furnished by the city and taken to the city dump, without cost to property owners during this specified time. If this is not done during the specified week, it will be done later under the supervision of the city marshal and a bill for the work sent to the property occupants.

George Weaver, of Myrtle Creek, spent yesterday in town attending to business.
