LONDON SETS FORTH REPUBLICAN AIMS

Party Stands for Balance Between U. S. Govt. and States, He Says.

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)—

Governor Landon of Kansas, in the Redbook Magazine for July, says the republican party enters the 1936 campaign "definitely in defense of the rightful powers of the states."

"The policies enunciated by Abraham Lincoln and by Theodore Roosevelt are not mere memories," says the article, made public yesterday.

"They are inspirations, and they are more. They are definite signposts to a never-ending progress."

"One reason for this quality of theirs—and the main reason—is that they do not point to extremes. They point to courses of steady common sense and to a poised balance, for instance, between the powers of the federal government and the powers of the states."

"The republican party enters the campaign of 1936 definitely in defense of the rightful powers of the states. Its inheritance is of scrupulous deference to those rights within all the amplitude provided by the constitution."

G. O. P. Never Dictator.

Reviewing republican platforms since the time of Abraham Lincoln, the article said:

"The republican party did not flinch from the exercise of national authority for the protection of the national rights of the nation. Never, however, did it seek to submerge and annihilate the rights of those same citizens as citizens of their state."

"Never did it seek to extinguish local self-government and to impose upon its ruins an omnipotent dictatorship from Washington. Its policy in this matter left the states still the laboratories of experiment and the fertile nurseries of innovation."

Individualism Hit.

Discussing Theodore Roosevelt's opposition to "malefactors of great wealth," the article said:

"Theodore Roosevelt called them 'malefactors' because through monopolistic practices they produced restraints of trade which burdened the consumers with oppressive prices and which stifled individual new effort and new accomplishment for the common good."

"What Theodore Roosevelt denounced as a crime, we have recently seen elevated by the National Recovery administration to a virtue. We have seen individual effort and accomplishment derided and discouraged, and a code of monopoly not only condoned but legalized."

The article is headed "by Gov. Alfred M. Landon as told to William Hard." A note explains it was written after talks with the Governor at Topeka.

Episcopal Church—Roseburg, St. George's. Holy communion, 7:30 and 11:00 a. m. Sutherland, Ascension, holy communion 9:00 a. m.

M. E. Church, E. B. Lockhart, minister. "More Things Are Wrought by Prayer Than This World Knows of," will be the pastor's sermon topic at the morning service. "Angels or Devils," will be discussed at the 8 o'clock night service. Bible school at 9:45. Epworth league at 7 p. m. The public cordially invited.

First Baptist Church, J. R. Turnbull, pastor. 9:45 a. m. Bible school. Harry Howe, superintendent. Classes for all ages of both sexes. 11 a. m. morning worship. (Broadcast over KRNR). Story for boys and girls. Solo, Mrs. Joseph Deets. Sermon, "The Promised Redeemer." 7. Senior and Junior B. Y. P. union, 8 evening service. Ten-minute bright "hymn sing." Five-minute cartoon talk. Monday, 9, daily vacation Bible school begins. Classes for all from beginners to high school ages.

BRADFORD CREW TO GO TO DIAMOND LAKE

The members of company 979, now occupying Bradford CCC camp at Rock Creek, near the Douglas-Cook county line, will be transferred next week to Diamond Lake to work on development of recreational facilities and the eastern end of the North Umpqua road.

The company, composed entirely of Oregon men, was originally organized in eastern Oregon and was one of the first in the state under the CCC organization. Present members are recruited principally from Roseburg, Medford, Portland and Marshfield.

An outstanding record for road building, fire fighting and educational work has been made.

It is rumored the company will occupy Camp Rand next fall after completing the season at Diamond Lake.

MARKETS

WOOL

BOSTON, June 5.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The wool movement has persisted steadily this week, although there does not appear to have been quite the snap to the market that was in evidence a week ago and in some ways there is evidence of a slackening of interest."

CANADIANS BATTLE RAMPAGING WATER

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 5.—(AP)—Efforts to save the main dyke at Agassiz, on the north side of the Fraser river, 70 miles north of here, were abandoned today as the swollen river broken through in one place.

Workmen leaving the dyke said they feared the entire dyke would be washed out soon.

A line of 5,000 sandbags, thrown up two miles below the town, helped divert the waters from rich farm lands lower in the Fraser valley.

The workers at Agassiz said the town itself was not in any danger, although residents of some houses in the lower part probably would have to leave.

Unusually warm weather which melted glacial snows caused floods to spread into Alaska and Yukon territory. The mining town of Tuleagueh, 50 miles northeast of Juneau, was flooded. Land was under water a quarter of a mile from each side of the river banks at the junction of the Tuleagueh and Taku rivers.

The mining town of Mayor, 125 miles southeast of Dawson, Y. T., was reported flooded, with residents vacating homes and stores. Communication was cut off except by plane and river steamer, when the Canadian signal corps radio station was flooded.

Other towns and villages between Whitehorse and Dawson were threatened by streams and rivers leaving their banks.

No loss of life was reported in the Yukon territory. Steamers went from Stewart, on the Stewart river, to remove persons driven from their homes.

Andrew Ekron, railway employe, drowned in debris-choked waters near Prince George, B. C., yesterday.

British Columbia officials estimated the damage to date at close to $300,000, which did not include losses in isolated areas.
