Only Way Left.

THE fish commission has denied the request that it use its authority to close the Umpqua river to net fishing.

Neither of those statements is correct. Everyone who knows anything about the fish run in the river knows that the salmon are fast disappearing. It is absurd to say that there has been no change in the run of fish in 10 or 12 years.

It is almost equally absurd to say that only by maintaining the commercial hatchery can the river be kept stocked with fish. Before the nets were placed in the river the stream contained plenty of fish and natural propagation kept it well stocked.

There is only one way to save the fishing industry from itself, and that is to get the river closed by legislative action or by a vote of the people.

In view of this situation, the News-Review believes the only way left to save the fish resource of the Umpqua is to close the river by legislative action or by a vote of the people.

Editorials on News

long run. And it WASN'T pleasant. ON FRIDAY of this week an election in primary nominating election) will be held in Oregon.

As to that election, only two things at present stand out. One is that the ballot will be about the size of a table cloth. The other is that nobody cares (outside the candidate) what a hot what happens.

So it won't be a very exciting election, and the vote will be small. BUT don't stay at home. Primary nominating elections are a part of our system of government, and we owe it to ourselves and to our country to take an intelligent interest in them.

AT THIS primary election on Friday, Senator Charles L. McNary will come up for re-nomination by the Republicans of this state.

There are people in Oregon who profess to believe that Senator McNary may not be re-nominated this spring, and if he is that he may not be elected next fall. That is practically unthinkable. Senator McNary is probably the most influential man in the Republican party today.

WHATEVER else we do (those of us left who still register and vote as Republicans, that is) let's go to the polls on Friday and re-nominate Charlie McNary for the job of senator from Oregon.

GLEE CLUB READY FOR SPRING CONCERT

Final Rehearsal to Occur Tonight; Program for Thursday Listed.

The Roseburg Men's Glee club will hold a dress rehearsal tonight as its final practice preparatory to the annual spring concert, which will be presented at 8:15 p. m. Thursday at the senior high school auditorium.

Under the direction of Ralph Church, with Mrs. Homer Grow as accompanist, the glee club in its concert tomorrow night will sing ten numbers, which will be divided into four groups.

Miss Vivian Malone, guest artist, will play two groups of violin solos, each group consisting of three selections. She will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Henry F. English.

The program for Thursday night's concert is as follows: I. Viking Song—Cederberg-Taylor Where'er You Walk, Handel-Spruss By the Bend of the River—Edwards-Deis.

Concerto in E Minor—Mendelssohn, Andante, Allegro ma non troppo, Allegro vivace, Miss Malone

Belts at Eventide—Arr. by Black (Prelude in C# Minor—Rachmaninoff) Carol of the Russian Children—Gaul.

Romance—Wronlawski Hebra Kati—Hutay Ghost Dance—Hurlough Miss Malone

In a Persian Market—Kotelbey (Solo by Homer Nordlyke) Dedication—Franz-McLeod Taps—Club in Third Year

The Roseburg Men's Glee club, now in its third year, is made up of men of all trades and professions. It was directed for two years by John Stark Evans, professor of music at the University of Oregon.

Illness forced Mr. Evans' retirement last fall, and the directorship was taken over by Ralph Church, who had served as assistant to Mr. Evans during the first two years of organization.

The change in leadership made it impossible for the club to put on its usual fall concert, but the move provided additional time for perfecting the spring program, which will be offered tomorrow night.

The personnel of the club is as follows: First tenor, Walter Fisher, A. J. Geddes, Herbert Heink, Frank Grubbe, Homer Nordlyke, James Judd, T. G. Watson, Walter Fredrickson; second tenor, R. R. Brand, Paul Fredrickson, Noble Goette, Carl Murray, Max Fenner, George Churchhill, Dale Strang; baritone, Franklin Hoyt, Dr. Harry Single, Dr. E. C. Church, Wilbur Yastel, Robert McKean, Frank Cunningham, Harris Ellsworth, Fred Porter, Charles Brand, Dr. C. G. Van Valzah; bass, Barton Lowell, R. Livingston, Ralph Leonard, Charles Stanton, H. A. Canaday, W. D. Lave, Royd Bruton, Hugh Whipple.

Advance information on the number of 4-H club members who will be attending 4-H club summer camp, to be held on Oregon State college campus June 8 to 20, inclusive, indicates that the number is going to be more than the housing and dining facilities will accommodate. E. A. Britton, county club leader, reports.

"Since we want all 4-H club members to be properly housed and cared for while here, we are asking that no club member be sent from this county to summer school who is under 14 years of age, unless such member is a winner of a scholarship provided by state, county, or community fair or some organization. No delegate will be permitted to attend for only one week unless such member is a delegate coming on a scholarship offered by a fair or organization," the communication from the state college says.

"In order to be thoroughly organized and not waste any time, we are asking that all delegates arrive on the college campus Sunday, June 7, so that organization work may start on the morning of June 8."

LETTERS from the People

Communications to the News-Review for publication in this department should be written on only one side of the paper, should not exceed 300 words in length, and must be signed by the writer, whose mail address must accompany the contribution.

GREAT BENEFITS OF U. S. CONSTITUTION ARE CITED Editor News-Review: Recently I started a letter on the old age pension, when I received Dan Gilbert's book on the constitution. Just the piece sent my thoughts again on that wonderful document of the constitution of the United States of America. Dan Gilbert is too young a man to know anything of the much-talked-about "horse and buggy" days, but he has this to say: "The constitution was written before the days of the pony express; it has functioned well in the days of the telegraph; I have no reason to think it will not function well in the days of television."

"The constitution was framed during the time that kings 'swarmed over' and crushed the rights and liberties of the people. Now we are menaced by dictators. The constitution was necessary to make the safe in America during the age of monarchs; it is equally necessary during the age of dictators. We, who are to live in the decades ahead, will no doubt find life more swift, more complex, more involved; but we will not find it worth while without liberty. As I become more complex, the threats to freedom will become more menacing and will come from new sources and be leveled from new angles; indeed the very complexities of life will engender new dangers to liberty. The constitution in the days ahead will be doubly dear, doubly indispensable, infinitely invaluable. And we will have to defend it with redoubled vigor and vigilance."

The more I read and think of present world governments and world conditions today, the more I realize that our own U. S. A. stands out as a signal light among nations, because we alone have a constitution which provides but a single standard for government and governing.

It is everywhere a crime for a citizen to cheat the government but where, except under our constitution, is it criminal or illegal for the government to confiscate property of any kind from its citizens? Under our constitution no act of congress or state legislature may unjustly deprive any citizen or group of citizens of life, liberty or property.

Some one has said, "The constitution is made to control the government, it has no other purpose." In the light of such a statement as this, can we honestly wonder if the present administration is seeking to do away with the constitution that there shall be nothing to limit their absolute authority to control men, property and finances according to their will as is done in Russia, Germany, Italy and other countries where absolute monarchs or dictators rule.

Mr. Editor, may I follow this with another letter quoting from other eminent writers and poets? MRS. EMMA P. WORDS.

After celebrating the 71st anniversary of her marriage to her 93-year-old husband, Mrs. Richard Johnson Ogleby, also 93, of Blossom, Texas, advised any person who is young and single "not to marry."

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

Read Revelations 21:1-5

The Apostle John had a great faith in the divine power at work through all the world making for beauty and goodness and life. He had faith that some day a holy city would appear among men, but he was not quite sure as to how it would come about. It will never be at all until you and I and thousands of other Christian men help to build it. It will be built after a heavenly pattern, but by earthly hands guided and motivated by a divine inspiration and guidance. Amen.

Oddities Gleaned From Day's News

Newt Rightly Named

STUART, Fla., May 13.—(AP)—Catching rattlesnakes with his bare hands isn't so difficult, says Newt Chase, Martin county farmer and tapper. Chase says he makes a couple of passes with his hands, presumably during the act of disking, and then looking it in the eye, grabs it just back of the head.

Our best guesses are for Upside Downs.

These tips should bring home the gravy this Saturday. When writing to advertisers please forget our name.

We resume our Saturday morning racing tips for the twentieth straight season. We have satisfied and opulent clients in every poorhouse in the country.

We didn't try to guess 'em at Miami last winter because things got mixed up. The whippets got tired of fresh rabbit and started chasing the hoeses.

NEW ACTIVITY PLAN AT O.S.C. LAUNCHED

CORVALLIS, Ore., May 13.—(AP)—Oregon State's new activity setup took form today with the announcement that Percy Looney, coach at Denver university, will become director of educational student activities next fall.

The position was created when recent action was taken to separate intercollegiate athletics from activities such as publications, music, lecture, dramatics and forensics.

President George Peavy was expected to announce his decision as to the handling of athletics today. Special committees named to determine whether athletics should be maintained separately or placed under the department of physical education failed to reach an agreement.

Looney, who was graduated from Oregon State and the University of California departments of business administration, will teach part-time in the business administration school here and spend the remainder of his time in the dean of men's office as the new director of educational activities. He is to join the Oregon State staff July 1.

YOUTH SLAYS BRIDE DURING QUARREL

SANTA ANA, Calif., May 12.—(AP)—Natividad Valenzuela, 24, was arrested today accused of budgeting to death his 17-year-old bride, Jovita. Chief Criminal Deputy Merle Doan said Valenzuela confessed hitting her three times with an automobile jack. The American-born Mexican, said the officers, claimed his wife forgave him as she lay dying in a drainage ditch, and told him to run away. Valenzuela told the officer that after he hit his wife, rolling her into the ditch, he ran to her side and told her he was sorry. He said they had quarreled because he refused to take her to a dance.
