AT CAMP BRADFORD
Thirty men from this camp were sent Friday to Camp Diamond lake where the company will be located for the summer. They will prepare the camp for occupation. The entire company will be transferred by the middle of June, providing weather conditions permit. Considerable snow still remains on the highway leading to Diamond lake. Robert Mercer, of the Umpqua National forest, reports the using of a snowplow to open the main road. A fire squad of forty men, composed of enrollees from Camp Sitkaum and McKinley will occupy Camp Bradford during the summer season. Paul Perry, forestry foreman, will be in charge of the group.

Robert Clew, Marvin Brode and D. L. Houghtaling, WPA teachers, who have been with this camp since last fall, will go to Diamond lake with the company. A high grade recreational program will be carried on at the camp during the summer, featuring music, orchestra work, botany, zoology, forestry, athletics of all types, woodworking and hobbies. Captain C. D. Wallace has arranged to purchase two rowboats for use of the men.

Dan E. Flouman, Salem, state administrator of CCC camps in state forests, inspected Camp Bradford Friday.

Mrs. Stella Quinn, Roseburg, and H. L. Meyer, Marshfield, supervisor of adult education for Douglas and Coos counties, respectively, were visitors to camp Monday.

"Just imagine"—stopping your car in fix a spark plug and when you lift your hood a hawk drops a two foot snake which lights on your hot engine and burrs off that to wind himself around your fan belt—well it happened to a tourist while he was making the adjustment of his spark plug, in front of this camp Sunday—yes we smiled his breath—and ours also.

The Bradford Ducks won their second baseball game of the season Sunday by defeating the Steamboat Nines 5 to 3.

Having just recently arrived from Missouri, the Steamboat team presented one of the strongest lineups of ex-ball players to be seen in any of the camps, and only by sensational pitching by Donald Way and the support of every member of his team was victory assured.

Hooker, pitching for Steamboat, struck out thirteen men, while Way secured eight. Steamboat made six hits and Bradford seven. Catcher Moser of the Ducks ran well back behind the backstop to pull down a foul fly and Henderson and Kreeger made long running catches of field flies. Hooker, Tyson and Evans, hard-hitting Steamboat Nines collected most of the safeties secured off of Way.

Game summary:
R. H. F.
Mules 000 001 002—3 6 2
Ducks 009 220 007—7 7 2

Batteries: Steamboat, Hooker and Plumb; Bradford, Way and Moser.
