

TWO ON DEPOE BAY TROLLER DROWNED

NEWPORT, Ore., Oct. 6.—(AP)—An isolated reef near Depoe bay was the graveyard today of the fishing troller Carrol Lou and its crew of two men.

The Carrol Lou put out Sunday to fish and to search for the missing troller Norwester, which arrived in port safely Monday.

The two victims of the rough seas were Hoy Bower, operator of the Carrol Lou, whose body was found in the rigging, and Jack Chambers. The latter, who had donned a life preserver, was found on the sands nearby. Both were residents of Depoe Bay, 15 miles north of Newport.

Bower was the son of Bertha Muzzy Sinclair-Cowan, author of the "Chip of the Flying U" and other well-known western tales.

Mrs. Sinclair-Cowan wrote under the pen name of H. M. Bower. The writer lives at Depoe Bay.

BANDON FINANCIAL SURVEY PLANNED

PORTLAND, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A survey of Bandon's financial condition will be completed and presented to the various federal agencies as preliminary to offers of material assistance from the government.

This step was determined yesterday at a meeting of federal officials. Brigadier General Thomas E. Rilea was reported in Salem today conferring with the governor in connection with the proposed survey.

Edgar Freed, Oregon director of the national emergency council, outlined the following major relief phases:

1. First aid, already undertaken by the Red Cross.
2. Construction of a temporary town before winter.
3. A long range program for permanent rehabilitation.

Freed said the job of setting up temporary buildings was a project for the WPA.

BEQUEST OPENED TO PUBLIC LIBRARY

Monthly requisitions by the city library board for money from the George W. Kimball fund have been authorized by the city council, in planning the administration of the $2,000 bequest.

Under provisions of the will of the late G. W. Kimball, the sum of $2,000 was bequeathed to the Roseburg public library, but it was expressly provided that the money should be administered by the city council. As library activities are handled by a special board appointed for that purpose, the provisions contained in the will requiring the fund to be handled by the council offered a minor complication.

As now arranged, however, the library board is authorized to estimate its needs in advance and to requisition money from the fund monthly or as often as needed.

The money has been placed in a special fund. It can be used only for the purchase of books.

EASTERN OREGON WOOL CLIP SOLD

PORTLAND, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Prineville Land and Livestock company's wool clip, estimated at about 80,000 pounds, has been purchased by J. B. Stanfield of Portland.

The personal holdings of Leo Hahn, executive of the Prineville concern, also were sold.

Price obtained was not made public, but was understood to be around 28 cents a pound, the Journal said in commenting that "the market, therefore, has come back 2 to 3 cents a pound."

"The Journal also said "the sale, along with continued strength in the foreign markets, gives assurance of more activity during the remainder of the year with some possibility of contract writing around current levels at least."

Pulpit Moratorium

The Rev. Dr. Frederic S. Fleming, of Trinity Church, New York City, urges a complete moratorium on preaching for one or two years in his 28-page annual statement. Dr. Fleming says such a moratorium would "bring salvation to the world and strengthen the Christian church."

TEAMSTERS UNION LIKENED TO CANCER

PORTLAND, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The teamsters union was blamed by Horace Muehlen, president of the industrial relations association, for what he termed a "strangle hold" on the transportation business of Portland.

Muehlen, addressing the association yesterday at its annual meeting, said: "Most of the unions are disposed to be law abiding, but the cancer in the labor temple is the teamsters union. The teamsters and the longshoremen are in a position, except for constituted authorities, to tie up transportation of the city."

The group announced it would sponsor two bills at the next session of the legislature. One would provide that no strike can be legally called until the dispute has been placed before the state board of conciliation. The other would make unions legally responsible for their acts.
