Fishing Conditions in Umpqua National Forest Good, Forestry Bulletin Says; Don't Forget Fire-Fighting Outfit

Fishing conditions in all parts of the Umpqua National forest, except the Bohemia district, are excellent, according to the weekly bulletin issued from local headquarters as a guide for week-end vacationists. The bulletin, issued today by Robert D. McClay, acting supervisor, is as follows: Diamond Lake district: Fly fishing at Diamond Lake is now better than at any time so far this year, with spider, grey hackle and black-gnat flies being used principally. Frowning is just fair. Stream fishing in this district is excellent with flies or bait. The streams have reached their summer level. All roads and trails in the district have been maintained and are in excellent shape. It is possible to drive to Cinnamon butte, Elephant mountain, Kelsay mountain and Kelsay point lookouts where excellent views of the surrounding country can be had. Camp fire permits are required at all forest camps in the Diamond Lake district except at the Diamond Lake camp grounds.
