Rainier BEER AND ALE

LAGER!.. not just "beer"!
Rainier is more than merely "beer"—it's LAGER. Ever tasted it? The Federal definition of "lager" states that it must be aged at least 3 months. Rainier is aged longer, so it's a true lager beer. This means finer flavor without artificial flavoring; a richer, creamier head without artificial foam-producer; a sparkling, clear color without artificial coloring—therefore also a pure beer!

FOR NERVES...Leading physicians say a good, pure beer is good for nerves, digestion, sleep, complexion and body-tone. Try Rainier for 10 days for flavor; and for healthfulness, if your doctor agrees. Don't say "beer," say "Rainier" to insure the best.
