'Tinxed' Chorine Tries Comeback

Broadway's "hard luck girl," Moselle Ransome, is back on the main stem, determined to again climb the heights and confident that her run of misfortune is ended and the breaks about to come her way. Her career started when she was crowned "Miss Dallas" in 1927, and went on to the national contest at Atlantic City, winning second. She won a part in a Broadway musical but from then on she was dogged by a jinx. Her career was interrupted five times when various accidents—one caused by a stage balance weight falling on her head and another by a misstep during a dance which ended with her flying into the bass drum in the orchestra pit—each of the five sending her to the hospital. Two marriages ended on the rocks. But now she hopes to make a comeback and is back on Broadway seeking a job.
