Modern tourist camp

Trailer interior

Increasing thousands are solving their depression housing problems by selling their homes, buying auto trailers, and living on the road. It is estimated that more than 100,000 "nomads" are now roaming the highways in such fashion. Besides avoiding the responsibility of property and the expense of upkeep, the trailer enables a family to move to locations where working conditions are better. Manufacturers of trailers are booked to capacity for six months ahead. Modern tourist camps have catered to them by providing electricity and water lines to which the trailer may be connected temporarily.

Roseburg News-Review
Roseburg, Oregon

Dear Sirs:

It is with considerable enthusiasm that we are able to write you about the results from our advertising campaign in your area, where we purchase space in your newspaper regularly throughout the year.

Constant gains in the business of our Roseburg branch plant, under the management of Mr. T. M. Snyder, have fully justified our investments in plant and stations.

As you know, we have more than one brand of gasoline. Our MOBILGAS, the only one advertised, is now leading our non-advertised brand in Roseburg district by the margin of more than FIVE to ONE, which is a very pronounced record in favor of an advertised product. Our MOBILLOIL, also advertised in the News-Review, is showing remarkable gains in volume.

Results show us two things: Advertising in your long-established, progressive publication is a paying investment. Roseburg is one of the best cities for business in Southern Oregon.

In these facts you may take justifiable pride.

Yours very truly,
