The Outdoor Girl

This young American spends as much of her time as possible out of doors, swimming, riding, playing tennis and driving a car. Sometimes she even pilots a plane. Sunshine and fresh air keep her clear eyed, clear skinned and so, of course, the world applauds her for beauty and grace of figure. Incidentally there is no more alert and mentally active girl in the world than this one.

The young lady is as scrupulous in every phase of her activities as she is in her games. Her motto is FAIR PLAY, and she has the courage to face life and take the bitter with the sweet, accepting her troubles with a smile. Admitting her mistakes, she profits by them. She has attained the ideal for which the ancient Greeks reached—a healthy body, a healthy mind. Strong, valiant, lovely is this typical American girl!
