The Office Girl

Big business looms before this office girl. Her diminutive ear is attuned to the siren song of stock tickers, auditor's reports and dividend battles. Too pretty to be wasted on this critical world she brings to the commercial arena a new joy—one as irresistible as the florist's morning bouquet enhancing the stimulation of sheer living for the tired executive whose jangled nerves need reviving.

Make no mistake about it, this dainty miss knows more about the Wheels of Industry than her blasé application of lipstick would indicate and her pretty curls are hiding a young wholesome brain which will yield dividends. She is making her way in this world and that way is going to be a Royal Road to success. Courage and fortitude have been taught her and she is ready for the high goal of achievement.
