TOWNSENDITE MEET
OPENS IN CLEVELAND

ed for the five-day session. Of this number about 5,000 were "voting delegates" and the rest recalled visiting delegates.

Control at issue
A convention floor battle was in prospect over an announced draft revision of the organization set up which considerably curbed the authority of the movement's founder, Dr. Townsend.

State managers said they believed control of the board of directors should be given them instead of "to citizens maxim," a national advisory board composed of one member from each state, named at Townsend state conventions.

Dr. Townsend nodded assent from time to time and corrected others as the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, self-styled leader of the share-the-wealth forces of the late Senator Huey P. Long, read the plan to newsmen.

The original board was appointed by the movement's founder and enlarged by vote of the board. A total of 15 persons would comprise the new board, which at present has a membership of 11. The corporate name of the organization, the Old Age Revolving Pension, Ltd., would give way to the Townsend Recovery Plan, Inc.

How Will They Vote?
Politics vied with pensions for delegates' interest since one of the principal questions expected to be answered by the convention was how the Townsend family would vote in the coming elections.

Frank Arbuckle of Los Angeles was named permanent chairman by acclamation after three other candidates selected by the nominating committee withdrew.

They were: Sheridan Downey, Dr. Townsend's personal counsel; Dr. Clinton Wunder of New York, and Representative Smith, the temporary chairman.

Third Party Opposed
Meanwhile, a movement opposing any merger of the Townsend forces with a third party was set on foot by 40 members of the Florida delegation. The Minnesota delegation followed suit.

Dr. Townsend spoke against a Townsend third party this year, declaring "it is out of the question as far as I'm concerned. But eventually a third party is the only solution in this country. After the November elections we Townsendites can begin definitely thinking of one."

Among the officially stated "great objectives" of the convention is "to put the full strength of the Townsend movement into the coming national election" and "to give final endorsement and full support in a totally non-partisan way to the approved candidates for congressmen and senators."

Candidates on the "approved" list were to be announced sometime before the convention closes Sunday.
